Meyera Oberndorf

The lady on the council

Meyera is just being Meyera Oberndorf

By JOAN COATES
SUN Editor

Meyera Oberndorf is a lady who likes to speak her mind. As a member of the Virginia Beach city council, she's been accused of grandstanding, headline hunting and, more recently, leaking stories to the press. But according to Mrs. Oberndorf, she's just being herself.

"I've always been Meyera Oberndorf and I'll always be Meyera Oberndorf," she said. "I guess it depends on how they look at it. I'm bouncy, bubbly, vivacious...and very open. And I have a trust in the human race. I couldn't serve if I had to walk around thinking everyone was an enemy."

The Beach resident who resides in Kempsville with her husband, Roger, and two daughters, Marjie and Heidi, feels communication has been a problem for her on the council.

"There is a tension and reluctance among us to have a very open council," she noted. "There's differences in political philosophies. I'm comfortable with opposition and can be loyal and proud of the city but can still have different decisions and approaches."

"I feel the greatest thing is for a person to serve in the public arena."

Mrs. Oberndorf, who feels that the public has a right to know "what they're paying for," ran for council after encouragement from friends and family while serving as a volunteer on the Virginia Beach Library board.

"A number of people said why don't you get involved in the decision making end...your talent lies in that field."

she explained. "It was a big step but I've never regretted it."

"I feel the greatest thing is for a person to serve in the public arena."

Between her roles of mother, wife and councilwoman, Mrs. Oberndorf sees her life as a perfect merger. "I'm a very involved mother," she said. "We waited five years before we had children and they were born moving. They've never known anything else."

She said that her notoriety has not really affected her daughters' lives. "I'm always careful to remind them that we are all people," she said. "They have moments like everyone else, but they are super children. Very supportive in whatever I'm involved in."

And the girls are very involved, too. Marjie, 12, is involved in theatre at the Department of Parks and Recreation. And both help mother with keeping her appointments straight.

The few spare minutes that Mrs. Oberndorf finds, is spent reading a book.

"People are my hobby," she said. "And consequently, all my time is spent meeting with people."

"We're like an adolescent. The body is growing so fast that the clothes don't fit. And our appetite is enormous."

She feels controlled moderation in city planning is what the Beach needs.

"We need more people construction...before more land is reamed for high density," she said.

Sufficient roads, sewers and highways are what she feels Virginia Beach needs first.

The direction of Virginia Beach's growth is a problem that the citizens should hear about, according to Mrs. Oberndorf.

"The people are sovereign," she said. "The elected officials are the servants who get the power from the people."

"Therefore we have to have an informed public so we can know what the legislature can do."

"As an elected official, I feel I have my rights. I will not give up my right to freedom of speech. Since the public winds up paying the bill...I don't feel they should without knowing what they are paying for... she emphasized.

Mrs. Oberndorf considers the public trust a delicate and fragile thing and wants to reinforce a positive attitude toward the elected official.

"Each day I work, is an investment to it," she said. "Whatever the public deserves (as far as my future), I'll leave it to them. Right now, I'm doing the very best I can."

Vacation home goes fast, with SUN classified ads

A vacation home in Martinsville is now a secure shelter for a new family since Mrs. Virginia Hall of Virginia Beach sold it through the Virginia Beach SUN classified ads.

"I've been familiar with the paper for over 25 years and I've always enjoyed it," Mrs. Hall told the SUN.

"I've received terrific results from previous ads."

"So naturally when I wanted to sell my vacation home I turned to the SUN ads."

Flight path zoned residential

By LEE CAHILL
Public Affairs Writer

New support from citizens failed to win additional adherents to the Navy's stand against allowing residential construction in a noise zone.

As a result, Virginia Beach City Council Monday afternoon rescinded a 72-acre parcel, directive under the main flight path of the Naval Air Station Oceana, from I-1 Light Industrial District to R-8 Residential District.

Grover Wright, attorney for the property owners, Harry and Viola Richmond, assured council that the deeds to the homes constructed there would include the fact that they were in Noise Zone three. The designation of the area is made in the Navy's Air Implementation Compatible Use Zone study which delineates the areas surrounding the Navy's airfields according to the extent of danger or noise involved.

The matter was first before council last week, but a 4-4 tie vote moved the council to defer the petition for one week. The vote was still four against the rezoning, but the three additional councilmen present all voted for the rezoning.

The property on the west side of London Bridge Road, south of South Adventure Trail, Lynnhaven Borough, was zoned R-8 in 1966 when it contained 77 acres from A-R Agricultural District. Five acres were conveyed to the city, Wright said.

Wright said that the property was zoned industrial in 1976 when the city's Comprehensive Zoning Ordinance went into effect, and that his clients, who live in Connecticut, were not aware of the change at the time.

He said that property to the northwest, Cheltenham Square, was rezoned from RD2 to R-8 in 1960 and Nottingham Estates was rezoned from RS 8 to R-4 in 1964.

She also reminded council that "two airmen chose to die rather than crash into Magic Hollow."

He said that the Navy did not oppose residential development in these two subdivisions.

Capt. Marvin G. McCanna Jr., of Oceana, said that the Navy did oppose the development of Nottingham Estates.

Councilman John A. Baum remarked that if the AICUZ study meant anything, it meant that the boundaries of Oceana were not adequate and then suggested that the Navy purchase the land so that owners would get just

Fight against ERA fight for American freedom

By RHONDA MILLER
SUN Staff Writer

Heart lifts Mary Barraco beyond the realm of man, to the realm of woman.

Spirit carries her past the squabbles of American politics, through Nazi prison camps to the horizon of human freedom.

Necessity leads her through Virginia Beach schools, churches, civic groups to national crusades against the Equal Rights Amendment.

"The man is the head of the house and I am the heart."

"I love all this," she smiles above outstretched arms that encircle shining silver and crystal, 29 years of enjoying cooking for "my Joe," plaques and trophies of recognition from all over the country (including presidents) and the world, a constantly ringing telephone ("It might be the hospital calling for me to help someone out"), and a concentration that makes every moment fall.

"I earned all this and I didn't do it with the Equal Rights Amendment," comes along with a humbleness that acknowledges her place on earth as a gift of The Creator.

Spirituality trails from roots entrenched in solid legal knowledge of the Equal Rights Amendment, stacks of reading material, conferences with legal experts, and a memory that recalls details of events related to the ERA in New York and Ohio.

Mary Barraco

"The passage of the ERA could destroy our country...a self-out of part of our liberty...a move toward a centralized government."

She quotes Senator Sam Ervin of North Carolina, concerning Section 2 of the ERA (The Congress shall have the power to enforce, by appropriate legislation, the provisions of this article): "...it will come near to abolishing the states of this union to meaningless shroes on the nation's map...it will transfer virtually all the legislative power of government from the states to Congress...the federal system which contemplates an indestructible union composed of indestructible states, as it is now established by all the provisions of the Constitution, will be substantially destroyed..."

Mrs. Barraco has known the working world through her work as a supervisor in purchasing at the naval base in Norfolk, GEICO, a Massachusetts mill, as a singer, and in community service.

She believes in equal pay for equal work, as most people do, but also sees that as a superficial issue covering the real dangers that come with the ERA.

A prisoner in a Nazi concentration camp during World War II, Mrs. Barraco was sterilized and "denied the most beautiful gift God could have given me."

She has taught her adopted daughter Rita to respect men through her own respect of her husband, and living testimony that, "The man is the head of the house and I am the heart."

An example of why she is against more federal government power as she sees coming if the ERA is ratified is abortion.

"I never thought the American people would allow abortion."

She wears a bracelet inscribed with a "circle of life," and the date Jan. 22, 1973, which marks a significant time in America's loss of respect for life.

She attended the International Women's Year convention in Richmond and says she saw lesbians at work there the way she had seen them at work in the concentration camp. "If the Virginia women at the IWY meeting were a preview of what's to come if the ERA is ratified, then God help us."

"If the Virginia women at the IWY meeting were a preview of what's to come if the ERA is ratified, then God help us."

Mary Barraco uses all her physical, mental and spiritual energies to work for what she believes is right.

In recognition of this work, she has received many awards, including: Most Outstanding Hidden Heroine by the Girl Scouts; Outstanding Catholic Layperson by the Knights of Columbus; Mrs. U. S. Savings Bond; 1976 Bicentennial Patriot by the National Seafarers; George Washington Freedom Foundation award.

She has been included in many volumes of outstanding people, including: Who's Who in the World of Women, Who's Who in the World in Community Service, Who's Who in the World of Intellectuals.

Noise pollution shakes fish

When the fish tank starts shaking, it's time for action to be taken.

Rhonda Miller

SUN Staff Writer

The earth had been shaking for 10 minutes, causing the house and the whole north end of the Beach to shake in time with the explosive noises that seemed to herald doom (or at least the coming of an earthquake to Virginia Beach). The grays of a rainy winter afternoon added to the need to find out if, indeed, this was a crisis.

A jump to the telephone and a major effort to control shaking fingers resulted in a call to Fort Story answered by a voice whose calmness indicated that the earth was not on the brink of falling into the ocean.

"What noise, ma'am? At the north end of the Beach? Could be someone on maneuvers. I'll check and see. Bye."

The telephone receiver dangled. Driven by curiosity and fear of a tidal wave, action struck again.

"...mad dialing...
"Yes, there were some sort of maneuvers up here at Dam Neck this afternoon, but they're not going on any longer. Maybe they moved up the coast. I'll see if I can find out what it was."

Isn't the whole north end in a state of panic? ...Don't people hear any more?
...more mad dialing...
"Fort Story, did you find out what those terrible loud noises were?"
"We didn't find anything, ma'am. No one is out on maneuvers. I checked with the gate guard."
Maybe it's those creatures from space finally hitting town. Someone's got to know.
...more mad dialing...
"Police? Can you tell me what all those explosions are at the north end of the Beach? My fish are going into traumatic shock."

"Can you tell me what all those explosions are at the north end of the Beach?"

"I believe the people at Dam Neck are doing some target shooting or something."

"Hello, Dam Neck, please tell me what those horrendous noises are that are rattling my fish tank."
"You mean those noises that sound like bombs going off?"
"Yes, what are they?"
"I don't really know. We don't hear anything down at this end."

SUN must go with regrets

Editor, Virginia Beach SUN:

It is with regret that I am going to have to let my subscription expire at the end of the current run.

I do want to thank you for the care and concern shown me in the past via correspondence.

I also want to encourage and congratulate you on your fine publication. Keep up the good work. Your newspaper has a fine quality of "humanism" that so many publications miss. It's like "family."

However I must start to cut back on expenses in our household and thus the distant paper must go.

We do try to make a yearly new days visit to Virginia Beach and while there will of course pick up your publication in the summer.

Baum bombs for SUN reader

Editor, Virginia Beach SUN:

When an elected official spearheads a group of councilmen who privately agree with him about muzzling his fellow Elected officials, HE HAS GONE TOO FAR.

Pressure by Mr. Baum on the media must not be taken lightly. I would like to remind Mr. Baum that our forefathers fought long and hard for the rights and privileges of FREE SPEECH AND A FREE PRESS.

We must not revert to a time when kings and self-appointed kings ruled incompetently. As a famous President stated "If you can't stand the heat get out of the kitchen." The rights of FREE SPEECH AND A FREE AND UNCONTROLLED PRESS must be upmost in our minds.

An elected councilman MUST NOT be allowed to exert pressure to muzzle the media. Whenever a reporter is Freedom... for a whale and a city

It was a whale of a story.
A 20-foot, 200-pound whale washed up on the beach at Rudee Inlet last week.

A makeshift sling was slipped around the whale and he swam back out to sea. Freedom regained.
But only after he fought it. He had to be pointed in the right direction before he took his leave.

He was watching out for his freedom. But he didn't know how much way to turn.

The citizens of Virginia Beach are in much the same predicament as the whale who landed on our shores. Freedom...and how to get it.

Inside the Capitol

by Beach Delegate Glenn B. McClanahan

Governor John N. Dalton appealed to the 1978 General Assembly to "Keep Virginia moving forward on the high road of progress and prosperity, of more efficient government, not just more expensive government."

There were no major innovations recommended and no real surprises in the new Republican governor's first legislative message.

I am happy that there is adequate funding to meet the state's needs and no prospect of a tax increase, which I would oppose. Additional General fund money amounting to nearly $20 million, resulting from earlier calculation errors, can be made available for additional appropriations.

The two top priorities for the use of this money suggested by Governor Dalton are new penal facilities in the medium security range to prepare for an expected sharp rise in the prison population and assuring state employees of cost-of-living raises.

Former Governor Godwin's proposed budget would provide a cost-of-living raise to state employees during the first year of the 1978-80 biennium and Dalton expressed hope that money can be found in the budget to provide a similar pay hike in the second year of the biennium.

In the administration and finance of state government,

Information flows...but to where?
The water flows...and brings the whale to the water's edge.

"He was skinned up from where he had been flapping around all night on the beach."

How close is Virginia Beach to the water's edge when elected officials are afraid to let the taxpayers know how they're money is being spent?

Virginia Beach is a young city, looking for right directions to follow. Can the answer be to runaround and stop from facing opposition, the free flow of ideas, and differing philosophies?

The Coast Guard saved the backwards whale. He was skinned up from where he had been flapping around all night on the beach.

Can Virginia Beach afford to get skinned up from even one night of capture?

New cities too swiftly turn into the old and corrupt. The whale found his direction. Can we?

The Town Crier

It's a Beach bottleneck

Dear Town Crier:

What can be done about the bottleneck at Witchduck Road and Virginia Beach Blvd.?

TEXT bus heading toward Virginia Beach. Instead of stopping at the stop light to unload or load passengers, goes through the corner and stops just past Witch Duck causing cars headed to the Beach to stop behind the bus. This causes a traffic tie up.

If the light is red when the bus stops, no one can move on Witch Duck for the cars stopped behind the bus.

I got caught in this situation.

Are drivers hot rods?

Dear Town Crier:

Who drives our school buses? Are they a bunch of hot rods?

I was on the corner of Rosemont Road and Holland Road stopped at the light, when the school bus came from Holland and turned on to Rosemont Road.

The buses looked as if they were going to tip over because of the speed turning the corner.

If any kids were standing there, they would have been knocked down.

Civic groups search for room

By LEE CAHILL
SUN Public Affairs Writer

The Virginia Beach Council of Civic organizations is looking for a place to meet.

The council isn't out on the street. Members, about 77 on the average, are currently using facilities at Tidewater Community College.

Mrs. Mable McClanahan said the only problem here is "getting in and out."

The council meets at 7:30 p.m. when the exodus from meetings seems to be in full swing.

Mrs. McClanahan said that churches are out because the league meets on Wednesday nights when churches usually have activities.

School auditoriums are too large, although the group has met at Plaza Junior high school.

The room which the council used originally at the Atlantic Permanent Building on Independence Boulevard has been converted to another use.

Why not the Kemperville Recreation Center?

Mrs. McClanahan said that before the building was constructed, "We were told there would be room for community groups, that we would have room to keep scout equip-

She said she thought community groups should have some consideration, but when a member looked into the possibility of meeting there he was discouraged.

Center manager John Giles, who is no longer with the center, said that the center was not encouraging people to meet there on a regular basis.

Besides, McClanahan said, the league would have had to pay $25 fee and a $25 deposit she thought was a little steep for a civic group.

So she turned to the city council chambers as a possible meeting place.

When presented with the prospect Monday afternoon councilman George R. Forrell remarked that "some people might want to have church meetings there."

Councilman Robert B. Cromwell remarked, "I thought that was why we built the (recreation) center."

Councilman J. Henry McCoy Jr., said that some civic groups are not using the center because it is too expensive.

City manager George L. Hanbury was instructed to look into the policies of the center in regard to providing meeting space for civic organizations.

Beach plans for marine museum

SUN Public Affairs Writer

The proposed Virginia Beach Museum of Marine Sciences would be the largest science museum in the state, whichever of two sites under consideration is selected.

City Council and the school board, in a joint session Monday morning, were presented plans for the museum by architects and planners

Johnson Hotvedt Di Nisco and Associates Inc., of Boston.

The master plan uses a site at Seashore State Park where the cost of the complex, scheduled for opening in the early part of 1981, would be $4.4 million.

An alternate plan, using the Dome, would cost $1.5 million, mostly because the building is already available.

The planners, however, report that using the Dome would narrow the scope of the museum (it's less than two-thirds the required area in the master plan) and limits expansion or the use of outdoor programs in a natural site.

The planners recommend that use of the Dome should be only an interim measure.

Funding sources listed in the planners' report include Coastal Plains funding by the Federal government of $100,000 to $150,000; contributions from private groups, $25,000 to $50,000; interim funding from the school board and city council, $50,000 to $75,000; general obligation bonds and revenue bonds, $4,500,000 to $4,600,000 and General Fund raising $250,000 to $500,000.

Once the Museum is open, the planners say, the operation of the facility will be supported by general admission fees ($4.95, $1.74 to $7.23, $7.4), gift shop profits ($55,000 to $86,626), tuition for education programs ($20,000 - $30,000), membership program, ($15,000 - $25,000), business memberships and contributions ($20,000 - $30,000), special shows ($10,000 - $25,000), private contributions ($15,000 - $30,000), foundation grants ($15,000 - $25,000).

None of the projected

$565,675 in operating revenues would be requested from the city or state.

With the Dome plan three living habitat environments would have to be eliminated and the total exhibition area would be reduced from 25,000 square feet to 13,000 square feet.

Citizens lose zoning fight

compensation.

"You're talking about 12,000 acres or more outside your boundaries...It's not right to ask the city government to use its zoning powers."

Captain McCanna said that the Navy owns 5400 acres at Oceana and that another 8100 outside are affected. He said it was not to anyone's advantage for the Navy to secure the lands. The cost would have to be paid with the public's taxes and the property would be taken off the tax list, he said.

Mrs. Martha Kessler said that the Richmonds may be elderly," as Wright claimed, but that she couldn't believe they were unaware. She said Richmond is a successful developer in Connecticut.

She said the city bought 4,184 acres from the Richmonds in Aug. 1, 1976 for $27,500 or $6,572 an acre rather than the assessed $1500 an acre. She said that as a tax payer she objected that the property was not assessed properly for taxes, and that there had been no appraisal. She said the Richmonds had been approached by the Industrial Development Authority to sell parts of the site.

She said the city should consider the Little Neck-Lynnhaven development plan and the AICUZ study and deny the rezoning.

Wright said that the Industrial Authority wanted a 15-year option without paying the owners anything.

Councilman John Griffin said that Council had "some responsibility to the people who buy homes."

F. E. Taylor, who said he was a Pungo farmer who worked at Oceana, reminded council that Capt. John Forbes, then commanding officer of Oceana, pleaded that Council not rezone the area which is now Magic Hollow. Since Magic Hollow has been developed, most of the complaints about noise have come from there. He said the residents even circulated a petition once to get the Navy to stop flying planes there.

He pointed out that the Oceana drops $10 million a year in Virginia Beach. President Carter's administration is talking about cutting back, he said. The other East Coast major jet base is in Florida.

"If we continue to have homes built, there won't be room enough to accommodate the citizens and Oceana (the Florida base) would have the advantage."

Mrs. Reba McClannan, president of the Council of Civic Leagues, said that as the city grows it will need a larger industrial base. She also reminded council that "two airmen chose to die rather than crash into Magic Hollow..."

Councilman Dr. J. Henry McCoy Jr., said that the "federal government is us, too. We're buying it...We're not obligated to go this far to protect every individual's property rights."

Mayor Clarence A. Holland disagreed with Wright's content on that industrial development in the area was not viable, saying, "I believe we are going to see some industrial development there."

He voted, however, to approve the rezoning along with Baum, Robert B. Cronwell, George R. Ferrell, J. Curtis Payne, R. L. Riggs and Floyd E. Waterfield J.

Voicing against approval were Griffin, McCoy, Vice Mayor Patrick L. Standing and Councilwoman Meyers Oberndorf. The proposed zoning allows 432 duplex units although Wright said plans are for 160 single-family homes.

Health, waste face council

By LEE CAHILL
SUN Public Affairs Writer

In resolutions adopted Monday afternoon, the Virginia Beach city council registered opposition to two bills which will be considered by the Senate Committee on Laws on Wednesday.

Dr. W. B. Crawford, who recently retired as director of the Department of Public Health to become the Eastern Virginia regional medical director, asked council to adopt the resolutions because the bills would in effect remove health involvement from sewage and solid waste matters.

Senate Bill No. 79 proposes the transfer of all sewerage matters including septic tanks from the State Health Department to the Water Control Board.

Dr. Crawford, who is acting health director in Virginia Beach pending the appointment of a replacement, said that he originally thought that the functions should be brought together under one agency, but not with out health involvement. "It took the Health Department to blow the whistle on sewage," he said.

Senate Bill No. 83 proposes to place all solid waste Management Commission, again with no health involvement. Dr. Crawford said that the U. S. Public Health Service was dismantled, with its services turned over to the Environmental Protection Agency and "now they are saying it was an error."

He said he understood industry was pushing for the bills because of the feeling that "they could get away with more with the engineers than with the health officials." He added also, that some of the Health Department employees would be transferred and would not be under a merit system as they are in the Health Department.

Councilman George R. Ferrell remarked that, "the water control board doesn't know what it's doing anyway." Vice mayor Patrick L. Standing said that "they have more work than they can do now."

Councilman John A. Baum said he'd "rather stay with the status quo until someone explains it."

According to mayor Clarence A. Holland, the bills are supported by the Municipal League.

Intersections may be subject of study

Two of Virginia Beach's busiest intersections may be the subject of a city study.

Mayor Dr. Clarence A. Holland Monday asked council to consider the possibility of employing a consultant to alleviate problems at the Independence and Virginia Beach Boulevards, and Laskin Road and First Colonial Parkway.

He said that he had received a petition with 500 signatures submitted by Frederick Napolitano, a principal of Terry Corporation that developed most of the property around the Independence and Virginia Beach Boulevards intersection seeking some solutions.

Councilman Dr. J. Henry McCoy Jr., said that his name was on the petition and that he understood that the Terry Corporation was working on recommendations for the problems.

City manager George L. Hanbury said that the city had looked into the possibility of erecting a steel structure over Independence Boulevard, but even with this there was the need for acquiring the right of way for approaches. He pointed out that Council had approved in its bond issue an appropriation for the synchronization of lights at the intersection.

VIRGINIA BEACH MILITARY UPDATE

Biediger

Navy Aviation Fire Control Technician Second Class Vincent A. Biediger, whose wife Carolyn is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Henry Beasley of 5220 North Gate Drive, has helped his ship's department win a competitive award.

He is serving as a crewmember aboard the aircraft carrier USS Independence, homeported in Norfolk. He is a member of the aviation intermediate maintenance department aboard the Independence.

His department was recently awarded the Navy's Battle Efficiency Award for 1977 while in competition with similar departments aboard seven other Atlantic Fleet aircraft carriers. The Battle "E" is earned by demonstrating independence that received recognition this year.

He joined the Navy in February 1970.

Davis

Marine Sergeant Andrew C. Davis Jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. Charles W. Williams of 5114 Drive, Virginia Beach, recently participated in exercise "Palm Tree 10-77" in the California desert.

He is serving as a member of the 2d Battalion, Second Marine Regiment, homebased at Camp Lejeune, N.C.

He joined the Marine Corps in May 1975.

Moore

Coast Guard Seaman Apprentice Dan D. Moore, son of Thomas R. Moore of Bounty Road, Virginia Beach, has reported for duty at the Coast Guard Group Rockaway, Ft. Tilden, N.Y.

He joined the Coast Guard in October 1977.

McNeely

Marine Sergeant Jeffrey L. McNeely whose wife Janet is the daughter of Joan Glancy of Virginia Beach, completed the Marine Corps Personnel Chief's course.

He joined the Marine Corps in April 1975.

Vest

Marine Second Lieutenant Wendell N. Vest Jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. Wendell N. Vest of 617 King Arthur Drive, was commissioned in his present rank upon graduation from Officer Candidate School.

The 12-week school was conducted at the Marine Corps Development and Education Command in Quantico.

Vest will now attend the 36-week officer's Basic School, also at Quantico.

A 1977 graduate of Guilford College, Greensboro, N.C., with a bachelor of arts degree, he joined the Marine Corps in October 1977.

Donavan

Navy Aviation Machinist's Mate Airman James E. Donovan, son of Mr. and Mrs. Clay Donovan of Homeward Drive, Virginia Beach, has deployed to the Caribbean Sea.

He is serving as a member of Fighter Squadron (VF) 102, homebased at the Oceana Naval Air Station, Virginia Beach. His squadron is embarked aboard the nuclear powered aircraft carrier USS Dwight D. Eisenhower.

A 1976 graduate of Kempville High School, he joined the Navy in September, 1976.

Wagner

Marine Private First Class Lawrence A. Wagner, son of Carla M. Wagner of 7401 James Lane, Virginia Beach, is currently on an extended deployment in the Mediterranean Sea.

He joined the Marine Corps in September 1975.

Phillips

Navy Seaman Brian M. Phillips, son of Mr. and Mrs. Paul C. Phillips of 5816 Mojave Court, has completed the Navy's Basic Electricity/Electronics Course.

Four weeks of study at the Navy Service School Command, Great Lakes, Ill., included review of basic mathematics, fundamental electrical formulas plus the principles of alternating and direct current circuits.

A 1976 graduate of Kempville High School, he joined the Navy in July 1977.

Quinn

Navy Lieutenant Timothy P. Quinn, whose wife Mary is the daughter of Florence Gearing of Janks Road, Virginia Beach, has deployed to the Caribbean Sea.

He is serving as an officer assigned to Fighter Squadron VF-102 homebased at the Oceana Naval Air Station, Virginia Beach. His squadron is embarked aboard the nuclear powered aircraft carrier USS Dwight D. Eisenhower.

A 1975 graduate of North Carolina University, Chapel Hill, with a bachelor of arts degree, he joined the Navy in May 1975.

Eardley

Marine Lance Corporal Michael A. Eardley, son of Mr. and Mrs. Michael A. Eardley of Hilber Street, Virginia Beach, is currently on an extended deployment in the Mediterranean Sea.

He is serving as a member of Battalion Landing Team Three Slant Six homebased at Camp Lejeune, N.C.

A 1976 graduate of Princess Anne High School, he joined the Marine Corps in June 1976.

Nation

Scott H. Nation, whose parents are Mr. and Mrs. Jack L. Nation of 5572 Stonehaven Drive, has received his first promotion in the U.S. Air Force.

Nation, promoted to airman, recently completed training at Lackland AFB Tex., and is now assigned at Barksdale AFB, La. He serves as a security specialist with a unit of the Strategic Air Command.

Airman Nation attended Kempville high school.

Bagley

Deadline for Beach dog tags is Jan. 31

The deadline for Virginia Beach residents to purchase 1978 dog license is Tuesday, Jan. 31, and the new tag must be on the dog by this date.

All dogs over six months of age must have a Virginia Beach dog license. Dogs that require tags must wear dog tags and rubber tags at all times. The tag is taken off the owner's property.

Dog tags are $5 for an unneutered or unspayed dog and $2 for a neutered or spayed dog. Proof of valid rabies vaccination is required to purchase license.

New dog licenses can be purchased at the City Treasurer's Office (Municipal Center, Kempville Shopping Center, 18th Street and Arctic Avenue) and the Bureau of Animal Control on Lee Roy Drive.

The City Treasurer's Office is open from 9 a.m. to 5 p.m. Monday through Friday. The Bureau of Animal Control is open 9 a.m. to 5 p.m. seven days a week.

It is unlawful for any person to own a dog or cat within the City of Virginia Beach without such dog or cat to run at large within the city. Any person owning a cat or dog shall keep such dog or cat confined to the premises of the owner unless in the custody of a responsible person. The responsible person must have the dog or cat under his or her control at all times.

There are approximately 7,000 dogs and cats picked up each year for running at large. If you have lost your animal go to the Animal Control Bureau as soon as possible.

The Virginia Beach Bureau of Animal Control has received several complaints this winter for animals not having proper shelter. If you have an animal outside you must provide proper shelter for it. Any person who tortures, ill treats, abandons, beats or treats inhumanely any animal, whether belonging to himself or another, is guilty of cruelty to animals. All animals must be provided proper food, water, and proper shelter and protection from the weather at all times.

Any person in the city of Virginia Beach who is cruel to an animal will be issued a summons to appear in court for Cruelty to Animals.

Cleanliness considered with construction

By LEE CAHILL
SUN Public Affairs Writer

Virginia Beach city council wants a little more time to think about an ordinance designed to keep construction sites clean.

Councilman Robert B. Cromwell said the ordinance "ignores a certain practicality."

He said that dirt and dust have to be expected on a construction site and that "anybody can call about a piece of paper and have the owner arrested."

The ordinance states that the owner and the general contractor shall keep the construction site, adjoining property and adjacent streets clear of all scrap, garbage, discarded materials and other debris resulting from construction activity.

It also states that usable materials should be stored in an orderly manner and that the adjacent streets be "clear of mud and dirt accumulation."

Councilman John R. Griffin wondered how any builder can keep the streets free of mud and dirt.

City manager George L. Hanbury said that the problem was one of safety.

The matter was deferred for two weeks.

Carolus Charlie and the Heavy Cowboy Band will perform at the Neptune Festival Hoedown planned for Feb. 4 at the Virginia Beach Dome.

Head for the hoedown

The Virginia Beach Neptune Festival 2nd annual Hoedown will feature Carolus Charlie and the Heavy Cowboy Band, and the Flatland Cloggers and the Dixie Squares. The event will take place Saturday, Feb. 4 in the Virginia Beach Dome from 9 p.m. to 1 a.m. Tickets are $5 and food and beverages will be available. Tickets are available at the Virginia Beach Dome, the Virginia Beach Chamber of Commerce, Virginia Beach Neptune Festival office at Pembroke Mall, and all branches of Virginia Beach Federal Savings and Loan.

Jeans or other informal country clothes will be the right attire for the evening. The Neptune Festival's managing director, Nellie Bryan, cautions those who wish to attend that tickets sold out last year and left some would-be party-goers disappointed outside the door. Anyone wishing to reserve a table for a group of friends may call the Neptune Festival office, 490-1094. Prizes will be given for the most authentic-looking farmer and wife, the best-decorated jeans, the worst square-dancer and for the best-looking beard.

Fun at Wintergreen

The Virginia Beach Department of Parks and Recreation will offer a ski trip to Wintergreen on Jan. 31. The $25 fee includes lift ticket, equipment rental, transportation and lessons. Check other packages are also available. Participants must meet at the Virginia Beach Recreation Center by 4:45 a.m. The bus leaves at 5 a.m. and returns at 9 p.m. For further information call Rod Haigler or Janis Liposky at the Recreation Center.

Women golfers meet

The Bow Creek Women's Golf Association will hold its first membership meeting for 1978, Jan. 30, 9 a.m. at the Bow Creek Municipal Golf Course clubhouse. Old and new members are encouraged to attend. For more information call Marilyn Johnson at 460-0530, or Doris Steinberg, at 486-3744.

Movies, popcorn set by Clasp

CLASP (Citizens Loving Beach Recreation Center. All Special People) will sponsor an afternoon of movies and popcorn starting at 2 p.m. on Jan. 28 at the Virginia Beach Recreation Center. All members and prospective members of CLASP and the I Can't Help It Clubs are invited.

Acey crumbles "Cookie" in first round

by Eric Stevens

Beach resident, "Boom Boom" Boone, chloroformed Sam Collins of Philadelphia in the third round at the Virginia Beach Dome Boxing held Jan. 19.

"One round" Acey has done it again. A Beach resident, and Norfolk cop, the welter-midweight Bobby Acey landed "Cookie" Clayton of Wheeling, West Virginia, in 2:20 of the first. Clayton looked good in the opening minutes, but Acey shot him right to the ribs and a right to the head, and that's how the "Cookie" crumbled.

Most knockout victims are not out cold, and arise on their own within a few seconds of the ten-count. Clayton lay silent on the floor for several minutes before he could be revived. Late Edward's Leroy "Boom-Boom" Boone, 225, chloroformed Sam Collins of Philadelphia in the third. Boone is now 4-1, having taken a four round decision from Ron Burton in Cleveland recently. He was ranked fourth in the state, and is climbing fast.

The Union-Kempville grad is a modest man, but arose from his tenth row seat before the Earle Shavers exhibition to shout repeatedly, "I want some of that Acorn!" He might just get some in a year or two.

The Dome set a record of 1625 people for this card on Jan. 19. Ironically, most showed up to watch the contender Shavers, overweight, and wearing headgear and 16-ounce gloves, spar four dull TWO-minute rounds (instead of the usual three) against John Gironi of Sharon, Pennsylvania. Typical turnout is only half that to see outstanding local fighter offer real action.

"The Acorn" drew $3000 for barely working up a sweat in eight minutes. The promoters deserve a good payday after working so hard and rushing so much, but it is disturbing that it takes an out-of-town "name" merely sparring to lure us to see our hometown stalwarts really fighting.

What was it Barnum said? These same people will soon pay plane fare, hotel bills and high ticket prices to see "Jimmy and Billy" on Broadway when they could see it this week at Chrysler Hall. First they have to have a nationally-known critic tell them it's a hit.

Suggestion to the promoters: If Scope could enforce "no smoking" then the Dome could at least have a non-smokers section where the 58 percent who do not smoke can breathe unpolluted air. The revolution is on. Non-smokers are fed-up and banding together everywhere.

Among the four other bouts, Bow Creek's welterweight Van Tate raised his record to 4-0 with a four round decision over Portsmouth's Julius Spell.

The next card is set for Feb. 23rd.

Wernick wrestles

Bob Wernick, a student at the University of Tennessee According to head coach Gray Simons, Wernick has a good attitude, good technique, and will add needed depth in the lightweights in 1978.

The 22-year-old junior wrestles in the lightweight division. He is five feet, five inches tall and weighs 126 pounds. Wernick graduated from Kempville High School, where he was coached by Keith Lawrence.

Sports club honors 1st lady scholar-athlete

Joan Costes
SUN Editor

It's a pretty heady honor, being selected as the Virginia Beach Sports Club scholar-athlete. But for Elizabeth Anne Lake, of White Horse Lane, it's a double honor. She's the first female to receive the award.

"I couldn't believe it...and didn't expect it at all," the Bayside High School senior said. "It was a real eye-opener. I never really thought of it all as a big deal."

The Sports Club will honor Miss Lake and several other Beach athletes at its 25th annual Jamboree to be held Jan. 30 at the Mariner Motel.

The blonde-haired Miss Lake ranks 13th in her class with an "A" average scholastically. She is in her fourth year as a member of the girls basketball team at Bayside and her third on the hockey team, which won the district championship in 1975.

Last year, her 8-2 record on the girls tennis team was the best in the city and she also played on the Junior Whirlman Cup Team. She reached the semi-finals in the Virginia Beach

Junior Tournament and won the Virginia Beach Junior doubles championship.

It seems like sports have always been a part of Miss Lake's life. "My dad is a sports fanatic," she said, while noting that he is ranked number one in tennis in the Army.

"It's almost like a sick feeling when you don't have something to do."

"Once we went out at midnight to play at an indoor court...and another time we played all night and I came back just in time to catch the bus to go to school," she recalled.

But Miss Lake said that keeping busy is what makes life interesting for her. "I get so bored if I don't do something," she said. "It's almost like a sick feeling when you don't have something to do."

And keep busy she does. In between her sports and studies, she works at the Naval Amphibious Base tennis pro shop. And she's an artist, too.

"If someone asked me to sit down and draw them...I couldn't. I don't have that much confidence," she said. But she's won several awards for her work, from the Neptune Festival to an exhibit in Washington, D.C.

Although she said she just likes to "mess around" with her artistic abilities, she does abstract drawings, weavings and sculpture.

"When I get inspired...that's when I start drawing," she said.

She plans to attend the University of Connecticut next year, majoring in some form of science. She has thought about archeology, marine biology or oceanography, but isn't too sure where her interest will end up.

"I had thought about turning pro in tennis. But it's so far out. I'd love to do something like that. I do plan to keep active sports."

"I've met some really nice people through sports," she said. "It's how I met most of my friends. It's a part of my life."

Pat Curtis

“Karter Klan” featured in musical satire

by Eric Stevens

“Jimmy and Billy,” a satire on the “Komplete Karter Klan,” is exactly what a musical comedy should be: musical, thanks to Pat Curtis of Baylake Pines, and comical thanks to millionaire developer David Levine.

Levine wrote a clever story with a surprise ending, and loaded the dialogue and lyrics with hilarious lines:

Among the song titles are “Simple Mediocracy,” “Amy and Andy,” “Black Sheep Billy,” and a sizzling rock version of “Oh, Where Have You Been, Billy Boy.”

Levine is a part-time resident of the Beach, owning a Shore Drive condominium unit in which Curtis “hid” while composing and orchestrating the dozen songs.

Among the titles are “Simple Mediocracy,” “Amy and Andy,” “Black Sheep Billy,” and a sizzling “Rock” version of “Oh, Where Have You Been, Billy Boy.” Curtis, well known pianist, band-leader and piano teacher, has penned beautiful melodies in “Lillian’s Lament” and “Rosalynn.”

The show runs through Friday, Jan. 27th at Chrysler Hall. It will then move to Broadway, with a March opening scheduled. Some of the local performers will be unable to go, and the revised cast will need time to rehearse.

It is my hope that two charismatic actresses will be able to go: “I Do, I Do,” and many others, was effervescent as Ruth Stapled On, was a sizzling, and Molly King, whose local credits include “Anything Goes,” “Cabaret,” and “Girl Crazy,” was powerful as Miss Lillian, and displayed a touching singing style with “Lillian’s Lament,” which should be retitled or subtitled, “My Family.”

Teaching contracts will impede any move by a number of performers who work and live in our city. Diane Moscatello of Lake Trant displayed a pretty voice (and face) as Rosalynn; Diane has appeared in “Oklahoma,” and teaches music at Princess Anne Jr. High.

Art Curriculum Assistant Inez Wilson was infectious as a White House maid, Dan Gunn, a biology teacher at Kellam High School has appeared in 25 plays in metro; he handled with aplomb the role of Bert Lancelot.

Bentley B. Anderson of Salem Road played Harry

Unreasoner Bull, and served in a variety of behind-the-scenes capacities. He is well qualified, being a teacher of theater at Virginia Wesleyan College. Among the seven splendid musicians, was Lou Sawyer of Pontiac Road. The bassist teaches music in Beach public schools.

“...the longer he stays in office, the more material we have with which to work.”

In the program-notes Levine states: “Please do not think for one minute that we are out to get the present incumbent...the longer he stays in office, the more material we have with which to work.”

It would be interesting to get the Carters’ reaction. Among the “staff” Levine lists a New York lawyer. Let’s hope he is a good one that will enable the show to enjoy a long run.

I recommend you see it now; six months from now you’ll want to pay plane fare, hotel bills and high prices to see it on Broadway.

Randall Academy offers alternative

by Shelia Schugardt
SUN Staff Writer

Come September Randall Academy will offer an alternative to college. According to Stuart Pittman, director, the expanding curriculum will include a complete course in fashion merchandising.

This means local graduates may pursue a fashion career at the Beach. "Tidewater is the fourth largest area in the U.S.," said Pittman.

"There are a significant number of high school seniors in Tidewater interested in fashion merchandising. Why should they spend thousands of dollars out of town, when we can provide Tidewater with a fashion oriented curriculum?" asked Pittman.

A full-time student may complete the course in 10 months; an evening student in 12. Tuition costs $1996 including a four day trip to New York City.

The fashion oriented curriculum augments the basic self improvement and modeling courses offered since 1966.

Along with their curriculum changes will be a name change. In the future Randall Academy will be known as Fashion Institute of Tidewater.

Carolyn Ball, director of Randall Academy Modeling Agency, demonstrates correct make-up application in the mirrored classroom for models.

Better Business Bureau welcomes new Beach members

The Better Business Bureau is proud to announce the following Virginia Beach businesses who were approved for membership at the December Board of Directors meeting: Adams, McCabe & Lester; The Athlete's Foot; Forrest Studio of Photography; Green Run Pharmacy; Green Run 66; King's Grant Texaco and Nichols Electric.

Cash Flow offered at Roses

Roses Stores, Inc. at College Park and Hilltop North Shopping Centers are the first stores in Tidewater to offer all of Virginia National Bank's CASH FLOW services.

Not only can our customers now get instantaneous approval on their checks, but they can also do much of their banking while they're in our stores by using the CASH FLOW Teller to get cash, make deposits, pay bills, transfer funds among their different VNB accounts and even get their account balances," said Raymond C. Swain, College Park store manager.

The CASH FLOW Tellers at both Roses stores are open 24 hours a day, while the Check-Out (check approval service) is available during normal store hours.

Poodle perfection pulls prizes

By PAM VANDEVEER
SUN Staff Writer

Poodle pageantry has been a part of Wally Miner's life for awhile now. The Virginia Beach resident has been grooming dogs for eight years and recently won the trophy for Best All Around Groomer at the Eastern Dog Grooming Contest.

Mrs. Miner won trophies in three classes in the competition. She received second place in the toy poodle division, second place in the standard division and third place in the mixed breed class.

The different class winnings then helped Mrs. Miner earn the Best All Around Groomer trophy. She used her own toy poodle, Bebe, as her model in that category.

Mrs. Miner, who owns and operates "WALLY'S Poodle Salon" in London Bridge shopping center, said there are many different styles, such as the Dutch trim, which can be displayed in competition.

"They judge on how you scissor and trim," she explained. "The longer the hair growth a dog has before you style it, the better you can make the results."

"I'm so excited about winning. I've never gotten above second place before."

Select your favorite mother for state honor Ganatta achieves 4.0

There is still time to nominate the favorite mother in Virginia Beach. She might be selected and have the honor of being the 1978 Mother of Virginia.

Nominations must be made on official blanks which can be secured from Mrs. Curtis Pulliam, 116 Ascot Lane, Blacksburg, Virginia 24060.

This, with all supporting material, must be posted and returned to Mrs. Pulliam NO later than January 28th.

Judging of the nominations is done by a jury composed of heads of state women's organizations and former state mothers.

The mother is judged on her qualifications as a fine mother...cheerfulness, understanding, home-making ability, her interest in civic, church and international affairs, as well as the character and achievements of her individual children...all of whom must be over 15 years of age.

Each nominee will be honored in her individual community as well as at a luncheon in April in Richmond, when all nominees meet together. At this time the 1978 selected mother will also receive her National Citation from the governor.

The five days preceding Mothers Day, Virginia's selected 1978 Mother will be in Des Moines, Iowa, at the National American Mothers Conference, meeting with selected mothers from the other 49 states, the District of Columbia and Puerto Rico, for several days of inspiration and fellowship.

At this time, the American Mother will be selected.

Linda D. Ganatta was one of 284 students named to the fall semester dean's list at the University of Southern Colorado in Pueblo.

Miss Ganatta had a 4.0 average, the highest possible, as a fulltime student.

Named to Dean's List Art commission seeks the 'artist-in-school'

Frank W. Baze of Broad Street, has been named to the dean's list of the School of Engineering at Old Dominion University. Baze and his sister, Mrs. Shirley Gousett are both seniors in the electrical engineering program at O. D. U. and are members of the electrical engineering honor society, Gamma Beta Pi.

Their parents are Mr. and Mrs. Frank P. Baze of Indian River Estates.

The Virginia Commission of Arts and Humanities is now accepting applications from elementary and secondary schools and from professional artists and writers for the 1978-79 Artists-in-Schools program.

Under the program, artists and writers are in residence in Virginia's schools from one week to the full school year. Grants to schools are from $250 to $7,500.

Dead-line for application for schools, artists and writers is March 15.

For more information and application forms, contact the Virginia Commission of Arts and Humanities, 400 East Grace Street, Richmond, VA 23219. Phone number is 804-786-4492.

Discussion of foster program slated

The Virginia Beach Campus of Tidewater Community College is conducting a special training program which will train foster care providers who wish to offer their homes as alternative living places for the developmentally disabled of Virginia Beach.

This special training program is being carried out by TCC under a contractual arrangement with the Virginia Beach Mental Health/Mental Retardation Services Board.

Upon completion of the ten-week college training and a period of practical experience, the students will be qualified to care for and to work effectively with disabled individuals in a home environment.

The trained students will also be qualified to move into the home of the disabled person while the family is absent from the home.

This pilot program is being funded through a federal grant and is being conducted at the Camp Pendleton Center of the Virginia Beach Campus of Tidewater Community College.

The program at Camp Pendleton is being administered by Nancy Shade of the Virginia Beach Mental Health department.

There's a sign on the gym at the Jean Wallace Studio: "Winners never quit and quitters never win". The philosophy is deep in the heart of the Flyers. They all want to perfect their art of gymnastics.

Ranging from age eight to 14, the Flyers practice three times a week at Jean Wallace's studio at Hilltop, two hours a day.

Practicing floor exercises, the balance beam, uneven parallel bars, the vault, and classical jazz, the girls all have their sights on qualifying for United States Gymnastics Finals. USGF is pre-Olympic competition.

On Jan. 15, three girls qualified and seven received medals at the Gymnast AAU-USGF Meet held at the Beach. In order to qualify for USGF, the gymnast must score a total of 80.0 in overall competition.

Christi Browner took first place in floor exercise as well as in overall competition. Ann Standing, a first year student, took first place in vaulting.

The Flyers are coached by Lisa Wallace, a state AAU floor exercise and balance beam champ at First Colonial High School in 1976.

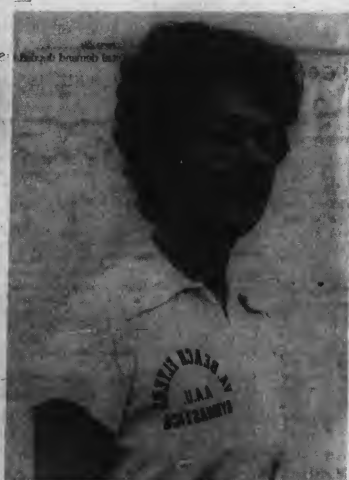

"We work as a team," Mrs. Wallace said. And as a team, the Virginia Beach Flyers have plans to make their mark."

Cathy Tynes demonstrates her USGF standing in a floor exercise. Cathy is the captain of the Flyers.

Christi Browner gets set for her exercise on the balance beam. Christi took three second places at the AAU-USGF Gymnastic Meet and first place in floor exercise and all-around.

Joan Wallace

"We all work as a team," said Mrs. Wallace. "Each girl can set up their exercise with their eyes closed." Here everyone gets ready for a demonstration.

Donna Cullen was one of three Flyers who qualified for USGF.

Mrs. Wallace has begun to teach the girls classical jazz, something they "can really get into."

Here's What's New For the 1977 Taxpayer

Recent changes in tax laws affect virtually every taxpayer, so you should check the following before filing your 1977 Federal tax return.

Revised Tax Forms

Tax forms 1040 and 1040A have been revised and several computations have been eliminated. The 1040 and 1040A are shaded blue and pink, respectively, to highlight key areas.

The restyled Form 1040A is now one side of a full sheet of paper instead of both sides of a half sheet. The items on the 1040 form are now in a more logical order, meaning the taxpayer no longer has to flip back and forth as in previous years. Income is reported, followed by deductions, tax and credits. When you finish the front, you go to the back.

Zero Bracket Amount

The standard deduction of years past has been replaced by a zero bracket amount, a fixed amount of income on which no income tax is imposed. The zero bracket amount applies to all taxpayers including those who itemize deductions, and is set at $2,200 for single taxpayers and $3,200 for married couples filing jointly. Married persons filing separate returns are allowed $1,600 each.

New Tax Tables

An estimated 96% of American taxpayers will be able to use the new tax tables. These tables already incorporate personal exemptions, the new zero bracket amount and the general tax credit (generally $35 for each personal exemption or 2% of the first $9,000 of income, whichever is greater). This means none of these computations have to be made by the taxpayer. Most taxpayers need only locate their adjusted gross income on the proper table to find out how much tax they owe.

There will be, however, some taxpayers who must make computations. Taxpayers itemizing deductions will have to subtract the difference between the zero bracket amount and their itemized deductions before going to the tables. Those whose incomes exceed the tax table amounts, those having more exemptions than the number built into the tables and those using the income averaging method also must figure their tax on a Schedule TC found in the tax package.

Individual Retirement Arrangement (IRA)

Taxpayers who are eligible for this personal retirement savings plan may now set up such a plan for their non-working spouse as well. Fifteen percent of the working spouse's income is deductible, up to a maximum of $1,750, if contributed to combined IRAs. Deductions taken for contributions to dual IRAs must be equal.

Also, the period has been extended during which taxpayers can contribute to their IRAs and still deduct these contributions on their return. Taxpayers making allowable contributions within 45 days after the end of a given tax year may still deduct the contributions on that year's return (February 14, 1978 for 1977 returns filed on a calendar year basis). IRAs are designed for workers not covered by company pension plans.

Moving Expenses

There have been changes regarding distance, as well as time and dollar amount limitations for deducting employment-related moving expenses.

The minimum distance that a person must move in order to qualify for moving expense deductions has decreased from 50 to 35 miles. The deduction for moving, househunting and temporary living expenses maximum has been increased from $1,000 to $1,500; and the maximum deduction related to buying, selling or renting a residence has increased from $2,500 to $3,000. This amount must be reduced, however, by deductions claimed for househunting or temporary lodging.

Capital Gains and Losses

The period of time taxpayers are required to hold an asset to qualify for the 50% capital gain or loss exclusion has been increased from more than six to more than nine months. Also, the amount of a capital loss that may be used to offset taxable income has been increased from $1,000 to $2,000.

Sale of a Home by Older Americans

Taxpayers 65 years of age and older now can exclude the entire gain from the sale of their principal residence if the adjusted sales price was $35,000 or less. In the past the entire gain was excludable only if the adjusted sale price was $20,000 or less.

Child Support Payments and Dependency Exemptions

When a divorce decree does not specify which parent is entitled to claim the children on the tax return, the parent who does not have custody of the children and pays at least $1,200 toward the support of EACH child, may claim the dependency exemption unless the custodial parent can prove that he or she provided even more.

In the past, the non-custodial parent qualified for the exemption(s) if he or she contributed at least $1,200 towards the support of all the children, rather than $1,200 for each.

Disability Income Exclusion

The portion of the tax law which formerly allowed paraplegians to exclude from their income up to $100 a week in sick pay while temporarily absent from their jobs has been changed significantly.

For 1977, the sick pay exclusion has been done away with completely. However, a maximum exclusion of up to $100 a week is now available for those under age 65 who have retired because of permanent and total disability.

The available disability income exclusion is reduced by one dollar for each dollar of adjusted gross income over $15,000.

Moving Expenses May Reduce Taxes

The U.S. Census Bureau estimates that almost ten million American adults moved from one county to another during 1977. For those movers whose relocations were job-related, certain expenses connected with their moves may be deductible on their 1977 income tax returns.

According to the Internal Revenue

Service, moving expenses which can be deducted include the cost of travel to the new location; moving of household goods and personal effects; pre-move househunting trips; temporary living costs at the new location; and certain expenses related to the disposition of an old residence and acquisition of a new one.

For 1977, the maximum deduction for these last three items has been increased to $3,000 (formerly $2,500). Also new for 1977 is the requirement that the distance between a taxpayer's new job and old home be at least 35 miles farther than the former home was from the former job. The distance requirement in the past was 50 miles.

Eligible taxpayers can claim the moving expense deduction whether they itemize deductions or not. Expenses are reported on Form 3900, which should be filed with Form 1040.

Filing Deadline For Farmers and Fishermen

March 1, 1978 is the filing deadline for those engaged in farming and commercial fishing who did not submit a declaration of estimated tax for 1977. The declaration of estimated tax was due January 16, 1978.

According to the Internal Revenue Service, persons who earned at least two-thirds of their 1977 gross income from farming or fishing are subject to these requirements.

IRS Publications 225, Farmer's Tax Guide, 595, Tax Guide for Commercial Fishermen and 585, Tax Withholding and Declaration of Estimated Tax, provide additional information.

IRS Tax Assistance Available for the Deaf

Free tax assistance is available to hearing-impaired taxpayers from the Internal Revenue Service through a special toll-free visual phone system, called TTY, the abbreviation for teletypewriter.

This assistance is made possible by a device that electronically connects a telephone receiver to either a television screen and keyboard or to a teletypewriter. The taxpayer first calls the IRS TTY headquarters in Indianapolis over a nationwide toll-free number. He or she then connects the telephone receiver to the TTY and types a question using the keyboard. The IRS answers using the same method.

For most states, the TTY toll-free number is 800-428-4732. For Indiana it is 800-82-4059. There is no TTY service for Hawaii and Alaska.

Medical and Dental Costs May Cut Taxes Dramatically

Taxpayers who itemize deductions on their 1977 Federal income tax returns may be able to cut their taxes substantially by deducting the cost of certain medical and dental expenses, the Internal Revenue Service says.

Keep in mind, however, that dental and medical expenses are deductible only to the extent they exceed three percent of a taxpayer's adjusted gross income (AGI). Medicine and drug expenses in excess of one percent of AGI are added to the medical/dental expenses prior to the three percent computation. The IRS points out, however, that no deduction is allowed for expenses which have been reimbursed or originally paid by insurance payments.

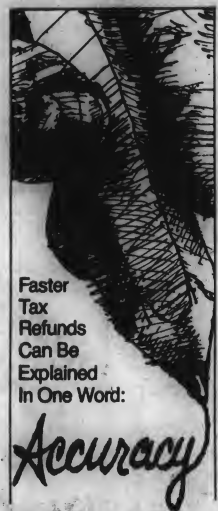

Deductible medical expenses include payments for services aimed at the diagnosis, care, treatment or prevention of disease or illness for the taxpayer and his or her spouse and dependents. Such expenses include, but are not limited to, payments to doctors, dentists and optometrists; costs of eyeglasses or contact lenses, prosthetic devices and dentures; expenses of transportation essential to medical care; and food or beverages prescribed solely for medical care which supplement rather than replace a normal diet.

Perhaps the best way to explain the medical expense deduction is to show how a typical taxpayer who plans to itemize deductions might work it out on his or her return. The taxpayer in the example has an AGI of $10,000, spent $220 on drugs, $450 on dental and doctor bills, and was not reimbursed by any insurance payments.

Less 1% of AGI	-100.00
Balance	$120.00
Plus Medical & Dental Payments	450.00
Total	$570.00
Less 3% of AGI	-300.00
Allowable Deduction	$270.00

Also remember that one-half of the premiums paid for medical insurance, up to $150, is deductible outright by taxpayers who itemize, regardless of AGI. The excess medical insurance premiums are added into the total expenses for dental and medical care, and are deductible only to the extent they exceed three percent of AGI.

This $150 limitation applies to all returns, meaning married persons filing separate returns each deduct up to $150, while married couples filing jointly cannot double up for a $300 deduction.

How to Avoid Errors and Refund Delays

This year's Federal income tax forms are easier to complete. For most people it's simply fill in a few blanks, look up the correct tax and that's that. But the Internal Revenue Service has a word of caution for taxpayers—don't be lulled into carelessness.

Though opportunities for errors have been greatly lessened for 1977 returns, there are still several areas on a 1040 or 1040A which afford the taxpayer a chance to make a mistake. And a mistake on a tax return will slow the processing, resulting in delays in getting the all-important refund check in the mail.

Mistakes in arithmetic, use of the wrong tax table and failure to attach all W-2s and other necessary documents to the return are sure ways to slow things down. And, according to the Internal Revenue Service, one of the most common—and time-consuming—problems is the omission of the taxpayer's signature.

Some of these problems, math errors, for example, can be corrected by the IRS without a great delay. But a missing signature brings processing to a complete halt. The return must be sent to the taxpayer, signed, and returned to the IRS Service Center before any further steps can be taken. And joint returns must be signed by both spouses, even if only one had income.

Once a return has been completed, checked, double-checked and signed, the smart taxpayer will take advantage of two time-saving devices provided by the IRS. One is the pre-addressed label. The other is the coded envelope. Both are found in the instruction package furnished by the IRS. The use of these two items can speed the processing of the return, getting the refund back to the taxpayer days or even weeks sooner.

Following is a list of items to check before filing:

- Make sure...
 - the pre-addressed label is attached to the return and that any necessary corrections are made on the label;
 - copies of all W-2 forms are attached
 - all required forms and schedules, with supporting information, are included;
 - the arithmetic is correct;
 - the correct tax table or rate schedule was used to compute the tax;
 - all entries are on the correct lines;
 - the payment, if required, is attached. This payment should be in the form of a check or money order and made payable to Internal Revenue Service. The check or money order should also include the taxpayer's social security number;
 - the return is SIGNED. If filing jointly, both spouses must sign; if a paid preparer completes the return, the preparer must also sign.
 - the return and all supporting information are mailed using the coded envelope that comes with the tax package.
 - you retain a copy of the return for your files.

Business Tax Class Coming To Chesapeake

Tax Preparation for Small Business will be taught by the Chesapeake Public Schools Adult Education Program on Feb. 2, 7, 9 and 15 from 7:00 to 9:30 p.m. at the D. E. Adult Training Center of Indian River High School on Dumbarton Road in Chesapeake.

The small business tax preparation course is also sponsored by the Chesapeake Chamber of Commerce and the Small Business Administration.

Instructor for the course will be Billy R. Hasty, graduate in Accounting from ODU and Supply Management Officer of the naval shipyard.

The cost of the course is $15.00. To register write Distributive Education, Chesapeake Public Schools, P.O. Box 16304, Chesapeake, Va. 23320.

Choose Your Tax Preparer Carefully

Many taxpayers turn to paid help when the time comes for preparing their Federal income tax return. It may be a neighbor who does a few returns a year at home, a local bookkeeping service, a large national returns preparer, an accountant or tax attorney, or someone who has passed the IRS exam to represent taxpayers.

The Internal Revenue Service has some advice for the taxpayer who opts to pay someone to prepare his or her return.

Taxpayers should be wary of a preparer who hints that he or she has a special relationship of the IRS, or has inside knowledge of the IRS computer system. In addition, taxpayers should shy away from preparers who guarantee refunds, base their fee on the amount of the refund expected, or claim to know all the angles.

The IRS suggests four simple guidelines never sign a blank tax return; never sign a return that has been prepared in pencil, because it can be altered later; always insist that the paid preparer sign the return, in ink, in the space provided; and make sure the preparer provides a copy of the return.

Above all, taxpayers should exercise care in the selection of a preparer, just as if they were choosing a doctor or lawyer. The ultimate responsibility for the correctness of a return, and for payment of any taxes due, rests with the taxpayer regardless of who fills out the return.

TAX CHANGES FOR HOMEOWNERS

Moving expenses have been increased to $3,000 for the sale, purchase or lease of a residence when a person's job change requires that person to travel an increase of 35 miles in distance over what was being traveled previously. Temporary housing costs allowed for house-hunting have been increased to $1,500.

Older people (where one spouse is 65 or over) who sell their residence are now allowed to exclude all gain if the selling price is under $35,000. Above that, part is taxed—see your accountant for the formula. A major change has been made on the sale of long-term capital gains, as real estate. Holding period for long-term gains in 1977 will be 9 months instead of 6. In 1978, the period will be increased to one year.

If you rent out your vacation home but occupy it for your own use for more than two weeks each year, your deductions are limited to the property taxes and mortgage interest. The remaining deductions cannot be more than the total income (less the tax & interest figure). However, if you rent it out for less than 15 days—you do not have to declare the income at all.

Pungo gets its medical center

By JOAN COATES
SUN Editor

A lot of people thought it would never happen. But at an open house Sunday, the Pungo Medical Center became a reality.

The Center, which has been surrounded by controversy since it was first proposed in early 1977, officially opened for business Monday.

But at the open house, sponsored by the Creeds Ruritan Club, friends and neighbors were there to get a look at the new facility which will serve the medical needs of the rural community of Virginia Beach.

As a result of the efforts of Medical Services Foundation, Inc., the center will provide adult and pediatric exams, infant and child care, laboratory tests, counseling services, health education, emergency care, laboratory and X-ray services, and by late June, a pharmacy.

The center is located in the Pungo Square shopping center just south of the intersection of Indian River and Princess Anne Road.

Dr. Robert J. Robertson Jr., a Virginia Beach cardiologist, will direct the center. In addition, a "nurse practitioner" and a "clinical pharmacist" will be available.

Providers will include three doctors: Maxine Spool M.D., Robert Cecchino M.D., and Brigit Belcher M.D. The nurse practitioner is Mrs. Belle McMahon. The staff includes Donald Bray, project director, Linda Mayo, receptionist / bookkeeper, and Diane Carvalho, registered nurse.

Patients at the center will now for services the same as at the Pungo Medical Center.

L. V. Jones of the Creeds Ruritan Club and Mrs. Willard Whitaker of Princess Anne Beach, chair of the plan and execution of the Pungo Medical Center at the open house held Sunday.

Although his dad is going to work at the new Pungo Medical Center, Robert Cecchino got pretty bored with all the fuss at the open house. The center opened for business Jan. 30.

Beach "Good Buddy" finds lost child

By JOAN COATES
SUN Editor

"The only station in the nation with a theme song."
"10-four, good buddy. Foggy Mountain Breakdown, ready to assist."
Dec. 5 was a night like most other nights for Harry Hall of Skipper Drive. He was lost in CB land.
But on Dec. 5, as he flipped through the channels, a lady came on who had lost a child near Lynnhaven School in Windsor Woods.

"I don't think I did anything that deserves to be a hero. I was just somebody who did someone else a favor."

"I really just acted as a base," the Kellam High School senior said. "They would go down the streets, tell me and I'd mark the street. I'd tell them which street to go next."
The search started at 10:30, and at 4 a.m. the next morning, Harry and the three in the search party had found the lost child.
"It was just something I did," he recalled. "I didn't think much of it. I was just tired afterwards."
But the Midland International Corporation thought about it and honored Harry with their "Good Buddy" award for humanitarian service during the month of December.

The recipients were selected from over a thousand applicants, according to Midland spokesman, C. W. "Convoy" McCoy.

Since the search, Harry has started working for Tidewater React, a volunteer organization which assists motorists needing help by monitoring channel nine of the CBs.

"We help anyone that needs assistance," Harry said. "Like a motorist in distress, we'd make local phone calls or call a wrecker."

Harry said he likes CB's because "it's something fun" to do. "You meet people on the radio," he said. "It's a hobby." "People are middle age, old, young...and all like the same thing...they like talking on the radio."

Harry added that he feels that the reason so people are into CB's is because "it's an attention getter. It causes you to think," he explained.

Even after receiving the award, Harry still doesn't know the people he helped out that December night, other than by the lady's handle.

"Her handle was 'Sexy Lady,'" Harry said. "I never met them, but they know me."

Harry is fairly modest about his feat, noting that "I was happy about the award...till I got on television. They called me a CB hero. I don't think I did anything that deserves to be a hero. I was just somebody who did someone else a favor." Favors like Harry Hall does, should go down in the CB Hall of Fame.

Car control worries council

By LEE CAHILL
SUN Public Affairs Writer

New transportation control measures under the Clean Air Act threaten the whole way of living in Virginia Beach, according to Councilman Dr. J. Henry McCoy Jr.

In a city like Virginia Beach which depends solely on the automobile "they're talking about putting tolls on existing roads," he said. Legislation was passed last August which should put the new measures into effect by 1981-82, McCoy said.

At McCoy's request, council Monday afternoon agreed to invite L. B. MacDonald, regional director of the State Air Pollution Control Board to brief council on what to expect.

Price of parking upped in resort area

By LEE CAHILL
Public Affairs Writer

The establishment of one-way streets in the Beach Borough of Virginia Beach will be accompanied by the installation of 71 additional parking meters and the imposition of a uniform meter parking fee of 30 cents an hour.

At present, the city has 517 meters in the Beach Borough equally divided between five cents and ten cents an hour rate meters.

City Council Monday afternoon appropriated $50,163 for traffic signs, modifications to traffic signals, additional parking meters and modification of existing parking meters.

Streets which will be one-way are between Atlantic Avenue and Pacific Avenue from 5th Street to 40th Street.

Existing parking meters which accept only a nickel or a dime will be replaced or converted with new meters which will accept pennies, nickels, dimes and quarters.

Following a suggestion by Vice Mayor Patrick L. Standing, the old meters will be auctioned off.

Beach may get added sales tax

By LEE CAHILL
SUN Public Affairs Writer

An additional one percent general sales tax may be the only avenue left for Virginia Beach to increase its tax base in the near future.

Mayor Clarence A. Holland Monday afternoon said that Wytheville Del. Archie Campbell, chairman of the House finance committee of the State Legislature, said that the committee does not intend to introduce any type of legislation broadening the taxing powers of localities. The committee, however, would be willing to support a one percent increase in the general sales tax with a local option clause, he said.

Holland said that the city does not need the money now but the sales tax may help the city avoid increasing the real estate tax in the future.

The one percent tax would mean an additional $5 million for the city, he said. Northern Virginia, Hampton and Newport News are expected to support the legislation and Norfolk, Portsmouth, Chesapeake and Virginia Beach are being asked to support the bill.

He said that the bill has to be introduced in two weeks and that the only chance of getting it through is this year.

HE Beach has asked for legislation permitting the imposition of a surtax on the state income tax. Councilman John R. Griffin wanted to know why the Legislature can't put a local option on other types of taxation.

Holland said that he assumed it was because the state already had a sales tax and the additional tax would not require any new procedures.

Griffin maintained that the tax "would certainly hurt the same people we're trying to help by not increasing the real estate tax."

Holland replied that everyone would be paying the sales tax.

City manager George L. Hanbury said the tax would only be imposed if the people voted for it, but that it would give the Beach another option for increasing revenues. The city now receives tax revenues through real estate, personal property taxes and utility taxes, as well as the sales taxes.

Learning to freeze a slice of life

Everyone takes pictures when they come to Virginia Beach. It's the tourist trap of photography. The sand, the sea and me. Capturing that one single flash of life is a pastime that a lot of people get hooked on.

Joan Coates

SUN Editor

But what comes out of the camera for most people is a snapshot, not a photograph. What's the difference? How many times have you seen the same beach image. Sanddunes, fleshy bodies and hotdogging surfers? Recorded in much the same way. From Brownies, to instantatics to Leica or Olympus. Or even the Nikon. It's not exclusive to the amateur. It's an obsession recording life. Even if what you say has been said a million times before.

But then you experience the unique. Somebody has made a personal statement, that picks you up and puts you into a world so foreign, so different from the life you lead, that your mind freezes that frame.

That's just what happened when I chanced over to view the work of New York photographer Robert Mapplethorpe at the Chrysler Museum.

Even his censored collection is enough for your eyes to open wide and perceive an unusual perception.

Best known for his portraits, Mapplethorpe makes a personal statement about his subjects. He gets involved.

"...a pair of faultless, burning lenses which merge with the symmetric Iris of the Hasselblad..."

Patti Smith, punk rock queen.

Lady Rose Lampton, Guy Neville, porno star Mark Stevens.

And the guru of body-building Arnold Schwarzenegger. The elite...of gamblers, social, the unusual.

People who say something in the way they look at you. In the way you look at them.

And in these photographs, your mind goes mad trying to categorize your feelings.

For example, in the work titled "David Hockney, Henry Geldzahler, Fire Island 1976." There's a lot of lines to play with. Wood verticles, cotton humans and steel beams.

Relationships, situations, feelings, lifestyles...habits. You could endlessly probe and question. Mapplethorpe has his own way of seeing.

And in his way of seeing things, we see things too. No one else but Mapplethorpe could take what he does...in the same way.

Patti Smith writes that the artist possesses "a pair of faultless, burning lenses which merge with the symmetric Iris of the Hasselblad."

Two become one. It's a way of seeing. A way to record life.

Hot tip leads to dog

Hot tips can lead to hot dog lips.

Six pairs of dog lips get hot at intruders trying to take photographs of a large, uprooted tree.

"Calm down mutts. You can lift your legs all over the tree for as long as it stays uprooted. The photo won't disrupt it at all."

Rhonda Miller

SUN Staff Writer

A tip is a tip, but nothing could be as hot as what those dog must think is under that tree.

Any tree on Kempsville Road could have fallen over? Why did it have to be one growing in a yard of six red, white, gray brown and black dogs.

These 30 mph winds must have been attracted by the electrical charge of the barking dogs.

Pictures with people must be better after all. At least it's quieter.

Still...someone's got to follow up the hot tips.

Dogs guard the fallen tree.

Jaycees look for Beach 'first citizen'

The Virginia Beach Jaycees are now accepting nominations for the 28th Annual First Citizen of Virginia Beach Award.

The selection of the recipient will be made by former recipients of the award and other outstanding citizens of Virginia Beach. The selection will be based upon the nominee's contributions to the city and community of Virginia Beach.

The only requirements for an individual to be nominated are that he or she be a resident of and employed in the city of Virginia Beach.

All nominations, with supporting materials, should be submitted in writing to David Faggert, First Citizen Committee, 806 Edwin Drive, Virginia Beach, 23462 by March 3.

Beach to equip Coast Guard

By LEE CARILL
SUN Public Affairs Writer

With little chance of getting out of the coast guarding business any time soon, the city of Virginia Beach is going ahead with plans to equip the police Department's marine patrol unit more adequately.

Rear Adm. Julian A. Johansen, commander of the 5th Coast Guard District, Monday afternoon gave city council little hope that its activities in the city's waterways and at sea will be stepped up enough to take over functions of the city unit.

Johansen said that the Coast Guard has no jurisdictional limits and goes wherever it is called, but that the Coast Guard's job is one of responding in distress situations rather than patrolling.

Councilman John R. Griffin, asking whether the Coast Guard could keep a patrol boat in Rudee Inlet, was told by the admiral that there is an insufficient number of distress cases there to justify a patrol boat.

He said that a larger vessel, with a deeper draft would have a harder time getting out of Rudee Inlet, especially in times of storms when most of the distress calls are made.

City manager George L. Hanbury said that he and the admiral had an informal agreement that the city would try to patrol up to a mile from shore.

For anything beyond that, the Coast Guard would be called.

The only problem with the arrangement is the time it takes for a Coast Guard vessel to get from its base in Little Creek to get to Rudee Inlet. The least time it would take is 30 minutes, but Johansen said that aircraft is available at Elizabeth City and Naval Air Craft at Oceana.

The city finds itself, however, going beyond the mile limit because it happens to be on the scene when help is needed.

Admiral Johansen said that it was actually unusual for cities situated on waterways not to have some type of marine service.

Councilman John R. Griffin, on asking whether the Coast Guard could keep a patrol boat in Rudee Inlet, was told by Admiral Johansen that the number of distress cases in the vicinity do not justify a patrol boat.

He added that the Coast Guard's larger boats would have difficulty getting out of Rudee Inlet.

Vice mayor Patrick L. Standing said that commercial boats often are held up because they have to stand by a boat in distress.

Admiral Johansen said that "we have large merchant vessels standing by." He said four were standing by the Greek ship which recently ran into trouble off Hatteras. He said that if instant response was what was wanted, it's going to cost a someone a lot of money.

"He said the Coast Guard's first concern was for the safety of people."

In the Coast Guard, he said, the thrust is away from expansion. He said the main reason that the old Coast Guard Station on the beach front was discontinued in 1969 was because of the lack of activity.

He said the State of Maryland has an active marine patrol which operates mostly in the Chesapeake Bay and is the best equipped unit outside of the Coast Guard.

Hanbury said that he would like to have a state-funded program in Virginia like Maryland's, but as it is, the cities bordering the water have been funding their own programs.

Admiral Johansen said that under the Federal Boat Safety Act, Virginia received a grant of $90,000. Hanbury remarked that 96 percent of the money goes to the gaming part of the Game and Fisheries Commission.

Mayor Clarence A. Holland remarked that what the city needed is a Coast Guard station like Little Creek.

A minimum of 200 cases a year would be needed to justify a station, Admiral Johansen said, and "you don't have that kind of volume."

The city will advertise for bids for the new equipment specifying gasoline or diesel powered boats.

Hanbury said that the Volvo-Penta Company has offered to sell diesel-powered boats, which would require less maintenance and fuel, for approximately the same price as gasoline-powered inboards. Ordinarily the diesel craft would cost about $5,000 more.

Griffin suggested that it may be better to buy one larger vessel instead of two smaller ones.

Mayor Holland said that he didn't "think the city had any business operating in rough seas. If we got too big a boat we'll be placed in a position of criticism more than if the city had three small boats."

"Boat owners have a little responsibility," he said. "There are all kinds of crazy people."

Hanbury, in answer to a question from councilwoman Meyera Oberndorf, said that the estimated price for the boats includes everything but the radios which would cost approximately $400 a piece.

Pari-mutuel betting stir first weeks of general assembly

by Beach Delegate Glenn B. McClanahan

A public hearing has been scheduled on pari-mutuel horse racing in Virginia.

This is the fourth time that the merits of pari-mutuel betting have been debated at the general assembly. In 1973, 1974 and 1976 the measure was approved by the state senate but defeated in the house.

The measure calls for statewide and local option pari-mutuel referendums and establishment of a five-member racing commission with strong police powers.

Under terms of the bill, as now drawn, only two tracks would offer harness and thoroughbred racing. Local hunt and steeplechase groups could receive limited licenses.

In previous testimony at assembly hearings, it seemed evident that if the bill is approved and legal horse racing finally came to Virginia, one of the two proposed tracks would be in the Tidewater area. The other would be located in Northern Virginia.

Chief patron of the horse racing bill was a Republican, Delegate Raymond R. Guest Jr., who comes from Warren in Virginia's "horse" country.

Leading the general assembly foes of the guest bill is Delegate Richard Hobson, an Alexandria Democrat. Hobson will marshal the anti betting forces at the hearing.

Norfolk delegate Thomas W. Moss Jr. is chairman of the general laws committee which must approve the bill before it goes to the house for a vote. Moss had stated earlier that he thought all the arguments on the bill had been heard at previous sessions and that no public hearing was necessary. However, Hobson insisted on such a hearing and Moss acceded to his insistence.

Proponents of the pari-mutuel racing say such racing would bring large revenues to the commonwealth and perhaps preclude the necessity for taxation in other areas.

Bill Jennings, president of the Virginia Horse Association, said the state and localities would split $25 million annually from racing revenues. He contended also that racing would add an additional $250 million a year to the state's economy.

Virginia is a state where many thoroughbreds are raised, including the famed Secretariat, but where horse racing is not permitted. Pari-mutuel betting and horse racing is legal in three contiguous states—Maryland, West Virginia and Kentucky.

Bringing the biggest crowds in the early days of the scheduled 60-day legislative session is the proposed Virginia approval of the Equal Rights Amendment to the United States Constitution. On Sunday, Jan. 22, a crowd estimated at 3,000 proponents of the Virginia approval staged a March-rally-parade in the capital city.

Two days later, a crowd estimated in excess of 1,500 persons adamantly opposed to the measure made their appearance at the capital.

Veteran legislators say that they have not, during their tenure in office, seen more fervent approval and disapproval emanating from any proposed bills or resolutions.

Operations building may be popular

By LEE CAHILL
Public Affairs Writer

When the new Operations Building is completed in a couple of years, it may become the most popular building in the civic center complex at Princess Anne Court-house by virtue of its restaurant.

City Manager George L. Hanbury told Council Monday afternoon that there were no eating facilities nearby, that the only restaurant in the neighborhood closed down and that the city has had no success in attracting private interests. The death of eating places nearby results in lost manpowers, he said.

He said space in the new building which won't be immediately needed could be turned over to the Virginia Commission for the Visually Handicapped to operate a restaurant. He said the Commission establishes a blind person in the restaurant business, installs all the equipment and allows the handicapped person to hire help. The Commission already operates a facility of this type at the Tidewater Community College and the Naval Shipyard. The restaurant will be the short order type with a snack bar.

Hanbury said the city will be responsible only for the space.

The building, expected to be under construction in March or April, will be completed in 18 months.

Foundation meets

The Tidewater Branch of the Arthritis Foundation will host the Virginia State Chapter annual meeting at the Lake Wright Motel, Saturday, Feb. 4.

The keynote speaker will be Clifford M. Clarke, president of the national arthritis foundation. He will be addressing himself to plans, policies and procedures being initiated at the new national headquarters in Atlanta, Ga.

The assembly program will include a slide/sound presentation describing over 50 positions in health. Students will be given the chance to ask questions and to obtain further written information on any health career.

Beach council actions

By LEE CAHILL
SUN Public Affairs Writer

In actions Monday afternoon, Virginia Beach city council:

Appointed viewers in the application of Elton E. Wood and Gwendolyn M. Wood for the closure of a portion of Greensboro Avenue, Virginia Beach Borough.

Approved raffle permits for Colonial Circle of King's Daughters and Pembroke Kiwanis Club and a bingo-raffle permit for Temple Emanuel.

Approved license refunds of $2,441.42.

Approved an ordinance conveying to Idle Water Westminster Homes the city's eastern one-half of a portion of Great Neck Road because it has no need for the property.

The city acquired approximately .061 acres of land from Tidewater Westminster for road right of way with the understanding that the city would close and vacate any excess right of way abutting the property.

The road was closed giving Tidewater Westminster ownership of the western half and the city ownership of the eastern one-half. The eastern half is the part which was conveyed.

Approved an ordinance making anyone guilty of violating the food tax guilty of a Class IV misdemeanor.

Is there a generation gap at your house? Have the lines of communication and understanding between parent and child fallen into a deep chasm of selfishness, intolerance and mutual mistrust? Take your family to Church and let them all listen to the word of God, who sent His only Son to preach the gospel of faith and love to young and old alike, so that both may better understand the meaning and purpose of life. When family needs replace individual desires, your faith will provide answers that will benefit all. Let your Church span the gap of discord with a bridge of love.

Leola Roberts of Kings Grant

Riverboat cook anchors at Beach

By RHONDA MILLER
SUN Staff Writer

At 57, Leola Roberts of Virginia Beach "just got a notion that I wanted to try another job," saw an ad in the paper for a riverboat cook, and got hired.

Two weeks of running aground on the St. Louis to Omaha run on the Missouri River, with hardly any sleep, drove her to moan, "Well, if this is river life, I'm through with the river."

"The men are tough and the cook's got to be tougher."

A week of sleep got her revitalized, on to another boat ("a good boat, good crew, good waitress") and she landed right back into the "different life on the river, where I could see what was going on in the other world."

With three children well-raised and a husband who passed her boats in his job a railroad mail clerk, Leola put in six years of good cooking for the crews of riverboats on the Ohio, Missouri, Mississippi and Illinois rivers.

"Them old boys, they were good to work for. They treated you like a queen."

"Once in a while you'd get on a boat and one of them would want to cause trouble, but I knew how to take care of that. I told them, 'There are a lot of cook's jobs open, and if you want the fork and apron you do the cooking.'"

"The captain says 'if they give you any trouble, you know what you can do. You could cut them off.' That means not feed them."

"When I walk on a boat, I don't ask anybody anything. 'I'm a cook, and what I don't know, I figure it out myself. 'You run your pilot house,' she told the crew, "and I'll run the galley."

"Oh, she thought I was tough. Most of 'em liked me but some of 'em didn't."

Leola's talent came naturally.

"I taught my own self to cook. When I got married I couldn't cook a meal. I never used a cook book."

"If you'd get out there and let them tell you what to do and try to please them all why, you'd be crazy."

"You'd better believe you had to get tough with the men. The men are tough and the cook's got to be tougher."

At first her husband didn't like the idea of Leola working on the riverboats, but soon, she says, "I made such good money (over 600 dollars a month) he started to like it."

"You had to work 16 hours a day though, cooking, filling out grocery lists, and sometimes putting up groceries at 2 a.m."

"Travelling up and down the river, you don't ever know if you're going or coming, you're working so hard."

She can tell stories about having to change boats in the middle of the river when the boats were swapping cooks or the time a preacher was supposed to visit and she told the crew, "When the preacher comes I don't want to hear no cussin out of you all."

Her favorite captain said her hot biscuits with brer rabbit syrup were the best he ever tasted, but eventually Leola had the urge to get back to St. Louis and stay in one place for a while.

"My old boss wanted me to come back to work," so she did, and went back to restaurant cooking.

Now that Leola lives a fairly peaceful life in Kings Grant, she's taken up more local activity with the Virginia Beach senior citizens.

"Travelling up and down the river you don't ever know if you're going or coming, you're working so hard."

Her favorite pastimes are Pinochle and Wednesday night bingo.

Even before the riverboats, Leola sometimes had to take the laundry off the line and pack it wet when her husband was in the army and got quick orders.

Does the more peaceful life suit her now?

"I'll tell you, it kind of gets on my nerves sometimes. But I guess I'm settling down."

"Them old boys, they were good to work for. They treated you like a queen."

Wouldn't Leola want to go run around on a riverboat anymore?

"I would if I could," she says quickly. "I'd like to go out on deep sea."

She's still cooking and makes some of the best pecan and mince pies and blueberry cobbler around.

"I'm not braggin' but I know I'm a good cook cause I put everything I have in it. And it's got to be right."

... The U.S. Government Awards the Ram-Jet Supercharger Patent No. 3118435. And other patents pending

NOW! BETWEEN 1 TO 7 MORE MILES PER GALLON FOR YOUR CAR

New Ram-Jet Actually "Jet Assists" Your Car Engine... Makes It Burn Up To 15 Gallons Of Air For Every Gallon Of Gas... And Gives You As Much As 15% More Clean Power! Jet Like Acceleration!

We believe Ram-Jet is the most exciting piece of high-performance automotive equipment since the V-8. Yet it weighs only a few ounces. Installs in a couple of minutes (No special tools or training needed. You won't even get your hands greasy). Costs less than a tankful of gas. And saves you so much gas, it's like getting up to one gallon in every ten FREE!

The brainchild of Ed Almquist, internationally famous automotive engineer and the "Thomas Edison of high-performance accessories." The Ram-Jet took over 20 years to develop and perfect.

How does it work?

Just as a jet engine requires a certain supply of air to operate... so does the gasoline combustion engine in your car. And it's the carburetor that mixes this air with fuel to fire the cylinders and make your car go. The problem is that carburetors were invented over 50 years ago when gas was plentiful and cheap and air pollution wasn't even talked about. The carburetor hasn't changed much since then. It's still a big compromise! It only works perfectly on those rare occasions when all driving conditions are perfect. (Which averages only a couple of minutes at the most out of every driving hour.) Your carburetor just can't efficiently adjust itself to your step-and-go driving, sudden bursts of speed; or to put it in technical terms... those many occasions when your engine is operating under 0-10" high-load conditions. When this crucial mixture of air and gas is not right... on the money, the result is a loss of power with a lot more gas being burned than is really necessary!

SIMPLE INSTRUCTIONS

Easy instructions show you how to install in just a few minutes. No special tools. No training needed. Fits all cars and trucks.

Now, at last, the Ram-Jet to the rescue! It solves both problems at once. It brings your 50-year-old carburetor design into the Jet Age.

1) It works like a "mini-computer" to automatically adjust the air/gas mixture to your every driving need. It thus steps up gas molecularization... reducing the over-rich mixture before it becomes wasteful. Just as a jet engine sucks air into it... the Ram-Jet automatically and safely jets air into the gas mixture the very split second your driving conditions require it.

2) It captures the polluted air that would ordinarily be fed back into your engine... and re-energizes it into a "Jet Stream" that is once again ignited into useful clean power instead of clogging up your engine and making it hesitate and stall and waste gasoline and power.

Thousands of similar devices sold in Europe for more than $20 a piece. The Ram-Jet Supercharger is now available to you for just $14.95. Because of a special arrangement, it comes to you direct (no middlemen) from the inventor/manufacturer himself, Mr. Ed Almquist.

WHAT DO PEOPLE SAY ABOUT THE RAM-JET SUPERCHARGER?

An airline pilot writes: "Suddenly my little six cylinder engine seems to have the power of an eight. Yet I save gas like it was a four. That little Ram-Jet is amazing!"
Philip Shale, Plymouth, Conn.
"I have a Ram-Jet. And so do many of my passengers. We found out that we average from 2 to 6 more miles per gallon with much more engine pep and acceleration!"
The Rev. P. Mich Harvey, Illinois

GREATEST GUARANTEE IN AUTOMOTIVE HISTORY: THE 100,000 MILE 100% MONEY BACK GUARANTEE. Anytime within the next 100,000 miles you put on your car, if you don't think the Ram-Jet Supercharger is the best automotive investment you've ever made, simply return it to us for a full money back refund. No questions asked. (And don't forget—with the Ram-Jet turning pollution into free power, instead of turning it back into your engine, it's no telling how many extra power-packed miles you'll be able to log on your engine before it's ready for the junkheap!)

Sailor of the quarter selected Aviation Electrician's Mate Third Class Charles L. Beye has been selected as the Naval Air Station Oceana Sailor of the Quarter for January, February and March.

Assigned to duties as a search and rescue (SAR) crewman with the Air Operations Department, AF³ Beye was honored at an awards ceremony with Captain M. G. McCanna, NAS Oceana Commanding Officer, Jan. 23.

"I enjoy my job and enjoy getting to help people when I can," said AES Beye. Although he has not had the chance to take part in many rescue missions while stationed at Oceana, he has participated in medical evacuations from ships, personnel transfers, drone recoveries and search and rescue demonstrations.

He was also a member of the Navy team demonstrating search and rescue techniques as part of last year's King Neptune Festival activities at Mt. Trashmore.

Aside from his helicopter crewman duties, AES Beye is responsible for maintaining the helicopter's electrical equipment. He has been selected for advancement to E-5 off the Navy-wide advancement examinations given in September 1977.

An avid jogger, AES Beye likes to run two or three miles a day, with the beach as one of his favorite running areas. Riding bicycles and scuba diving are among his other off-duty activities. During the summer months, he tries to get water training in the ocean once a week to stay in shape for search and rescue missions.

AES Beye also volunteers to take part in search and rescue training programs for area groups in his off-duty hours. He received a Letter of Appreciation from the Chesapeake Police Department for his part in a training program given to the policemen.

Entering the Navy under the Delayed entry Program, AES Beye enlisted in the service while still attending high school in Richmond Heights, Missouri, and came on active duty in August 1974. He requested duties as a search and rescue crewman while attending aviation electrician's mate school, and attended the four-week search and rescue aircrewman school in Jacksonville, Fla. before reporting to Oceana in June 1976.

The 21-year old son of Russell and Ann Beye of Richmond Heights, Mo., has five brothers and three sisters.

Members elected to vestry

At the annual congregational meeting of All Saints Episcopal Church, four new members were elected to serve three-year terms on the vestry.

The new members are William E. Fowler, Mrs. John T. Gray, Walter Mather and Richard R. Rowland.

Charles O. Needham Jr. was re-elected to the office of senior warden and Ian P.

Other members now serving on various vestry terms are Arthur G. Allen, Walter Goudy, Richard T. Short, Mrs. Henry O. Pestella, Thomas Valtk and John L. MacArthur.

The vestry is composed of 12 members and supervises the full operation of the church.

Registration correction

The Virginia Beach Department of Parks and Recreation winter class registration for adults, teens and youth, will be held Jan. 30th through Feb. 3rd, instead of Jan. 31st through Feb. 3rd as previously announced.

Registration will be at Pembroke Mall Monday through Thursday from 10 a.m. to 9 p.m. and Friday, Feb. 3rd from 10 a.m. to 8 p.m.

For further information, call the Virginia Beach Department of Parks and Recreation at 467-4884.

Robinson Crusoe has day

Remember the story about Robinson Crusoe—the shipwrecked sailor who spent 29 years on a deserted island?

That book, written by Daniel Defoe, is based on the true story of a sailor named Alexander Selkirk, who spent five years on an island in the Pacific Ocean, and who was finally found on February 1, 1706.

As a result, February 1 has been declared Robinson Crusoe Day. It is a day to be adventurous, self-reliant, and self-sufficient.

So why not visit your Virginia Beach Public Library and discover the adventure of reading a rousing novel or listening to some stirring music? You might even check out "Robinson Crusoe"

Volunteers recognized

The Tidewater Council, Boy Scouts of America, recognized their outstanding volunteers for 1977 at its recognition dinner held at SCOPE.

Nearly 600 volunteers and spouses participated in the program to recognize their peers. The silver Beaver Award, highest award the council can present, was presented to nine adults.

Among them were: William J. Lannon, Virginia Beach and Betty G. Mosley, Virginia Beach.

Dredging continues

The Virginia Beach Erosion Commission has voted to continue dredging at Rudee Inlet and delay the planned overhaul of the dredge to make certain the channel is available to boaters this spring.

The commission seeks to maintain a channel ten feet deep at low tide at the inlet and pumps the dredged sand to maintain the southern end of the resort beach.

Child care tax credit available

Taxpayers can reduce their tax liability if they qualify to claim child or disabled dependent care expenses on their 1977 tax return.

The credit is available to married couples who file jointly, where one spouse works full-time and the other works part-time or is a full-time student, or where both work part-time.

The credit is also available to a divorced or separated parent who has custody of a child under 15, even though the parent may not be entitled to a dependency exemption for the child. The parent claiming the credit must, however, have custody for a longer period during the year than the other parent. A deserted spouse is eligible for the credit when the deserting spouse is absent for the last six months of the taxable year.

The credit is 20 percent of eligible expenses. The maximum credit that may be taken is limited to $400 for one dependent and to $800 for two or more dependents.

To qualify for the child and disabled dependent care tax credit, a taxpayer (1) must be employed or in active search of employment while paying for the child's or disabled dependent's care; (2) must have incurred the expense in order to be gainfully employed; (3) must make sure payments for care are not to dependent relatives; and (4) must have maintained a household that included one or more qualifying individuals. Qualifying individuals are dependent children under 15 years of age, a disabled spouse or a disabled dependent of any age.

To claim the credit, taxpayers must file Form 1040, even if they do not itemize deductions. The credit is computed on Form 2441, which should be attached to the return.

Additional information is available in the free IRS Publication 503, Child Care and Disabled Dependent Care, which may be ordered by filling out the handy order blank in the tax package.

Part-time workers qualify

Are you a student working after-school hours to help make ends meet? Or a retiree who is working once a week in a neighborhood department store?

If so, you probably have a tax refund coming, says the Internal Revenue Service. Because of relatively low earnings, many part-time workers are not required by law to file a Federal income tax return. Generally, single taxpayers who made less than $2,360 in 1977 are not required to file a Federal income tax return. Singles 65 and over who made less than $3,700 do not have to file. Married couples have a $4,700 requirement before they have to file if they are under 65, with $750 added to the limit for each spouse who is 65 or over.

But in many cases income tax has been withheld from their pay and to get this money back, they must file a Federal tax return. By filing a return, qualified persons also may claim the earned income credit, which is provided for low-income workers with families.

Part-time workers who want to find out if they have a refund coming should check their Form W-2, Wage and Tax Statement. If income taxes were withheld, a return must be filed to recover the money.

People who do not expect to earn enough to pay income taxes and had no Federal tax liability in the previous year should ask their employers about filing a Form W-4 to eliminate the withholding of income taxes from the worker's paycheck.

Sun Special TAX FACTS

Free tax assistance for basic returns

Free tax assistance at the community level is available to Spanish-speaking, lower income and older taxpayers who need help in preparing basic Federal tax returns. The following questions and answers are provided by the Internal Revenue Service to explain this service.

Q: Who sponsors this free tax assistance and what is it called?

A: The Internal Revenue Service sponsors this free program known as Volunteer Income Tax Assistance (VITA).

Q: Just what is a basic tax return?

A: A Form 1040 or 1040A which does not involve complicated tax issues such as capital gains, business expenses and the like.

Q: What kind of training have the VITA assistants received?

A: VITA assistants are usually members of social, civic and religious organizations, retired persons or college students who have attended an IRS training session. These sessions emphasize basic income tax preparation involving step by step completion of Forms 1040 and 1040A. Assistants also are provided with information about tax benefits such as earned income credit and the tax credit for the elderly.

Q: How can I find out if there's a VITA center near my home?

A: Many taxpayers find it more convenient to visit a VITA center because of location. VITA centers are set up during filing season in neighborhood churches, schools, civic centers and even storefronts, making them easier to get to. Also, some taxpayers simply feel more comfortable dealing with volunteers in their own neighborhood.

Q: What should I take with me when I go to a VITA office?

A: Take your tax package (including Form 1040 or 1040A) and all pertinent records such as W-2 forms, and interest statements.

Doing your federal income taxes may be somewhat easier this year, thanks to the IRS' efforts to streamline its two best known forms - the 1040 and the 1040A.

First off, portions of both forms have been printed in an eye-saving pastel color - blue for the 1040 and pink for the 1040A. They no longer call it the short form (although it contains fewer lines this year) because it's now printed on one side of a full-sized sheet of paper. But, they haven't made it more complex or any longer, just changed the layout so everything is on one page. The reason? To save you from having to flip back and forth while figuring your taxes.

The 1040 is still the "long form" in the sense that it's designed for people whose circumstances necessitate more detail at tax time. But even the 1040 has been streamlined - it's now in a flow-through format wherein you start at the top of the page and continue straight through until the bottom of the back page where your signature goes. In short, it takes things step-by-step in a logical progression. Also, the form is arranged so that all income calculations are confined to the front page and all deductions and credits are on the back. Previous versions had income and deductions on opposite sides, requiring taxpayers to flip the form back and forth frequently.

The IRS automatically mails you forms and schedules based on what you filed the year before. If you need a form different than what they sent you or if you don't receive any tax package at all for some reason, forms are available at any IRS office, Postal Service Station, and many banks.

Which form is right for you depends on your present circumstances. One year the 1040 might be best, another year the 1040A. This year many more taxpayers will see that it's up to their advantage to use the time-saving 1040A. In fact, the IRS is urging people who habitually use the 1040 to review their situation carefully; this just might be the year that you are better off with the simpler 1040A.

In general, however, the 1040A is for taxpayers whose total income was $40,000 or less if married filing jointly, and $30,000 or less otherwise, and was from wages, salaries, tips, and not more than $400 in dividends or $400 in interest and who do not itemize their deductions.

For example, you are a person who earned $16,000 in a job where all of your income there was from wages. You also have some income from interest on your savings account and some dividends on stock you own, but not more than $400 in either case. You rent an apartment, so you have no mortgage interest or real estate taxes to deduct and your other itemized deductions are less than your zero bracket amount. The 1040A is the form for you.

The new "zero bracket amount" which replaces the old standard deduction is the reason why many taxpayers will make the switch to the 1040A this year. The amounts this year are a flat $2,200 for single persons and unmarried heads of household, $3,200 for married couples filing jointly and qualifying widows or widowers, and $1,600 for married people filing separately.

If you have itemized deductions totalling more than the zero bracket amount appropriate to your filing status, then you will have to use the 1040. The same is true for persons who paid alimony; had moving or employee business expenses; claim the child care credit, tax credit for the elderly, investment credit, and foreign tax credit.

At Age 65

There are some pretty good tax breaks. Check your tax instructions for details.

Low income parents may earn credit

Parents who earned less than $8,000 last year may once again be eligible to apply for an Earned Income Credit (EIC) and receive a special payment of up to $400 from the Federal government.

Earned Income Credit, a payment in the form of a tax credit, was first established by the Tax Reduction Act of 1975 and has been extended each year since then. The amount of the credit is determined by the recipient's total and earned income for 1977.

In addition to having an income of less than $8,000 which includes some earned income, recipients must have paid over half the cost of keeping up a home in the U. S. for all of 1977 for themselves and their child who was under 19 years old or a full-time student, or for their adult disabled child who qualifies as their dependent. The home can be either owned or rented.

The EIC may even mean a refund check for workers who normally would not be required to file a tax return.

Money received as EIC does not count as income when determining one's eligibility for other Federally funded assistance programs.

For people whose total income in 1977 was $4,000 or less, the credit is 10 percent of earned income, with a maximum of $400 (10 percent of $4,000). As income rises above $4,000 the amount of the credit is reduced by $1 for each $10 of income over $4,000, phasing out completely at $8,000.

Bear in mind, however, that you must file a 1977 income tax return to receive the credit. Both single and married persons are eligible, but married persons generally must file a joint return to qualify. The IRS will compute the credit if the worker fills in certain basic information on the return.

Mail early

The image is a classic: cars lined up at the post office, midnight on April 15, drivers rushing to mail their tax returns before the deadline.

According to the Internal Revenue Service, many of those last minute filers are due refunds they would have received months earlier if they had filed in January or February.

The reason is simple. Because fewer people file early in the year, employees at IRS service centers can process a return and have a refund check out in four or five weeks.

IRA Deduction

The Internal Revenue Service advises that the deadline for setting up an Individual Retirement Arrangement and taking the deduction for tax year 1977 is February 14, 1978.

Taxpayers under age 70 1/2 have 45 days from the end of the tax year to make their contribution and still deduct it on their tax return. In the case of a new Individual Retirement Arrangement, the account may be established at any time prior to or at the time a contribution is made. Thus, the fact that an IRA was not established by the end of 1977 will not prevent a deductible contribution from being credited that year.

If the worker does not actively participate in any other qualified, deferred compensation plan or other government retirement plan, he or she may establish and contribute to a separate IRA for a nonworking spouse or maintain a separate account for the spouse in the worker's own IRA. For purposes of the deduction, equal contributions must be made to each account; and, the total amount cannot exceed 15 percent of the total compensation, up to $1,750. An IRA for only the worker is limited to a $1,500 deduction.

Judo competition is divided into weight classes, with men and women competing in different classes. Here several lady fighters warm up.

Debbie Amos of the Tidewater Judo Club and Martha Quinn of Richmond battle it out at the AAU competition held at the Recreation Center Sunday.

Competition was geared for brown and black belt fighters Sunday, although fighters with white belts who wished to compete were able to qualify.

The Recreation Center in Kempesville was filled with the elite of Virginia Judo Sunday when the AAU Championships came to Virginia Beach.

Fighters from all over the state came to compete and rank for the senior open division. All fighter with brown and black belts were able to compete along with any white belt who wished to.

The National Judo Championships will be held in Chicago in April.

Competition was divided into weight classes. Classes are divided into men, women and juniors. Sexes do not compete against each other in judo.

Besides open fighting, kata competition was also held Sunday. Pre-arranged forms and technique consisted of the kata competition judging. Sunday a precedent was set by having the first example of junior kata competition in the state.

First, second and third place medals were earned by fighters and the outstanding male and female were named.

Past basketball stars featured at alumni week-end

Alumni Weekend at Virginia Wesleyan College this year will feature the basketball stars of yesteryear against this year's junior varsity contingent.

The game will be played on Saturday, Feb. 4, at 8:45 p.m. in the Van Cunningham Gymnasium on campus.

The social weekend will actually begin Friday evening with an alumni party. The Alumni Council will hold a business session Saturday morning at 10. Dinner will be served at 5 p.m. that afternoon in the Fruden Lounge. The cost of dinner is $2.50 per person.

The alumni-JV game follows, with the weekend concluding when the varsity Blue Marlins take on league-leading Methodist in an eight o'clock contest. Alumni can attend both basketball games as guests of the College. The alumni-JV Game is free and open to the public.

The "Over-The-Hill Gang" will be led by alumnus Pete Withers, an All-American who made All-Conference for three years until he graduated in 1976.

Beach men sweep car show awards

John H. Sheally II and Gordon Harper Jr., of Virginia Beach, swept eight of the awards at the recent International Car Show "An Auto World."

Sheally took first in competition sports car, best competition engine, best competition interior, best competition overall, first street sports car and first place street bike.

Sheally's entries included

1965 and 1967 Morgans and a XLCH Harley Davidson Cafe Racer motorcycle.

Harper took first in stock bike with his Harley Davidson FLH Electra Glide.

Together the two won best booth for their display.

Beach gymnasts place

Gina Pacine of the Americana Gymnastic Club placed first or second in four events at the Peachtree Open gymnastic meet in Atlanta, Ga.

Pacine won the bars, and placed second in vaulting, balance beam and all-around in the 9-11-year-old class to lead Americans.

Annette Evans placed fourth in vaulting in 12-14-year-old competition, and qualified for the finals where she finished second.

Also competing for Americans was Dianne Givena, Jaime Villas, Kim Lewis and Judy Wagner. The team placed eighth out of 28.

Emily Dickinson arrives on Beach stage

By JOAN COATES
SUN Editor

Virginia Anton considers Emily Dickinson a dear friend. "Sometimes I play women I don't like...I have to work hard to find things in myself (that represent them) the actress said. "But there was none of that in Emily Dickinson. I loved her from the beginning."

Ms. Anton portrays Emily Dickinson, the reclusive American poet, in the Virginia Beach Parks and Recreation production of William Luce's "The Belle of Amherst." Henry DeShields directs the one-woman show.

"Henry is an old friend," the professional Niagara Falls actress said, "which is one reason why I'm here. We worked in shows together in New York. He was very excited in the cultural experience possible with city funds here in Virginia Beach."

"I hope the people of Virginia Beach realize what they've got here. I don't know if they do. They've got a paid staff...Henry DeShields...people who know what they're doing and are not afraid of to spend extra hours to make perfection."

The idea of playing Emily Dickinson was one that appealed to Ms. Anton. "I had seen the production before," she said. "It's a very good script. It's beautiful to work with. The author calls it a love affair with language."

The focus of "The Belle of Amherst" is Emily Dickinson...her life, her time and her poems.

"There're many people who are familiar with her...and many more who are not. The play is an introduction to her. She wrote thousands of poems and the most famous ones are in the play. It's a sampling of her work," Ms. Anton said.

A woman who preferred to remain in seclusion, Ms. Dickinson wrote poems which had trouble with being published because they didn't rhyme. She was considered an eccentric, "half crazed." She always wore white and carried on friendships only by mail. She remains pretty much a mystery, even today.

But Ms. Anton plans to familiarize Virginia Beach with the poet.

"I'm excited and ready to let people come into Emily Dickinson's home," she said. "I'm very comfortable on the set...this is Emily's home."

Trying to keep the set as close as possible to Amherst, DeShields has included a silver service from Amherst and a bedcovering dated 1857. Ms. Anton wears a lavender cape which is dated 1850 and a cameo circled in gold with a watch at her waist, things that were very much Emily Dickinson. And her dresses are replicas of originals.

"As a consequence of her seclusion, she wrote some wonderfully universal poems," Ms. Anton explained. "After I started researching her, I would find in everyday conversation someone would say something by her. So consequently, I'm very comfortable with her."

Although Ms. Anton's varied career has included such Shakespearean roles as Portia, Rosalind and Lady Macbeth, and contemporary characters from "Tobacco Road," "Red Hot Lovers," and "By the Spirit," she feels that the multi-faceted Emily is one of the most challenging roles of her career.

"She's the type of character I've never played...that's exciting for me," she said.

"Because it's a one woman show the other characters are in my mind," Ms. Anton pointed out. "I'll let the audience see them the way I want to."

She looks at being on the stage by herself two ways.

"On the positive side...even if things go wrong...I can jiggle things around. On the negative side...there is no one to help me if I get in a jam."

Of the school of theatre where she can stand back from her character, Ms. Anton said her job as an actress does not include becoming the character she portrays.

"I'm aware of the technical aspects," she said. "I'm presenting for the people out there."

"Sure, my personality is affected by my roles. When I was a queen...I became more haughty. Playing Emily...I'm more shy."

She recalled a time when after playing a depressing role, she had to "work hard to be myself. But if I'm affected by Emily Dickinson, it would be a good thing."

Performances at the Recreation Center will run Feb. 1st through the 4th at 8 p.m.; and Feb. 4 and 5 at 3 p.m. Matinees will feature understudy Kathleen Lockwood.

Admission is free although reservations are required. They can be made by calling 499-1281.

Painting the Beach

...with Eric Stevens

Ms. Roberts makes the show

"The show must go on" seems like a cliché to laymen, but to performers it is gospel. It's one of those "pride" things that's imbued in you so long ago you can't trace it...like whatever it is that makes your hair stand on end over "America The Beautiful."

Recently at the Cavalier Hotel Sharon Roberts exhibited an extreme example of this.

First of all, she had laryngitis. That doesn't always mean complete loss of voice; it literally means inflammation of the larynx, which is better known as the Adam's Apple...and it is a singer's nightmare. But unless it is "total," an old pro has a bag of tricks to get by.

Second, she had tripped on a faulty heel a few days prior, and was out cold for forty-five minutes, later discovering a cracked skull.

But when Sharon comes on stage...DRAGGING her mink...it is done with a flare that makes it look so easy you'd never know she had spent ten hours planning her show. She gears her presentation toward giving the customers exactly what they want, and derives great satisfaction if just one person has had his day brightened.

Ms. Roberts became a Libra in "that city by the Bay." Most her school years were spent in Europe, including attending the Conservatory in Italy on a special opera-training grant. She scholar-shipped her way through four years at Austin Peay State University in Tennessee, and no stranger to Old Dominion University.

Until a decade ago, Sharon did concerts all over the world. She then did a 180 degree turn and became a pop singer. She also married her conductor. His name is Dan Richardson, and they are today friendly rivals in the bandleading world.

Locally, Mrs. Richardson has many credits. At the old Stage Door Dinner Theater she was in "How To Succeed In Business Without Really Trying." She guested at the "Concert Under The Stars" for the Azalea Festival.

At the "Festival of the Arts" Sharon was in a production called "Million Dollar Record Seller" which later took to the road. And in a show entitled "The Great Broadway Hits" Sharon was backed by the Cincinnati Fleet Symphony.

Like most musicians, Ms. Roberts has attempted retirement. One Saturday night she announced her swan song, but six hours later was awakened by a virtual demand to perform...and she couldn't resist.

Naturally, she still enjoys opera, and among her favorite singers are "eternity Price and Beverly Sills. For pop-jazz she admires Ella Fitzgerald, Peggy Lee and the British actress-singer Cleo Laine. However, Sharon copies no one, and varies her offerings according to the ages of her audiences.

Next time YOU have a fractured skull, see if YOU feel like singing!

Eric Stevens is active in the area as a bandleader and singer. During his 11 years in NY he played bass on Charlie Chase's hit, "Procherman," appeared on the Merv Griffin Show and wrote a series of pamphlets for singers.

If you'd like a catalog describing the pamphlets, write to POB 4118, Virginia Beach, 23454.

NOTICE TO THE PUBLIC OF A VOLUNTARY RATE FOR SYNAGOGUES, CHURCHES AND SIMILAR INSTITUTIONS

Virginia Electric and Power Company filed on January 6, 1978, with the State Corporation Commission of Virginia a Time-of-Usage rate entitled Schedule No. 5P to be effective May 1, 1978. This rate is available on a voluntary basis only for synagogues, churches and similar institutions operated solely for charitable purposes.

Although, at the present time, it cannot be estimated how many synagogues, churches or similar institutions would benefit by volunteering for the proposed new rate, it is anticipated that Schedule No. 5P would be best suited for the above customers whose electric usage is predominantly off-peak; the off-peak periods being 9 P.M. to 9 A.M. EST, Monday through Friday and all day Saturday and Sunday.

Any synagogue, church or similar institution which may be interested in volunteering for the Time-of-Usage Rate Schedule No. 5P, should advise Vepco by contacting the local Vepco office. After a request concerning this new rate has been received, a contact will be made by a Vepco representative to assist in estimating the impact that this rate would have on the charges for electric service. Subsequently the customer will have the option of making the decision as to whether or not to volunteer for this rate.

Any person desiring to comment on the Company's application should do so by writing to William C. Young, Clerk, State Corporation Commission, Blanton Building, P.O. Box 1197, Richmond, Virginia 23209. All comments must be forwarded no later than April 30, 1978.

Beach students earn recognition

Student nurse honored

Diane Marie Conrad of Virginia Beach is among three student nurses named to the dean's list covering scholastic achievement during the fall semester at Richard Bland College of Arts and Sciences. College of William and Mary, James McNeer, dean of faculty, said the Petersburg General Hospital School of Nursing students commute to RBC for their college level academic work.

Miss Conrad, a freshman, is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Howard Conrad, 5758 East Hastings Arch. She is a graduate of Bayside High School.

A 3.25 grade point average or better is required to meet dean's list requirements. No less than 12 credit hours must be carried each semester with no grade less than C being acceptable.

Dean McNeer is sending certificates acknowledging their achievement to all 81 on the list.

DeWitt receives degree

Martha Fleming deWitt recently received a Master's degree in art education from East Carolina University.

The daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Paul deWitt, Crystal Parkway, she is a graduate of First Colonial High School and East Carolina University.

Miss deWitt teaches art in five public schools in Edgecombe County, N.C.

Students on dean's list

Virginia Beach residents recently named to the dean's list at their respective colleges include: Ann F. Boyd and Linda G. Boyd, daughters of Mr. and Mrs. Wallace Boyd of Appalachian Court; James L. Haworth daughter of Mr. and Mrs. A.G. Haworth, Jr., of Bryan Lane; Anna A. Thomason, daughter of Dr. R.R. Thomason of North Witchduck Road, all students at Carson-Newman College in Jefferson City, Tenn.

Langwood College gymnast Kim Furbee of Virginia Beach strikes a pose in practice of her floor exercise routine. Kim is a physical education major in her second year.

Miss Doline named

University of Richmond sophomore Leslie Kay Doline, whose major is accounting, has recently been named to the dean's list. She is a 1978 honor graduate of Princess Anne High School and is the daughter of Dr. and Mrs. Leonard S. Doline of Lynn Shores Drive.

Smith teaches art of bricklaying

When Herbert L. Smith Jr. graduated from high school, his mother urged him to go into higher education and his father urged him to work as a bricklayer. He has successfully done both and today is a bricklaying instructor at the Virginia Beach Vocational-Technical Education Center with a master's degree in industrial education.

Smith completed his master's requirements last May through Virginia State College in Petersburg, Va.

On the wall of his classroom is a list of average hourly wages for bricklayers in various cities across the country. The wages are impressive and Smith said he put the list up to motivate the students. As far as he is concerned, however, he is happy where he is, teaching the art of bricklaying to students who want to learn.

The soft-spoken Smith became interested in bricklaying while attending Booker T. Washington High School in Norfolk. He went on to Virginia State College where he graduated in 1965 with a bachelor's degree in industrial education (masonry).

His first teaching assignment was in the industrial arts department of the old Huntington High School in Newport News, but he soon wanted to work in the trade on his own.

He began subcontracting bricklaying jobs throughout Tidewater and in his travels went by the site on North Landing Road where a new Virginia Beach school was being built. When he found out that the building would be a vocational school, he reasoned that it would need a bricklaying instructor and applied for a position. He is now in his fifth year at VoTech.

Herbert L. Smith

Chowan lists Bueche

Ann E. Bueche of Virginia Beach, is one of 37 students named to the Dean's List for academic achievement during the fall semester at Chowan College.

Miss Bueche is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. A. H. Bueche Jr. and a graduate of Bayside High School.

Swecker recognized

Chris Swecker of Prince Michael Court is one of 1,291 students at Appalachian

State University, Boone, N.C., earning fall semester academic honors and has been placed on the dean's list.

To qualify for the honor, a student must maintain a 3.25 average or at least 12 semester hours of work with no grade below C.

Host families sought

American host families are being sought for 450 Scandinavian high school students from Sweden, Norway, Denmark and Finland for the Scandinavian Student Exchange (ASSE).

Interested families in Virginia Beach should contact Kitty Wolf, 5010 Colonial Avenue, Norfolk, telephone 804/625-6625.

Miss Smith is finalist

Anna Marie Smith, a student at First Colonial High School, was a top ten finalist in the state Junior Miss Pageant held recently in Richmond.

Miss Smith also was first runner-up in a hairstyle competition and second runner-up in a dressmaking competition that took place during the pageant. She is the daughter of Mrs. Nancy Smith of Echo Cove in Virginia Beach.

The local Virginia Beach Junior Miss Pageant was named the best in Virginia this year by state judges. It was organized by Sheila Nance and Linda Gerber.

Drullhet earns place in "Who's Who"

Emily "Mimi" Drullhet Holmes, daughter of Mr. O. Louis Holmes of Shagbark Road, Virginia Beach, has been selected as one of the country's outstanding college campus leaders. She has been named to "Who's Who Among Students" in American Universities and Colleges for 1977-78.

A senior at Agnes Scott, Mimi is a graduate of Sandalwood High School. She is president of the Blackfriars and secretary of Mortar Board. She is also a Stukes Scholar for attaining the highest grade point average in her class.

Huddleston accepted

Jon Huddleston, son of Mrs. Stewart E. Huddleston of West Twin Cove Road, has been accepted for admission at the College of William and Mary. He is a senior at Cox High School where he served as president of the Honor Society.

Education.....

Schools participate in model judiciary

Schools from Chesapeake, Norfolk and Virginia Beach will be participating in the Model Judiciary Program, sponsored by the Virginia YMCA and the Young Lawyers of the Virginia Bar Association.

The goal of the Model Judiciary program is to provide high school students with a better understanding of Virginia's court system by giving them the opportunity to experience the system first hand.

Trials will be conducted by teams representing Hi-Y and Tri-Hi-Y clubs from Great Bridge, Indian River, Kempsville, Lake Taylor and Oscar Smith High Schools.

Student attorneys are being coached by young lawyers of the Norfolk Bar Association. Each team has student witnesses and the case will be tried before a student jury and a circuit judge of the Norfolk Court.

Following the local trials, appeals will be made to the Model Supreme Court in Richmond. Appeals will be heard by nine student justices in the Virginia Supreme Court's courtroom.

Shirley, Wallace and Callis named to school board

Virginia Beach City Council has named three Virginia Beach citizens to serve on the Virginia Beach School Board, replacing three board members whose terms expired Dec. 31.

Norris Shirley, Dr. Duncan Wallace and Robert Callis have joined the School Board, replacing J.W. Buffington, who has served since 1963, Henry O. Fennella, a six-year member of the board, and one-term member Dr. John Mapp.

Shirley is a native of Virginia Beach and farms about 1,300 acres of land in lower Virginia Beach and Chesapeake, growing soybeans, wheat and corn. His son and daughter are graduates of Kalam High School.

In 1976 Shirley was named Man of the Year in Agriculture by the Virginia Beach Chamber of Commerce.

Dr. Wallace is a psychiatrist with offices near Haygood Shopping Center. He is associated with Psychiatric Associates of Tidewater. Since moving to Virginia Beach in 1971, Dr. Wallace has become involved with Citizens for Human Sexuality Education in Virginia Beach and maintains an interest in special education, working with the handicapped and learning disabled.

He is the father of four children—one attends Cox High School, one attends Independence Junior High, another is at the Center for Effective Learning and the fourth is pre-school age.

Callis is a former city council member, a former candidate for the state Senate and a member and former officer of the Virginia Pilots Association.

He is also a member of the Tidewater Transportation Commission and the Governor's Council on Transportation. He and his wife have four children—one in college, two at First Colonial High School, and one at Linkhorn Park Elementary School.

Commencement changed

The Virginia Beach School Board has voted to move commencement exercises for its senior high schools from night to day in order to provide more safety for graduates and help restore dignity and decorum to the ceremonies.

The board voted to hold its commencements Sunday June 18 with starting times varying from 2 p.m. to 3 p.m.

Morton resigns

Terry Morton, Bayside High School's head football and baseball coach, announced his resignation effective Jan. 31.

Morton will enter private business, joining a hospital supplies firm.

The highlight of Morton's coaching career was in 1976 when he led the his light-hitting strong-pitching baseball team to the state Group AAA title.

Pungo dreamers awake to a medical reality...

Pungo now has its own facility where with the team approach, service will be more convenient and better for the rural community of Virginia Beach.

After the city hired a consulting firm for $30,000 to determine the need of the facility, controversy arose.

The firm concluded that there was no need for the facility. The Virginia Beach Medical Society refused to endorse the center. The only physician practicing in the rural southern part of the city, Dr. Ira L. Hancock, considered the proposal as "damn foolish."

The group headed by Dr. Robertson and City Councilman Floyd Waterfield managed to obtain a grant of $173,000 from the Department of Health, Education and Welfare, in spite of the controversy.

Hours at the center are by appointment. Operation will be from 9 a.m. until 4:30 p.m., Monday, Tuesday, Thursday and Friday. Wednesday hours will be from 12:30 p.m. until 7:30 p.m. Hours on Saturday will be from 8:30 a.m. until 11:30 a.m.

Don Horsey, of Blackwater, and son Shane, check out the scene Sunday, of people getting a look at the new medical facility in Pungo.

Members of the board of the medical center were on hand Sunday to get to know the people the center will be serving. Maxine Graham and Earl M. Tobant, both board members discuss feelings of the opening.

Oscar M. Deater and I.V. Jones of the Croeds Kurita Club, were at the Pungo Medical Facility Sunday to welcome the rural community to their new aid center. The center is located just south of the intersection of Indian River and Princess Anne Road.

Jean Atkinson, of Muddy Creek Road and Joan McClain, of Blackwater Road, helped out at the open house by serving punch and cake to the curious of Virginia Beach.

He was more than willing to get in the spotlight Sunday. He smiled and let the people pass as they inspected the new facility. Floyd Waterfield III just wanted to get his picture taken. Floyd lives on Mill Landing Road.

Denise Carvalho, ambulatory care nurse and Belle McMahon, nurse practitioner, will serve the needs of the rural community of Virginia Beach at the Pungo Medical Center.

Birgit Bolsher MD will be on the staff of the center.

Beach elderly have an alternative

By JOAN COATES
SUN Editor

The Center for Leisure Activities for Older Adults is offering the elderly of Virginia Beach an alternative. It is a continuing program for older citizens in a group setting, away from the home.

It offers companionship and social activities to senior citizens, who would otherwise be home during the day. It is an alternative to placement in nursing homes. In effect, it is a daycare for the elderly.

In effect, it is a daycare for the elderly.

"Constant 24-hour care for the elderly is a strain on the family relationship," noted Mary Ellen Cox, chairman of the Center's Board. "There is a stress in keeping the elderly in the home. What we offer is an alternative for the elderly who are inappropriately placed in a nursing home."

The Center, which is located in a room behind Bayside Christian Church, on Greenwell road, originated in 1975 when the Mayor's Committee on Aging decided to seek an alternative for the elderly.

"They found out that a lot of people were in nursing homes because there was no one to take care of them during the day," explained Madeline Dunstan, director of the Center. "So they began to explore other areas."

After locating a church with the facilities needed, the Center began operation.

A private, non-profit organization, the Center is funded through SEAVAMP, a state Social Service supported area aging agency, and monies from Virginia Beach's Title 20.

Participants are charged a sliding scale fee "depending on what they can pay," said Ms. Dunstan. "We wouldn't want the fee to hinder anyone from coming here." Most daily fees range from two to eight dollars, she noted.

Programs at the Center range in diversity from arts and crafts to field trips and reality orientations.

"Reality orientations or reminiscence therapy is when you have them bring up thoughts, customs or folkways and get them to look through the past," Ms. Dunstan explained.

"We lean toward activities which are more mentally stimulating."

Some recent activities include films from the Virginia State Library, a lecture from the Virginia Beach Library on the city's history and folklore, paramedic demonstration on cardiac resuscitation, sing-a-longs and ice cream socials.

Open Monday through Friday from 8 a.m. to 5 p.m., the Center provides meals for the participants. There are facilities to prepare special diets when necessary.

Along with Ms. Dunstan, who has a B.A. in sociology, there are three other aides who work at the Center.

"The most important aspect of my job is sitting and listening to them...whether it's happy or sad...just listening helps" the director said. "They give a lot to me... their experience, their life, their knowledge."

The Center which has hopes of one day becoming self-sufficient could not exist without the aid of the community, according to Ms. Cox.

"The Cape Henry Woman's Club has adopted this site," she noted. "And we've received cash donations from the Kiwanis and Rotary clubs and Tidewater Community College furnishes us with volunteers."

"What we offer is an alternative for the elderly who are inappropriately placed in a nursing home."

Recently, Virginia Beach Federal and Creative Designs joined in sponsoring a billboard on Shore Drive to advertise the Center. Creative Designs donated the billboard and Virginia Beach Federal paid for the silk screening.

The Center's major problem is in letting people know that they do exist. Presently, there are five seniors who come every day and three who come part time. "The youngest is 67-years-old and the oldest is 94."

The Center could hold up to fifteen, according to Ms. Dunstan. Participants need to be age 60 or older, be able to take care of their own physical needs and be in "fairly" good health.

Prenatal exercise makes birth smoother for Mom

This month, a new concept in fitness comes to Virginia Beach with a prenatal/postnatal exercise program.

This program is designed with the particular needs of expectant and recently delivered mothers in mind. It emphasizes good physical condition and awareness as preparation for delivery, and concentrates on muscle groups affected by or influencing pregnancy.

Not only does it prepare the mother for a smoother delivery after most normal pregnancies, by developing stamina and endurance, but it also has practical applications. It offers tried and tested suggestions for coping with many of the common discomforts of pregnancy.

Additionally, the program offers the pregnant woman a physical outlet for her tensions and frustrations, and the moral support of other women experiencing the same thing at the same time.

The program is directed by Deborah A. Nadell, who has a Master of Fine Arts in dance from Florida State University, and who is currently an instructor of dance and gymnastics at Old Dominion University and Tidewater Community College and other schools in the area. She is also a member of the Tidewater Childbirth Education Association.

Classes are being held at the Montessori Children's House on Lynnhaven. For more information, contact Montessori Children's House (468-1914) or Deborah A. Nadell (428-4989).

TCC Consumer Workshop succeeds at Seatack

Two more consumer workshops are scheduled at the Seatack Center on Feb. 2nd and 9th at 8:30 p.m. These sessions are free and open to the public. Refreshments will be served.

This session included an explanation of the various kinds of loans, the truth in lending law and how these procedures affect the consumer.

The second in a series of five Consumer Education Workshops was held at the Seatack Neighborhood Center on Jan. 19.

Twenty-two residents of the Seatack area listened to Professor Aaron James of the Virginia Beach Campus of Tidewater Community College discuss credit and contracts.

Meeting held Feb. 1

The Tidewater Chapter of the National Foundation will meet on Wednesday, Feb. 1 at 8 p.m. at the General Hospital of Virginia Beach on First Colonial Road.

Dr. Russell Dunnington will be the guest speaker.

These meetings are free to the public. All interested persons are invited.

Storytime begins at library Nominations sought for freedom awards

The Windsor Woods Branch of the Virginia Beach Public Library System will begin a story time for children in grades kindergarten through third on Feb. 16.

These story times will be held every Thursday at 4 p.m. and does not require registration. However only those in the grades designated will be admitted to the programs.

Also beginning on Thursday, Feb. 16, the story times for pre-school aged children will be held on Thursdays at 10:30 a.m. These programs are for children who have reached their third birthday up through those who are still five.

Parents are requested to remain in the library during these story times which last approximately thirty minutes.

Story times for grades kindergarten through third are also held at the Great Neck Branch on Wednesdays at 4 p.m. and at the Kempsville Branch on Saturdays at 10 a.m.

For further information on any of these programs or to get the complete list of story times held in all branch libraries, contact Ann Scott, Children's Coordinator, at 340-2967.

Nominations are currently being sought by Freedom Foundation at Valley Forge for consideration in its annual national awards program which will, for the 30th consecutive year, honor individuals and groups for their work supporting and perpetuating the ideals inherent in the American political, social and economic system.

The program is comprised of twenty-five separate categories encompassing various areas of activity. Nominated material must have been written or created after Oct. 1, 1977 and must be submitted to Freedom Foundation by October 1, 1978.

Areas in which material is eligible include journalism, sermons and public addresses, youth, advertising, electronic communications and film, community programs, nonprofit and corporate publications, government and a d corporate publications, government and education.

All awardes are selected by an independent panel of state supreme court justices and national officers of veteran, patriotic and service club organizations, which convenes each November at the Foundation's Valley Forge headquarters.

In addition to awardes in the program's regular categories, the jury may recommend individuals and organizations to receive special top national awards for activities the panel deems unusually meritorious.

Any American resident is eligible for a foundation award, or may recommend another U.S. resident for national recognition.

NEW TOLL-FREE NUMBER FOR ARMY RETIREES

The United States Army now provides a new toll-free hotline for Army Retirees who have questions or problems pertaining to their pay. The number is 1-800-428-2250 and the hours of operation are from 8:45 a.m. to 4:00 p.m., Eastern Standard Time and from 5:45 a.m. to 3:00 p.m., Mountain Standard Time, Monday through Friday. Calls received at other times will be recorded automatically and a return call will be made within two days. The new line is designed to allow Army Retirees to call at no expense and, hopefully, to provide them with better service from the Army Finance Center, Indianapolis, Indiana.

INSIDE:

Virginia Beach got down-home last weekend when the Neptune Festival sponsored its second annual hoedown at the Dome. The SUN's record of the event is on page B-1.

Snow came tumbling down and the SUN staff was in the thick of the five inches that fell. Photos of the white wonderland are on page A-4.

Kellam High School held their annual winter and formal show recently. The story and photos are on page A-3.

Look for our restaurant guide on page A-12. Hay Hay is our feature this week.

Council forms group to draft travel policy

By LEE CAHILL
SUN Public Affairs Writer

A councilman who said he has never taken a trip at city expense will head a three-man Virginia Beach City Council committee to draft a formal policy on city-related travel.

Mayor Clarence A. Holland Monday afternoon appointed the committee following a week-long barrage of publicity over a recent trip taken by three councilmen. City Manager George L. Hanbury and Planning Commissioner R. Dean Lee and his wives.

Councilman Robert B. Cromwell Jr., who was appointed chairman of the committee, remarked that, "I have never taken any of those trips and neither has my wife."

The other members of the committee are Dr. J. Henry McCoy, who asked that some policy be drafted, and R. L. Riggs.

The council members who went on the recent trip were Holland, J. Curtis Payne and John R. Griffin.

The group of ten traveled first class air fare to San Francisco for $7,150 compared to $4,400 for coach fare and $3,580 for the excursion rate. The total trip, at taxpayers' expense, cost $10,400.

The trips were financed according to an unwritten policy which permits spouses of the city manager, assistant city managers, council members, planning commissioners, constitutional officers, department heads and council-appointed officers to travel once a year at the taxpayers' expense.

In Hanbury's case, part of his agreement with the city on his employment as city manager in 1974 included the stipulation that: city council agrees to pay the dues and subscriptions necessary for my continued participation in national, regional, state and local associations and organizations for my professional growth, education and advancement and for the good of the city.

"The City Council agrees to pay travel and subsistence expenses for me and my wife for professional and official meetings and conferences such as, but not limited to, the Annual Conference of the International City Management Association, the State League of Municipalities and other such national, regional, state and local governmental groups

Residents claim drainage plan will erode shoreline

by LEE CAHILL
SUN Public Affairs Writer

Claims that the North Virginia Beach Drainage plan will erode the beach and destroy the sand dunes has failed to deter Virginia Beach City Council from going ahead with the project.

A group of residents of the area between 75th and 82nd Streets where the first phase of the project is expected to be constructed, Monday afternoon appealed to Council to abandon the project. The group, of whom approximately 50 attended the Monday meeting, hired attorney James A. Gorry to represent them and the engineering firm of Arthur B. Strock and Associated of Deerfield Beach, Fla. to make an erosion study.

Under the plan previously approved by council, the streets between 49th and 89th, which have problems with standing water after storms, will be drained by a system where water will be pumped from the streets to structures on the beach which will discharge the water. The discharge stations will be located at five sites.

The first phase, the construction of the system to serve the 75th to 82nd Streets area, is expected to cost $902,000. City Manager George L. Hanbury said that bids will be received on Feb. 9 and will be presented to Council for action in March.

The opposing residents are concerned with beach erosion and the appearance of the structures on the beach which Gorry described as "bunker-like or fortress-appearing."

The opposition does not have the endorsement of the North Virginia Beach Civic League, and some residents of the area spoke in favor of the system.

After two hours of discussion, Council took no action which means that it will continue with the project.

Gorry said that his clients had sent letters to residents of the area to elicit their reaction. Of the responses, 126 of the correspondents opposed the project and 18 favored it. He said that 36 people were asked to contribute money to support the opposition and all 36 contributed.

Earl Scruggs rocks Beach

Sounds are new, but banjo's the same

By Joan Costes
SUN Editor

The full house at the Rogues loved him. Earl Scruggs, the "virtuoso banjo picker in the world" was showing his stuff.

Teamed with Taylor Rhodes on drums, and sons Randy, Gary and Steve, Scruggs had the age-varied crowd stomping, clapping and hollering to the traditional bluegrass classics as well as to Rod Stewart. Earl could do no wrong.

"I like to toy with my sounds," he said in an interview after the show. "I like new sounds. You get stale doing the same thing over and over again."

Scruggs, who is credited with perfecting the three-finger roll, broke with his long-time partner, Lester Flatt, in 1969 because he "wanted to change the sound a bit. What Lester wanted was the same style we'd been playing." Flatt and Scruggs joined together after breaking with Bill Monroe's Foggy Mountain Boys in the 40's.

"It's a no cubbyhole, category free, barrierless approach to music."

While still playing with Flatt, Scruggs had begun to jam with other musicians as well as with his three sons, who had just started to turn professional.

"They were raised in that kind of environment," Scruggs said. "I didn't try to drive them or encourage them. They were taking music in school and then went on to string. We just teamed up."

Named the "Earl Scruggs Review", the operation is truly a family affair. "We try to work together," Earl said. "They have ideas. I've always enjoyed swapping ideas."

Gary Scruggs, a philosophy graduate of Vanderbilt, plays electric bass, harmonica and guitar. Randy plays guitar, slide guitar, bass and helps arrange the music. Steve, the youngest Scruggs, plays rhythm guitar.

Scruggs, feels his music has become more modern from playing with his sons. "We do rock, pop...anything that feels good," he said. "It's a no cubbyhole, category free, barrierless approach to music."

Born on Jan. 6, 1924 in Flint Hill, N.C., Scruggs originally drew from the native, western North Carolina styles that he heard from local talent at county fairs and fiddling contests. One of his major influences was a distant cousin, Smith Hammett, who was doing three finger rolls as early as 1945.

"I grew up wanting to do this," Scruggs said. "It's a life I enjoy."

Although Scruggs refers to himself as "just a picker", he and Flatt broke the first bluegrass hit to a number one spot on the country charts with the "Ballad of Jed Clampett", the theme to the television show, "The Beverly Hillbillies."

And he was playing it all for the crowd at the Rogues...Orange Blossom Special, "Dixie Holiday," "Mandolin Wind," and "Black Mountain Blues."

And he likes the new, too, and feels there's a lot of improvement in the music business today.

Earl Scruggs, the virtuoso of banjo pickers, poses with Terri Askew, of Whisper Concerts, after his concert with the Earl Scruggs Review Friday night at the Rogues.

"The music business needs change as well as any other thing," Scruggs said. "Through the help of the news media, movies and TV, we've made a small world out of this country. To get our message across, it's the same in New England or the West Coast...Canada...or the rest of the country. They're all familiar with our music."

"Through the help of the news media, movies and TV, we've made a small world out of this country."

In his free time, Scruggs turns to his native country. "I do have hobbies," he said. "I like aviation, fishing and hunting." And he enjoys recording too. "After this" he said, "we're leaving to try and finish an album which will probably be released in May."

Earl and his boys came back for two encores Friday night and still the crowd wanted more.

"I like to play what feels good and what sounds good," Scruggs said.

From the reaction of his fans, everything Earl Scruggs plays sounds good.

Decals hot in last heat

Jan. 30. The day before the last day.
4:30 p.m. Jan. 30. The last half hour before the last day.
Sights of the mobs made a vision of Christmas Eve crowds reappear.

With the vision came the horror of standing, shifting from one foot to the other, looking at green walls and fluorescent lights, thinking about how comfortable it would be at home, or out dancing, or anything but standing still and waiting.

Waiting is just one of those useless things that one must contract occasionally, no matter how much one tries to get everywhere before and after rush hours.

Going to Monday night movies or Thursday night lounges or Saturday night laundramats usually takes care of rushes. But there's no avoiding the Jan. 31 last heat for city stickers with little lighthouses on them.

A deadline like that arrives too soon after Christmas and New Year's to be considering getting the jump on business matters.

January is the slowdown month, including the 31st.

Dogs have it easier. They don't have to go through the Christmas rush, so they can think about getting their dogs tags by Jan. 31.

Sight of the mobs at the city treasurer's office at Kempsville and Princess Anne Roads would have made even the bravest soul shudder, had it not been for the thought of what the 31st would be like.

Filtering through more than 100 waiters (not the garcon type), the information desk quickly remedied the problem of having one forgotten registration on a car which had changed owners during the year, and a car which had changed owners during the year, and a car which was no longer owned at all.

Proper forms whizzed out, the cashier quickly took the $30, and before the time came to even think about the rush, it was over.

Most amazing about the whole thing was the smiling calm on the faces of those city employees looking out at hordes of last minute-decal seekers.

How long will it take?

Some friends and I have a bet going to see who can guess when the bike path at the Boardwalk will be finished. Will it take as long as completing the four lanes down Princess Anne Road did? My bet says yes.

Thanks to the city of Virginia Beach for coming up with Mount Trashmore. They have taken a necessary evil and turned it into a necessary good.

Parking raise is wrong

Town Crier:
I can't believe they raised the price of parking at the Beach. I really wonder sometimes what the city council is doing. Do they really think that this will help parking at the resort area?

What they need to do is to hire more policeman to walk the streets so that no one will want to come to Virginia Beach at all.

Communication...

...is a game...

...of hidden rules...

...between two people.

Cry communications

Virginia Beach is a pretty friendly place...for Virginia. But even at the largest resort city in the world, people have a hard time meeting your eye to eye.

I've never been the type of person who found it easy to communicate my feelings. And I majored in communications in college.

Joan Coates

SUN Editor

I tend to bottle feelings up inside, waiting for them to go away. Only they never do.

And consequently, the feelings get worse, I feel worse and finally explode with feelings ten times worse than they started out. It's a virtual time bomb.

Wouldn't be easy to say exactly what you feel? Or say "hello", or "good morning" to a perfect stranger?

Not in Virginia Beach.

Communication at the Beach has turned into a game of seeing who can get a look without showing they are looking.

For example:

The "I'll look at you before you have a chance to look at me" glance.

Or "I've caught you out of the corner of my eye" look.

And even "You may be looking at me...but I refuse to look at you" tactic.

And when you know someone: "I think I know him, but he didn't say anything to me."

Communication is indeed a problem...especially for me.

But with "The Magic of Thinking Big" tucked under my arm, and a Sunday full of Norman Vincent Pease anecdotes, positive action is my key.

Now, everyone I meet will get a "hi". No matter how tremendous a feeling is, those who aroused that feeling are going to get it back. And immediately.

No more lack. No more slack. Everyone is getting back what they deserve.

"You slob". "You jerk." "I think you're great."

Communications is my cry.

Letters

Rogues rudeness

Editor, Virginia Beach SUN:

I was fortunate enough to see Earl Scruggs and his sons play last Friday evening at the beach. Unfortunately, the show was at Rogues' Gallery.

I am a newcomer to Tidewater and had never been to Rogues' before and definitely will not be a return visitor due to the rude treatment I received there Friday night.

When I arrived with my party we were unable to find a seat anywhere so we stood well out of the way in an aisle. A waiter brusquely informed us we would have to move.

We said we would be happy to if he would help us locate a place to sit down. The waiter replied that he was too busy clearing the aisles to assist us.

After asking a waitress to show us to seats we were brushed off again.

Finally we wandered over to the bar and no one asked us to move. Unfortunately, we could not see the stage.

At this point I thought I could at least get a drink and try to settle down.

I waited and waited at the bar to be served and finally I asked a waiter who was washing a few glasses if he would serve me.

He responded that there were only four waitresses that night and I would be lucky if I got a drink.

I suppose I just did not look like a good tipper, which I am.

That was enough for me and I decided to give up hassling with the Rogues' staff and tried to enjoy the show.

Even Earl Scruggs seemed upset with the overcrowded surroundings and lousy sound system.

After the show everyone was instructed to clear the premises, stand outside in the freezing temperatures before they would have the privilege of reentering. No way! Never again!

Glad to see other side

Editor, Virginia Beach SUN:

I wish to thank you for having an article about the people against the ERA amendment for a change. I am tired of reading about the women feminist Bella Abzug, Betty Friedan and others who support the ERA.

There are many women, as well as men, who do not wish the ERA amendment to be passed. They are people like Mary Barraco who love their country, feel the family is the foundation of a stable society, and know the ERA can only do our society harm.

Women in America have all the freedom they need. They do not need the federal government taking full control of state and family.

I do not wish women drafted in the Army. I know I am not physically equal to a man. We lower our standards and put our country in danger when we put women in a job they are not totally able to handle.

Just because these militant women wish to take over everything the men do, is no reason we should let them.

Travel policy formed in which I serve as a member."

The agreement was dated Nov. 8, 1974 and signed by then Mayor Payne. Hanbury said, however, that Payne's signature was not dated and that the agreement was actually signed on Nov. 12 after city council had approved it.

The committee will consider how the city's representatives will travel (first class, coach, etc.), whether the city should pay the expenses of spouses, and Council John A. Baum also suggested that a list of such meetings be prepared to determine which should be attended.

Holland remarked that a written policy would be better than five trips at $2,000 apiece would not have generated as much criticism as the one $10,000 trip.

Addressing McCoy, Baum said "you're the least appropriate person to be bringing it (the policy) up."

McCoy said, "I did it as much as anyone else. I never thought to check. But we ought to have a committee in toto."

Hanbury said that the policy had not been initiated by council, but was a policy of the previous city manager and the previous council. He said that he was the first city manager to have written a "memorandum" outlining travel and subsistence expenses as one of the conditions of employment. He said that many seminars are held for wives at the meetings and that he felt that going to the sessions helped me become a better city manager and helped my wife become a better city manager's wife.

"I did it as much as anyone else.

I never thought to check. But we ought to have a committee in toto."

However, he said, "after the amount of agony to which my family has been subjected last week, I do not object to changes in the policy."

Holland said that the meetings have been beneficial to him, but nobody should go to anything in the future "unless it's stated in writing."

Councilwoman Meyera Oberndorf, whose husband has traveled with her at city expense, has said that her husband will pay his own way in the future and all spouses should go to their own expense.

Councilman George R. Ferrell maintained that wives were entitled to some consideration. He said it was different for Mrs. Oberndorf "because you don't have a wife" who has to answer the telephone in council-related matters. Her husband "is out working somewhere," he said.

Mrs. Oberndorf, however, was the only council member who submitted a list of principles to be considered for a new travel policy.

They include:

All airline, ship and train reservations should be coach or tourist, whichever is the least costly.

First class fare should be used only when other transportation is not available, when there is an emergency or when an additional hotel cost which would make the difference negligible.

No representative should be allowed to make up the difference between tourist and first class at his own expense because of appearances.

Travel expenses incurred by and for spouses should not be allowed.

With one week of the return of the city's representative he should submit to council or the city manager a report on the value of the meeting.

She added that the suggestions are not a criticism of the past actions.

Copies were addressed to the mayor and city manager and copies sent to all members of Council. She said in the letter of principles that she would introduce the proposals at Monday's meeting. However, the committee was appointed with no discussion of the proposals.

Bow Creek to become community center

By LEE CAHILL
SUN Public Affairs Writer

The Bayport Construction Corporation has been awarded the $920,341 contract to renovate the former Bow Creek Country Club to become the city's second major community center.

City Manager George L. Hanbury Monday afternoon told Council that the center will not be as big as the Kempeville Center because it will be limited by the existing building. The existing pool and kiddie pool also will be renovated and are not as large as Kempeville's which was designed for instruction and competition.

Bayport was the low bidder of six on the project which was estimated to cost $963,000.

Drainage disputed of rainfall and that the outflow will increase the potential of dune breaching and coastal flooding.

The loss of the dunes, Strock said, means that much of the land at certain elevations could be inundated by storm tides. He said that the result of the system will be erosion "unequivocally," the undermining of the structures, and the possibility of the dunes being breached causing further erosion.

He added that in ten years, there is a possibility that the program will not be permitted to continue because of the elaboration of the 1971 Wetlands bill include restriction on discharging water into the ocean just as there are restrictions on discharging into other navigable waters.

Jim Spruance, who lives at 78th Street and Atlantic Avenue, said the drop inlets in the neighborhoods would be only 50 per cent effective and that backyards will not be helped.

Mrs. Eleanor Scully, of 215 78th Street, said that since her property was one of the lowest, she was invited to contribute $919 to build a catch basin to serve her yard and her neighbor's who also would have to contribute a similar amount. She wanted to know whether everyone would have to pay that much to have their yards drained.

William Durant, a member of the Williamsburg Planning Commission who owns a home at 106 81st Street, said that there must be an alternate method.

Tom Coghill, of 108 78th Street, chairman of the Beach Preservation Committee, said that the committee has not come out formally for or against the system. He said, however, that he was against an "artificial discharge" system, and that only a few property owners will benefit most, he said, will have to spend their own money for catch basins like Mrs. Scully.

Peter Meredith, of 7904 Oceanfront, said he was "worried about the people behind me." The water standing in their area, he said, is unsanitary because there are no storm sewers. The project should be "done right away. I'm willing to sacrifice a pipe to help the people who live behind."

Tasewell T. Hubard, Jr., of 114 82nd Street, president of the North Virginia Beach Civic League, said that, the opposition does not officially represent the league.

Reid Erwin, former councilman who lives in North Virginia Beach, said that, "while a councilman, not a week passed when I didn't get letters from my constituents saying when are we going to do something about the storm drainage."

"I'm willing to sacrifice a pipe to help the people who live behind me."

He said that he it was an "insult" to Baldwin and Gregg, the engineering firm which designed the project, to think they would design something that would destroy the beach. "I don't think they got enough money for the job to chuck a 20-year reputation with one job."

He said that the opponents used pressure tactics and insulted Hubard, but saying that his stand for the project resulted from self-interest and insulted Erwin by inferring that his stand was taken for political reasons.

"Politics is where I should be and where a lot of other people should be," he said.

The area in question includes 273 parcels he said with 404 owners.

Contract awarded to demolish city jail

K.F. Wilson Contractors of Hampton has been awarded a contract to demolish the old city jail after submitting a low bid of $17,773 for the work.

The city's new $5-million 197-cell correctional center will be dedicated Friday.

Inmates will be moved to the new facility in late February after training of the jail staff.

Demolition will begin after the transfer of jail inmates and will be completed in 30 days.

Info Center needs help

By LEE CAHILL
Public Affairs Writer

The information Center of Hampton Roads, which needs funds to operate until federal funds come are available on July 1, is asking the Tidewater communities it serves to contribute money to support the agency during the interim period.

Virginia Beach will consider appropriating $4,950 for the Center at next Monday's meeting. City Manager George L. Hanbury said the Center works with both private and public agencies. Among the other cities in the service area, Norfolk is being asked to contribute $6,485, Portsmouth, $2,248 and Chesapeake, $2,368.

Babysitting classes held

The "Around Town" program of the Young Women's Christian Association is for women and their families. It provides women the opportunity to learn new skills, develop new interests, explore new perspectives, make new friends and plan time for themselves with full babysitting services for infants through pre-schoolers.

The "Around Town" program will hold classes at the Bayside Presbyterian Church, 1400 Ewell Road.

Some of the classes offered will be yoga, gymnastics, oil painting, disco dancing, "Children: The Challenge," weaving, assertiveness training and quilting.

Classes will start on Feb. 6. For more information, call 497-1041.

Babson attends reception for DNC

Fred Babson, Virginia Beach candidate for the Democratic nomination to the United States Senate, attended a reception Friday evening, Jan. 27, celebrating the election of John White as chairman of the Democratic National Committee.

The reception, held at the Capital Hilton in Washington, D.C., was hosted by Calvin Guest, the State Democratic Chairman of Texas.

Calvary Baptist dedicates sanctuary

CALVARY Baptist Church, formerly Aragona Baptist Church, on Haygood Road recently dedicated its new sanctuary.

Among the area pastors present for the service were: the Rev. B.G. Campbell of Westwood Baptist Church; and Dr. John Brown of the Norfolk Baptist Church; and Dr. John Brown of the Norfolk Baptist Association.

"Train up a child in the way he should go; and when he is old, he will not depart from it."
— Proverbs 22:6

*"His education forms the common mind:
Just as the twig is bent the tree's inclined."*
— Alexander Pope

Your children need to learn faith in God, as well as the basic skills of life. As the closing of the school season draws near, remember that it is also time to begin or resume their spiritual education; to fortify them for the time when you may no longer be on hand to guide and protect them. That a large segment of our young people have never learned goodness for its own sake is tragically evident in the almost daily accounts of juvenile wrongdoing. Children are not born with this knowledge; they must be taught it. Enroll your children in Sunday school, and set your own good example for them by way you conduct your life, and by attending your Church.

Beach withstands largest snowfall in 15 years

Slidders flock to Mt. Trashmore for a few hours of cold, icy fun.

The biggest snowfall in 15 years hit Virginia Beach last week, and the excitement of it all was all over the city. Snowball fights and sleds and skis made the mid-Atlantic coast town look like a slice of life had just slipped down from New England. With more snow and even colder temperatures, the Beach has really burrowed in for the mid-winter frost.

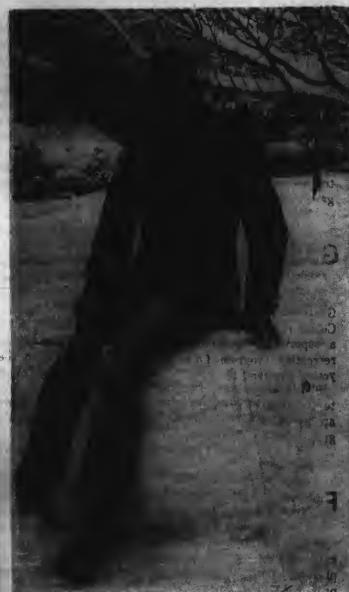

Sliding down the boardwalk isn't a usual activity for Keith Sudduth of Virginia Beach, but last week's snowfall was just too good to pass up.

Don Miller, of 64 Street, finds the snow a bit chilly for his roofless rides in his beloved M.G.

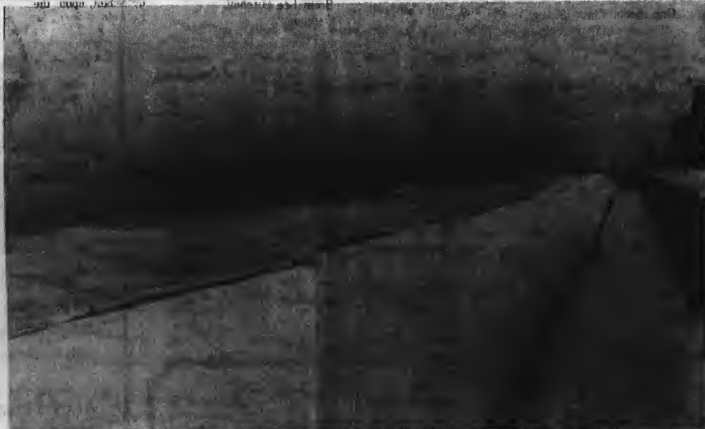

Egypt has its sand pyramids and Virginia Beach has its snow pyramids. Anna Marie and Christopher Moore, of Janet Drive, were interested in Egyptian culture so decided the Beach snowfall was the time to display their talents.

Steve Vining, of 24th Street, was one of the many Beach residents who was sent home from work due to the snowfall last week. Steve took the chance to do some rolling in the snow.

Bruce Gable and Albert White, both graduates of Kempsville High School, didn't want to be old fashioned, so they came up with a snow toilet. It took the fellows about 2 1/2 hours to build their creation, which is located on Kempsville Road. [Photo by Joan Coates]

Program expands:

The very popular secretarial science program at the Virginia Beach Campus of Tidewater Community College has added a third option for those students enrolled.

Until recently students were offered the choice of either the executive or legal secretarial curriculum. The new dimension is the medical secretarial curriculum. With the rapid growth of the allied health field the need for well-trained medical secretaries has expanded dramatically.

The TCC medical option program is a graduate well-prepared students who are entering the medical secretarial job market and competing favorably at all levels. The other two specializations, legal and executive secretarial, are also sending highly qualified graduates into the job market. Of those students who remain in the Tidewater area, most of them find positions for which they were trained.

In many cases secretarial students participate in the cooperative education program when they are given the opportunity to work in their chosen specialty while still in college.

The TCC secretarial science curriculum graduate receives an Associate in Applied Science degree after completing two years of study at the college.

Home Federal makes record loans

Home Federal Savings and Loan Association made a record $33 1/2 million in home loans during 1977, John R. Sears, president reported.

The association had a record growth in loans, with a total portfolio of $158,848,800 at year end. Assets increased by $17 1/2 million to a total of $180,074,351.

The net savings increase of $12,774,125 brought total savings as of December 31, to $159,853,133.

Home Federal Savings and Loan Association, with main office at Boush St. and Brambleton Ave., Norfolk has eight offices in Norfolk, Portsmouth, Virginia Beach, Newport News, Hampton and Suffolk.

Director named for Art Center

The Virginia Beach Arts Center has announced the appointment of Anthony J. Radich as its first administrative director.

A native of Astoria, Ore., he was curator of the Nevada Art Gallery in Reno, Nev., where he was responsible for establishing several art education programs and a successful craft shop. Prior to that, Radich served as director of the Northern Indiana Arts Association art center in Hammond, Ind.

The 28-year-old Radich holds an M.S. in Art Education and a B.S. in Anthropology from the University of Oregon. While a graduate student, Radich coordinated the traveling exhibit program of the Museum of Art of the University of Oregon.

Kellam hosts annual winter formal and bridal show

Sherri Dumas and Tony Klingmeyer of Bayalde High School

Again this year, Kellam High School hosted the inter-school winter formal and bridal show. Sponsored by the marriage and family classes and the Future Homemakers of America Club (F.H.A.), Formal and wedding attire was color coordinated in thirteen different scenes. Each senior High's F.H.A. sent a "bride" and "groom" representative of their choice. Tuxedos were furnished by Mitchells and gowns were by Tiffan's of Military Circle, Norfolk.

Vocational programs in the senior high schools are designed to promote career and job interests in students. Business and education working together provide the student with enjoyable learning experiences and an opportunity to develop a better understanding of the many career or job opportunities as well as the responsibilities of a future occupation in a related field. The theater, fashion merchandising, photography and modeling are some of the obvious related areas.

Students are also afforded an opportunity to be on television, for the program is video taped by the Educational Media Center, Virginia Beach City Schools. A play back at a later date lets the student see themselves as others saw them.

Intercolastic disciplinary cooperation is essential in producing the show. Other departments involved are distributive education. From D. E.'s fashion merchandising classes some of the student models were chosen. Most of the models were from the marriage and family classes or active members of the F.H.A. club.

Distributive education also provided an excellent commentary by Majorie McDonald a fashion merchandising student. Drama and theater provided the lighting, sound, and special effects. The athletic department was even involved—many of our male participants are members of Kellam's football and wrestling teams, others held distinguished offices in their respective schools. Adult members were parents and faculty members from Kellam. And Kellam's annual staff photographers preserved the moments.

Painting the Beach ...with Eric Stevens

Keyboards go with the name Mitchell

If your name is Mitchell, odds are good that your son will become a keyboard artist.

When this column made its debut, almost a year ago, Billy Mitchell was singled out for his swinging piano work with Jeep Bennett. Last August, Buddy Mitchell was reviewed at Pirate's Cove. Now Aubrey Mitchell is appearing weekends in the Gankplank II Restaurant at the White Heron. None of the three are related.

The Gankplank II has...to the best of my knowledge...Tide-water's only piano-bar; and it's not a mere spinet piano with a table-like extension, but a baby grand piano. Piano-bars are very "in" in places like New York and Atlantic City. If you've never sat at one you should try it. It's like sitting at the press-table at the boxing bouts—better than ringside.

Aubrey Mitchell complements the atmosphere. Before he sits at the piano bench you can see that he emanates elegance. A brief conversation confirms the image. Between sips of wine his fingers cover the keyboard. His repertoire ranges from semi-classical to swing to love-songs of the present to compositions of his own.

But the biggest treat for me was his catalog of Broadway show tunes...and Off-Broadway. Things such as "Soon It's Gonna Rain" and "Til There Was You." With a little coaxing he'll display a rich baritone that brings to mind Billy Eckstine.

Aubrey grew up in Suffolk in a family full of pianists. He studied Musicology at the University of Virginia, and absorbed some first-hand learning in New York...such diverse settings as the Waldorf-Astoria, where Mabel Mercer and Bobby Short concorted, and 125th Street, the heart of Harlem.

Aubrey is a busy man. In addition to being a travel agent, he plays for a ballet group, and is associated with the Virginia Opera Association.

The Gankplank II was decorated by another sophisticated singer-pianist, Frank Johnson. Looking around you'll find all the nautical trappings: rudders, oars, ropes, sails, propellers, harpoons, pulleys, lanterns, compasses. The chairs might remind you of a Humphrey Bogart movie...Key Largo, or maybe Casablanca...huge and wicked. Perhaps best of all is the unforgettable experience of dining at a window seat at sundown, overlooking the yachts and the water.

The entire complex, including the motel, was recently bought by Michael Christian and several other ex-POWs. It has the dimensions of an entertainment emporium, for there are two other niteries on the premises.

The Back Door Pub is a cozy room with a fireplace, a view, and a bar not much bigger than the one in your neighbor's family-room. It opens weekdays at five, and weekends at noon, with guitar soloists appearing Fridays and Saturdays.

The Round Room serves three functions. It is available for parties; is equipped with the lights, sound system, and glassed-in booth of a discotheque; and offers live-music to fun-loving folks on Sundays from six to nine, augmented by an all-you-can-eat buffet.

We don't recommend doing all three rooms in the same night...but if you do, the motel desk is but a few steps away.

Eric Stevens is active in the area as a bandleader and singer. During his 11 years in NY he played bass on Charlie Rouse's hit, "Preacherman," appeared on the Merv Griffin Show and wrote a series of pamphlets for singers.

If you'd like a catalog describing the pamphlets, write to P.O.B. 4116, Virginia Beach, 23464.

(How's a woman Marine supposed to act?)

She doesn't act like a Marine

By RHONDA MILLER
SUN Staff Writer

Not all Marines have crew cuts. At least, Joyce Larson doesn't and she's an ex-Marine. (Once a Marine, always a Marine, she says.)

She didn't have a crew cut during the six years that she was a Marine, but that didn't stop her from singing the Marine Corps hymn in the gas chamber. (During training in the gas chamber, that is.)

Quietly positioned at the design table of the Virginia Beach SUN composing room, she never broadcast the fact that she was in the Marines. No one ever thought to ask her.

Joyce signed up after three years at the Art Institute of Boston left her without funds to continue her education.

The commercial art job market was bad, and determined to use her skill, she tried the armed services.

"I thought of the Navy, but they had nothing for women in my type of work at the time."

"The Army recruiter didn't have exactly what I was interested in."

The Marines promised me a job in illustration, on the West Coast.

Prepared for a challenge, she made it through boot camp at Parris Island, South Carolina.

She noticed some girls leaving boot camp at first sight, but the Marine recruiter had been truthful with Joyce, and she found herself fitting smoothly into military life.

It's not a question of male and female. It's a question of military and non-military when you're adjusting to Marine Corps life, believes Joyce.

Getting up at 5 a.m., keeping physically fit, studying, waiting in formation, got to be a way of life.

"I could take it," says Joyce. "I was treated fairly by the people I worked with."

"Some of the men resented women being in the Marines, some thought it was great."

Most people were nice, and I met really good people from all over the country.

Joyce met a particularly nice person, Richard, on a blind date, and got married, though she says that when she signed up, getting married was the last thing on her mind.

Although the Marines try to station husband and wife together, Joyce and Richard Larson were separated by duty station partially by their own agreement for a year and a half.

When her husband, a second lieutenant, began looking forward to retiring in three years, Joyce decided to leave the Marines, so that he wouldn't have to "follow me around for 16 more years."

Even as a civilian, Joyce keeps up her running, and can be often spotted in a jogging suit during her lunch hour, (or around her home in the Bow Creek section of Virginia Beach.)

"Women in the Marines have additional duties now, like standing mess duty, that they didn't have before."

"But they can also learn to drive heavy equipment and have jobs in exciting places."

In the physical training department, women Marines are now required to be able to run a mile and a half at any given time about double the previous distance.

Joyce is still sure of one thing—she's recommend to any women that they join the Marine Corps if it suits their needs.

Beach soldiers aid in cleaning an island atoll

Five Virginia Beach soldiers headed for the Marshall Islands Feb. 1 to join a task force in cleaning up an island atoll.

They are members of the Army, Navy and Coast Guard, with support elements of the Air Force, who are converging on Enewetak Atoll. The atoll, about 1,500 miles southwest of Hawaii, became famous during the late 40's and 50's as a testing area for nuclear weapons.

The servicemen are part of a clean up and decontamination project begun by the United States so it can return the 40 islands of the atoll to its natives.

The atoll was used for at least 40 nuclear tests at a time when the United States was developing nuclear deterrent capabilities. It has not been used as a testing site for 20 years. Fort Story's seagoing soldiers became involved in the project in August 1977, when a crew traveled to Sharpe Army Depot, near LaMoore, Calif., to ready two LARC 60s for shipment to Enewetak.

The six men who left Fort Story, will stop in San Diego enroute to the islands to ready two more LARC 60s.

The LARC 60s are the big boys of the Army's lighter amphibious, resupply, cargo vessels. Their primary mission is the carrying of cargo from ship to shore in areas where deep water ports are not available.

Actual clean up of the islands will consist of stripping away the top layer of contaminated soil, debris and non-contaminated debris from 30 of the islands. The 84th Engineer Battalion will handle the bulk of this task. Plans call for hauling soil in covered trucks, then ferrying the trucks via boats and amphibians to Runit Island. There the soil will be mixed with concrete slurry and dumped into a huge crater that was once ground zero for an 18 kiloton nuclear blast.

It will be during the ferrying operations that Fort Story soldiers expect to show their worth.

Wendt and four other men are the second crew from the 309th Transportation Detachment based at Fort Story, to be involved in the Enewetak project.

According to Captain Robert Peresich, operations officer for the 79th Transportation Battalion, crews from the 309th LARC 60 Detachment have been on station at Enewetak since September.

"Our amphibian crews are under the operational control of the Navy officer in charge," said Peresich. "We will have a maintenance officer there, who will coordinate our crews and keep the LARCs operating."

Chief Warrant Officer Thomas Baldwin will handle the maintenance officer chores from February to June, when another 15-man detachment will be sent from Fort Story.

"When the first crews return from Enewetak, we will use them to prepare the next group for the kind of tasks they will be required to do out there."

While the project is expected to take two to three years, most soldiers involved will spend only about six months on the project. "Our orders for temporary duty are only for 179 days," said Wendt. "But we hope that our tour will only be about four months."

Once the clean up efforts are completed the Department of Interior will undertake a program to replant palm trees and administer further agricultural projects to assist the Enewetak natives in making their home liveable again.

Present plans call for return of the islands to 450 Enewetak natives by April 1980.

Beach Navy Federal Credit Union opens Dam Neck branch

Approximately 200 guests attended the recent grand opening ceremonies of the Virginia Beach Navy Federal Credit Union. Captain Dwight Agnew Jr., commanding officer of Fleet Combat Training Center Atlantic, Dam Neck, and Meyera Oberndorf, Virginia Beach city councilwoman, Mrs. Oberndorf, guest speaker for the event is "looking forward to having the credit union as a new neighbor."

Captain Agnew's comments centered on growth, progress, service and participation in the credit union.

Afterwards, guests were treated to refreshments and an informal viewing of the interior.

The new 2,800 square foot rectangular structure, just inside the main entrance to the Dam Neck activity, will have five employees serving members. Interior color tones and furnishings are done in shades of brown. As a new feature, safety deposit boxes have been installed.

Dick Pascoe, Captain Dwight Agnew Jr. and Mrs. Meyera Oberndorf officiate at ribbon cutting ceremonies.

JA announces spring program

Junior Achievement of Tidewater has announced the beginning of its spring 1978 program.

The first phase will be recruiting of junior and senior students in 10 area high schools including three in Virginia Beach.

Junior Achievement is a nationwide program for high school students interested in a first-hand and practical experience in business activities.

The students organize themselves into companies that actually produce and market a product. They perform all functions associated with running a business including closing out their books and publishing an "annual report."

Tidewater businesses support the program financially and they furnish advisers who guide the students in their activities. The area businesses also loan executives to recruit in the high schools.

The loaned executives will recruit in Kellam High school on Feb. 1, and Princess Anne High School on Feb. 3.

Caring for house plants

The Virginia Beach Department of Agriculture will sponsor a program on the care and maintenance of house plants Feb. 6 at the Recreation Center.

The two-hour program will be held twice that day, from 10 a.m. to noon and from 7 p.m. to 9 p.m. Each session will cover the care and maintenance of 80 common houseplants, repotting of plants, plant propagation and insect prevention.

Civic league to meet

Princess Anne Civic League will hold its February meeting on the 7th at 7:30 p.m. at the Plaza Junior High School in Kiva L.

The rescue squad will be guest speakers for the evening.

Siminar held Feb. 11

A prosperity seminar taught by Joyce Kramer will be held at the Lake Wright Motel Feb. 11, from 9 a.m. to 4 p.m.

Its purpose is to instruct the student in universal principles of prosperity and their practical application, which leads to financial success.

For further information and registration call 464-0772.

How to teach your children

A course for parents on how to teach their children about sex will begin Feb. 21 at Emmanuel Episcopal Church on Princess Anne Road. The classes will be held weekly for 8 1/2 hours in the parish library. The fee is $40 per person.

Instructors will be Diane Walker and Joy Walton. Both have been trained at Syracuse University by the Institute for Family Research and Education. Mrs. Walker holds a B.S. in nursing, and Mrs. Walton earned a B.A. in psychology. They are members of the Family Service-Travelers Aid Advocacy Committee.

A similar session of classes was recently completed at the church.

For more details, call 499-1271.

Council meet: Feb. 18

A meeting of the Council of the International Toastmistress Clubs will be held on Feb. 18 at the Admiralty Motor Hotel on Military Highway.

The session will begin at 8 a.m. with programs running until 3 p.m.

The cost is $5.50 for hospitality and luncheon and $1.50 for registration. Reservations may be made by calling Naomi Pharr at 422-7055 after 8 p.m.

The deadline for registration is Feb. 11.

Lifesaving classes held at YMCA

Advanced Lifesaving classes will be given by the Virginia Beach Family YMCA located in the United Way Family Center next to Mount Trashmore. Two evenings per week for five weeks with Red Cross certification given upon completion.

Classes begin Feb. 20th and is open to the public. Call the YMCA at 499-2511 for further information.

Hay Hay celebrates Chinese New Year

By PAM VANDEVEER

"Gung Hay Fat Choy!" That means "a happy and prosperous New Year" in Chinese. And that is exactly what Hay Hay Chinese Family Restaurant would like to wish you as the Chinese New Year begins.

If you're looking for a place to enjoy some delicious Chinese food, then Hay Hay Restaurant is the place to go.

Located at 353 Independence Boulevard, in the Pembroke West Shoppes Center, the restaurant specializes in Szechuan, Cantonese and Polynesian cuisines.

There you can enjoy an authentic Chinese dinner, complete with appetizers, house salad, soup, beverage and dessert, in an atmosphere of old China.

Polynesian drinks and cocktails, imported wine and beer, excellent service, soft lights and dinner music all contribute to relaxing mealtime surroundings. And since the Chinese New Year began Feb. 7, Hay Hay is celebrating by featuring a Chinese Smorgasbord from 6 to 9 p.m., Monday through Thursday, along with its regular menu. In addition, the restaurant invites you to celebrate this happy occasion by finding out what cycle you were born in. A free copy of the Chinese horoscope will be waiting there for you.

Hay Hay is open Monday through Thursday from 11 a.m. to 11 p.m., Friday and Saturday from 11 a.m. to midnight and Sunday from 4 to 10 p.m.

In addition to its large dinner menu, the restaurant offers a special lunch menu Monday through Saturday until 4 p.m. Not only are the prices reasonable, but the servings of food are very generous.

Owner Kan Ng opened Hay Hay five years ago. He and the restaurant can be seen on a current series of television commercials on channels 10, 27 and 3.

He points out that Hay Hay has live entertainment on weekends, with no cover charge. There is also take out service, and a banquet room is available that may be reserved by calling 490-2321.

If you are driving to Hay Hay by way of the Virginia Beach expressway, take the Independence Boulevard exit and turn right, go to the fourth stoplight and turn left.

Come celebrate the New Year with a delicious meal at Hay Hay Chinese Restaurant.

Owner Kan Ng invites you to come celebrate the Chinese New Year. Free Chinese horoscopes are waiting.

Country sunshine burns bright at Beach

The Dixie Squares not only demonstrated their dancing skills, but gathered most of the Dome crowd into a giant wheel of square dancing. Pat Cohn, of Seahorse, is a part of the Dixie Square group.

The Mid-Atlantic Clogging Champions, The Flatland Cloggers, displayed their prize winning skills for the countrified audience at the Saturday night hoedown.

And even Carolina Charlie was getting down at the hoedown.

Be an authentic cowboy for a night, cries Tom Holland of Larkspur Holland was not only selling hats at the hoedown, but seemed to be selling his good cheer as well.

It was a night for good 'ole country living. A night when all the home-styled of Virginia Beach got together and celebrated living good.

It was the Neptune Festival's Second Annual Hoedown, held at the Dome.

Amid cowboy hats and drying laundry, the countrified of the city came out Saturday night to party. Charlie and his Heavy Cowboys supplied the tunes, and the Dixie Squares and the Flatland Cloggers supplied the dancing. Barbecue dinners were ready for the belly and cowboy hats, for the head.

Yahoing, stomping and twirling, the variety of the crowd made little difference. Young and old alike danced and sang to the traditional country favorites belted out by the Cowboys.

Prizes were given for the best and the worst, the most countrified couple, and Miss Hoedown. It was a night when any, and everyone, won a prize.

Down home in Virginia Beach, the Hoedown brought out the country in a city.

A couple of ladies behind the scenes, Sandy Dolg of 24th Street and Nicola Vita of Hood Court, help Mark Johnson of First Colonial Road absolve himself of responsibility as he checks his coat at the hoedown.

Alice Blair, of Chesapeake was ready for a night full of country living.

Carolina Charlie's Heavy Cowboys supplied the tunes at the Neptune Festival Hoedown held at the Virginia Beach Dome Saturday.

Carroll Kennedy and Elaine Koen, both of Atlantic Avenue, check out the fun at the Second Annual Neptune Festival Hoedown held at the Dome Saturday night.

Plaza faculty ice way to Mr. Betty Crocker

Lee Brumfield, in charge of in-school suspension at Plaza shows his sunny side through his creation.

The streets weren't the only things that received an unusual icing this past week.

The Future Homemakers of America (FHA) at Plaza Jr. High School sponsored a Mr. Betty Crocker Contest. FHA members elected nine of the male faculty to decorate cakes. The cakes were placed in the showcase and the student body decided the winner by casting a penny per vote. The money raised from this project will be used to send two student delegates to the state FHA convention in Richmond this April.

The contestants decided the shape of cake that they wanted to decorate and the home economic students baked them and frosted them. The rest was as easy as pie as the men put on their aprons and let their imagination and the frosting flow.

The nine faculty members were; Richard Bradshaw,

Lee Brumfield, William Gilliam, William Fitzgerald, William Hurdle, Vincent Marshall, Richard Pont, Ernest Sawyer and Dr. Ben Troutman.

The home economic teachers helped to supervise the whole ordeal and gave the contestants a few hints on how to decorate a cake. For many of the men, it was the first time they had ever tried to capture their artistic ability on cake.

The FHA is one of six vocational education youth organizations. A part of the junior and senior high schools home economics curriculum, it provides meaningful motivation and leadership for youth working toward educational goals related to consumer home economics and reaches beyond the classroom instruction into the home and community.

After all the pennies were counted, Richard Bradshaw, industrial arts instructor, was named the winner.

Photos and story by Stacey Enesey

Elaines Sawyer, a physical education teacher, looks like he thought that the contest was a piece of cake. (L to R) Natalie Smith and Brigette Bell, both seventh graders and home students at PJHS, came to watch the contest.

Richard Bradshaw, industrial arts instructor, wonders if he bit off a little more than he could chew as he tries to decide where to start with his cake decoration.

William Gilliam, principal, takes a minute to plan his next move.

Dr. Ben Troutman, principal in charge of instruction, proudly displays his heart while Richard Pont Plaza basketball coach and math teacher, admires his own work. That's Lee Brumfield in the background holding onto his apron strings.

Cindy Burns selected for dance company honor

A Kempsville student has been selected to dance for winter term at the Mimi Garrard Dance Company in New York City.

Cindy Burns is a junior at Sweetbriar College where she is majoring in dance, drama and environmental studies.

She danced for four years and served for two years as president of the Yuma Civic Ballet of Yuma, Arizona, and was a member of the Orchestral Company of Dance at Memphis State University, Memphis, Tennessee.

She studied at the Academy of Norfolk Civic Ballet and also under Major Birchfield at the Civic Ballet of Virginia Beach. At Sweetbriar she has had three years of concentrated studies in dance theory, dance history and technique. Cindy is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Charles E. Burns of Pontiac Road, and a 1975 graduate of Kempsville High School.

Whitehurst appoints Beach student

Lyn Geisler, III, son of Mr. and Mrs. L. Hugh Geisler Jr. of North Adventure Trail, has received an appointment to the United States Military Academy at West Point. He received his nomination from 2nd District Congressman G. William Whitehurst.

Geisler, a senior at Cox

High School where he is a member of the National Honor Society and the track team is the grandson of Mrs. Ella S. Hilton of Virginia Beach.

Beach resident selected 'Sailor of the month'

Personnelman first class Clifford W. Stephens of Virginia Beach has been selected as the Norfolk Naval Station's Sailor of the Month for January.

Assigned to the Classification Office, transient Personnel Department, Stephens is the senior personnel classifier and testing center administrator for the command and all commands and activities supported by the naval station.

As a classifier, he administers Armed Services Vocational Aptitude Battery exams and makes personnel available to the bureau for orders.

Stephens is petty officer in charge of the Naval Station Color Guard. In this capacity, he attends all military functions such as inspections, parades, and change of command ceremonies. He is responsible for the military training of all personnel assigned to these duties.

Beach greets Sunday Punchers

On hand to greet CDR Ken Werhann, VA-75 skipper, and Oceana based Sunday Punchers were Carol Scotese, Miss Virginia Beach and Meyera Oberdorfer, Virginia Beach comedienne. The Sunday Punchers were awarded the Air Wing Commander's Cup for their exceptional service completion rate and professionalism in meeting their operational commitments. The squadron had the highest landing grades of the air wing during the period.

Oceana-based flier to pilot space shuttle

By ANNETTE HALL
Special to the SUN

Lieutenant Commander David Walker, attached to Oceana-based Fighter Squadron One Hundred Forty-Two (VF-142), was shopping in the Naples Navy Exchange unaware that NASA had selected him for the space shuttle program.

He was among 35 people named as space shuttle astronauts by the National Aeronautics and Space Administration on Jan. 16. However, official notification did not immediately reach VF-142 which is deployed in USS America and operating in the Mediterranean.

It took a port call, a shopping trip and an unofficial "Hey Walker, heard you made the list," from a friend to inform him of the good news.

It took a phone call from Naples to Virginia Beach on Jan. 17 to convince him. "Yes, it's true," answered Patricia Walker to her excited, shocked husband.

According to Mrs. Walker, "he's very enthusiastic. This is something he's wanted for years and years."

Lieutenant Commander Walker, 34, is a graduate of the Naval Academy. After flight training and Vietnam cruises, he went to Test Pilot School, Edwards Air Force Base. The final phase of training included pre-astronautics. He was then assigned as an F-14 test pilot at NAS Patuxent River, Md. This is Lt. Comm. Walker's second cruise with VF-142.

Back in September, Lt. Cmdr. Walker was among those called by NASA for weeklong testing, interviews and briefings. Finally, each prospect was photographed in a space suit and then given a souvenir print.

The print now serves as a focal point in the Walker kitchen. The Walker children, Michael, 8 and Matt, 6, readily show visitors just how their dad looks as an astronaut.

Mrs. Walker said that she and her husband hoped the list would be out at Christmas and have been "on pins and needles" waiting.

No more waiting.

Lt. Cmdr. David Walker, who will pilot space shuttles in the 1980's and his family will probably report to Houston in June.

Lt. Cmdr. David Walker and his wife Patricia waited "on pins and needles" for NASA's announcement.

The U.S. Government Awards the Ram-Jet Supercharger Patent No. 3118435. And other patents pending

NOW! BETWEEN 1 TO 7 MORE MILES PER GALLON FOR YOUR CAR

New Ram-Jet Actually "Jet Assists" Your Car Engine... Makes It Burn Up To 15 Gallons Of Air For Every Gallon Of Gas... And Gives You As Much As 15% More Clean Power! Jet Like Acceleration!

We believe Ram-Jet is the most exciting piece of high-performance automotive equipment since the V-8. Yet it weighs only a few ounces. Installs in a couple of minutes (No special tools or training needed. You won't even get your hands greasy). Costs less than a tankful of gas. And saves you so much gas, it's like getting up to one gallon in every ten FREE!

The brainchild of Ed Almqvist, internationally famous automotive engineer and the "Thomas Edison of high-performance accessories" The Ram-Jet took over 20 years to develop and perfect.

How does it work?

Just as a jet engine requires a certain supply of air to operate so does the gasoline combustion engine in your car. And it's the carburetor that mixes this air with fuel to fire the cylinders and make your car go. The problem is that carburetors were invented over 50 years ago when gas was plentiful and cheap and air pollution wasn't even talked about. The carburetor hasn't changed much since then. It's still a big compromise! It only works perfectly on those rare occasions when all driving conditions are perfect. (Which averages only a couple of minutes at the most out of every driving hour.) Your carburetor just can not efficiently adjust itself to your stop-and-go driving, sudden bursts of speed; or to put it in technical terms... those many occasions when your engine is operating under 0-10" high-load conditions. When this crucial mixture of air and gas is not right, on the money, the result is a loss of power with a lot more gas being burned than is really necessary!

SAMPLE INSTRUCTIONS
Easy instructions show you how to install in just a few minutes. No special tools. No training needed. Fits all cars and trucks.

Now, at last, the Ram-Jet to the rescue! It solves both problems at once. It brings your 50-year-old carburetor design into the Jet Age.

1) It works like a "mini-computer" to automatically adjust the air/gas mixture to your every driving need. It thus steps up gas molecularization... reducing the over-rich mixture before it becomes wasteful. Just as a jet engine sucks air into it... the Ram-Jet automatically and safely jets air into the gas mixture the very split second your driving conditions require it.

2) It captures the polluted air that would ordinarily be fed back into your engine... and re-energizes it into a "Jet Stream" that is once again ignited into useful clean power instead of clogging up your engine and making it hesitate and stall and waste gasoline and power.

Thousands of similar devices sold in Europe for more than $20 a piece. The Ram-Jet Supercharger is now available to you for just $14.95. Because of a special arrangement, it comes to you direct (no middlemen) from the inventor/manufacturer himself, Mr. Ed Almqvist.

WHAT DO PEOPLE SAY ABOUT THE RAM-JET SUPERCHARGER?

An airline pilot writes: "I have a Ram-Jet. And suddenly my little six so many of my passengers engine seems to have the power of an out that we average eight. Yet it saves gas from 2 to 6 more miles like it was a four. That per gallon with much little Ram-Jet is more engine pep and amazing!"

Paul Shede, Plymouth, Conn. The Rev. P. Mick Harvey, Illinois

GREATEST GUARANTEE IN AUTOMOTIVE HISTORY: THE 90-DAY MONEY BACK GUARANTEE. Assume within the next 100,000 miles you put on your car. If you don't think the Ram-Jet Supercharger is the best automotive investment you've ever made, simply return it to us for a full money back refund. No questions asked. (And don't forget... with the Ram-Jet turning pollution into clean power instead of turning it back into your engine, it's no telling how many extra power-packed miles you'll be able to log on your engine before it's ready for the junk heap!

Juried show open to Beach art center members

Each year the Virginia Beach Arts Center presents artists with a magnificent opportunity to exhibit and sell work in a juried show. The catch is that the show is limited to center members. A membership drive is continually underway, however, and the annual show is an important incentive for area artists to become members of the Center.

This year's show will take place at the Dome, March 3, 4 and 5, and will be judged by the noted painter Jack Clifton, head of the Clifton

School of Art and author of the book "The Eye of the Artist".

Entry blanks are due at the Center on Feb. 24; each entering artist will be allowed to exhibit two works.

Beach residents make ODU dean's list

Four Virginia Beach residents have been named to the dean's list at Old Dominion University.

Carole O. Thompson of Marina Lake Road, a sociology and nursing major, is among those named.

Others named include: Rick Edwards, son of Mr. and Mrs. Richard F. Edwards of Shippins, a 1976 honor graduate of Cox High School; Tejesa Taylor, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. P.G. Taylor of Silfen Drive, a nursing maior and a 1976 honor graduate of Kellam High School; and William Curtis Merritt, son of Mr. and Mrs. Manning C. Merritt of Twin Cove Road, a civil engineering major.

Church holds sixth annual revival

Virginia Beach United Methodist Church has announced its sixth annual Wednesday Lenten series. The series begin on Ash Wednesday, Feb. 8, at 12 noon.

The thirty minute mid-week service will feature preachers from area churches. The Ash Wednesday speaker will be Rev. Jack Bartee, pastor of Foundry United Methodist Church. The succeeding preachers will be, Rev. James W. Rush, of Scott Memorial Church; Rev. Malcolm L. Yapple, Nimmo Church; Dr. Francis L. Garroff, Epworth Church; Rev. C. Reginald Walton, Thalia United Methodist Church and Rev. Lee H. Beville, Baylake Church. On Good Friday, March 24, there will be a service at noon with the Rev. Leonard L. Henselwood Jr., pastor of Norfolk's Ferebee-Halstead United Methodist Church, as the speaker.

Special music for the series is being arranged by Mrs. Joyce Clarke, the church's director of music. Mrs. Wanda Lequire will be the organist. Pastors of the Beach Church, which is located between 18th and 19th Streets of Pacific Avenue, are Rev. Bernard S. Via Jr. and Rev. Robert L. Connel.

Lent is a period of fasting and repentance before Easter. It includes the forty week days before Easter, but excludes the six Sundays.

Rec center forms senior theatre company

In cooperation with the Performing Arts and Adult Services Program, a senior citizen theatrical company is being formed at the Virginia Beach Recreation Center.

The company will be performing a series of one-act plays and will be under the direction of Henry deShields. Rehearsals have been scheduled on Thursdays, from 12:30 to 2 p.m. at the center. For more information, contact Betty Page at 499-1281 or 800 Monmouth Lane.

Babysitting offered

A babysitting service offered by the Wesleyan Acres United Methodist Church is expanding.

The service will now be provided five days a week from 9 a.m. until noon. Any child who is one or two years of age is eligible to attend. Cost is $2 for each morning the service is used. The church is at 715 Baker Road near Virginia Wesleyan College.

You may need food stamps

Do you need help with your food budget? Do you care about your nutrition? Do you know a bargain when you see it? Are you making use of the food stamp program?

Any household that meets national eligibility requirements, and complies with work registration requirements, can participate in the food stamp program. Such households might include: workers with low wages, unemployed people, part-time workers, elderly people living on fixed incomes or people with no income.

To apply in Virginia Beach call 428-0141, Department of Social Services, for details.

Interested persons are asked to call the Red Cross field office, 464-7791, and schedule themselves for an interview Feb. 15 or 17. The interviews precede an orientation class to be held Feb. 21 from 9:30 a.m. to 2:30 p.m. in the Amphibious School auditorium building 3804. Volunteers should have a valid military identification card.

Contractors awarded bid

A $2.3 million contract to widen a 1.2 mile stretch of Birdneck Road to four lanes has been approved by the Virginia Department of Highways and Transportation.

Construction will start as soon as possible on the segment from Laskin Road to the Norfolk Southern Railway tracks and will be completed by mid-1979, according to a highway department spokesman. The road, now two lanes, will be a four lane divided highway.

Work will be done by Warren Brothers Construction, a division of Ashland Oil, Inc. of Richmond.

Kempville art club receives prize money

The Lake Christopher Building Co. has given $100 to the Kempville High School Art Club for decorating their model home in December.

The money will be used in the club's scholarship fund for seniors planning a career in art.

Club members who participated in the project were Madeline Smith, Tanya Gallop, Terri Scopelliti, Linda Oberdorf, Shellie Leggett, Chris Kelleher and Kathy Heroux.

Gifted children learn at TCC

The annual program for the gifted children of the Virginia Beach Public Schools has begun at the Virginia Beach Campus of Tidewater Community College.

Each Saturday morning, one hundred and forty bright and curious youngsters are brought to the Virginia Beach Campus off Princess Anne Road by their parents. From 9 a.m.-12 noon they are exposed to one of six learning tracks in either the natural sciences, mathematics or an exploratory approach to basic electricity/electronics. To offer the students a variety of different exposures the students change courses each four weeks.

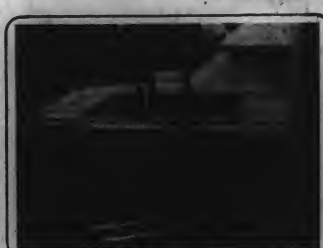

This program which is a cooperative effort between Tidewater Community College and the Virginia Beach Public Schools began on Jan. 14 and continues for twelve consecutive Saturdays.

This year the program offers additional enrichment activities in the areas of linguistics and computers and calculators. Although not college level work, the activities are taught in the college laboratories and classrooms by regular TCC faculty members.

These eager youngsters are for the most part fifth, sixth and seventh grade level youngsters who are in the college classroom.

Charlie Johnson of Suffolk Lane, and president of the Virginia Bluewater Gamefish Association, gives some pointers to a Beach viewer on how to catch the big ones.

Boat and water lovers gathered at the 25th Annual Boat Show held in Scope last weekend. Scope was packed with sportsman from all over the Tidewater area.

Boat show previews summer for Beach sportsmen

Beach resident Elmer Wright of Lynnhaven Dry Storage Marina lends a hand to spectators at the 25th Annual Boat Show held at Scope. Spectators signed up for a chance on months free storage at the Virginia Beach marina.

February is boat show time in Tidewater and while the weather outside is not conducive to most watersports, Virginia Beach residents were given an opportunity last week-end to view, wares of the local boat dealers and to dream a bit about the coming boating season.

The 25th annual Mid-Atlantic Sports and Boat Show opened last Sunday at Scope in Norfolk and will remain open until Feb. 12. The 150 boats on display range from inflatable and sail-powered surf boards to a 31-foot sportfisherman and a 27-foot sailboat.

There are also numerous boating related products displayed, such as nautical hardware, marine electronic equipment, fresh and salt water fishing tackle, nautical furniture, clothing and marina facilities.

The Coast Guard, Power Squadron, Virginia Fish and Wildlife Department, several Beach civic organizations and fishing clubs are well represented by personnel and display.

The projected attendance for the eight day run is 40,000 people and if Sunday was a good indication of the local interest, there should be no problem reaching the mark.

Boat show hours are from 6-10 pm weekdays and from 10-10 pm on Saturday. Sunday hours will be from 1-7 p.m. Admission is $1.75 for adults and 75 cents children over 12 years.

Virginia Beach boaters are in store for a treat.

NOTICE TO THE PUBLIC OF A VOLUNTARY RATE FOR SYNAGOGUES, CHURCHES AND SIMILAR INSTITUTIONS

Virginia Electric and Power Company filed on January 6, 1978, with the State Corporation Commission of Virginia a Time-of-Usage rate entitled Schedule No. 5P to be effective May 1, 1978. This rate is available on a voluntary basis only for synagogues, churches and similar institutions operated solely for charitable purposes.

Although, at the present time, it cannot be estimated how many synagogues, churches or similar institutions would benefit by volunteering for the proposed new rate, it is anticipated that Schedule No. 5P would be best suited for the above customers whose electric usage is predominately off-peak; the off-peak periods being 9 P.M. to 9 A.M. EST, Monday through Friday and all day Saturday and Sunday.

Any synagogue, church or similar institution which may be interested in volunteering for the Time-of-Usage Rate Schedule No. 5P, should advise Vepco by contacting the local Vepco office. After a request concerning this new rate has been received, a contact will be made by a Vepco representative to assist in estimating the impact that this rate would have on the charges for electric service. Subsequently the customer will have the option of making the decision as to whether or not to volunteer for this rate.

Any person desiring to comment on the Company's application should do so by writing to William C. Young, Clerk, State Corporation Commission, Blanton Building, P.O. Box 1197, Richmond, Virginia 23209. All comments must be forwarded no later than April 30, 1978.

Henley tosses hat into council ring

By JOAN COATES
SUN Editor

Barbara Murden Henley, of Charity Neck Road in the Pungo section of Virginia Beach, has announced her intention to run for the Beach City Council May 2. Mrs. Henley announced her decision at the home of Councilwoman Meyers Oberndorf last week. Roger Oberndorf will be Mrs. Henley's campaign treasurer.

Noting that a "well informed, interested and involved citizenry is vital to good government," Mrs. Henley will strive to see that the Freedom of Information Act is "adhered to the letter, and that meetings of the city's governing bodies and boards are not only open to the public but that the public is encouraged to attend and to participate whenever possible."

Mrs. Henley said that she intends to work towards careful expenditure of each tax dollar "so that adequate services can be provided without unnecessary tax increases."

Married to G. Winston Henley, the candidate and her husband operate a farm in Pungo. The couple resides with their two children, Jeff, 6, and Bruce, 3.

A former teacher with the Virginia Beach public schools, Mrs. Henley has a B.S. degree from Old Dominion University in elementary education. She is a member of the executive board of the Crofts PTA and on the board of directors of the United Way Family Center.

Council forms policy

by Lee Cahill
Public Affairs Writer

The City of Virginia Beach will not pay for expenses of spouses and first class travel under travel regulations proposed by a city council committee.

Council, which presented the proposal Monday, will have until the Feb. 27 meeting to study the regulations before officially accepting, rejecting or changing the proposal which was submitted by Councilmen Robert R. Cromwell Jr., chairman, and Dr. J. Henry McCoy. Councilman R. L. Riggs, also appointed to the committee, dropped out so that the committee could meet in private without violating the Freedom of Information Act, Cromwell said.

The councilmen worked with City Manager George L. Hanbury and Sam Clay, assistant to the city manager.

last week. Cromwell said that "due to the climactic conditions, I thought we should get this in as soon as possible."

The proposal suggests that attendance at out-of-state conferences by members of city council be limited to two members (the mayor or his designee and an additional member of council). Cromwell said that there was no reason for the "two," except that it was the most restrictive number, and that it would be all right if council wanted to change the number to three, four or five.

No reference is made to spouses in the proposal. However, it includes only expenses "incurred while city employees, members of the city council and appointees of the city council are traveling on city business."

The proposed regulations state that city vehicles should not exceed the regular tourist fare although if the representatives want to pay the difference between tourist and first class, he or she should be permitted to do so.

The regulations cover lodgings (when two or more employees of the same sex are attending the same event, the sharing of quarters is encouraged), tips, taxis, ferries, tolls, parking, meals (expenditures must be reasonable), and forms which have to be filled.

The city will not pay for personal expenses, self-entertainment activities (movies, night clubs), payment of travel insurance premiums, the cost of travelers checks or the loss of funds or personal belongings.

The city has never had a written policy on travel, but council came under fire recently following a trip to San Francisco taken by three city council members, the city manager and chairman of the Planning Commission. (Continued to page A-11)

Beach residents have say

Virginia Beach residents voiced strong opinions when asked about city officials' travel policy.

Most residents surveyed were against spending city funds to take spouses along on city related trips. Several noted that husbands and wives were not included in military trips or in private business travel.

A few were angry about the use of their tax money. One woman felt that the money spent on trips should be used for something that would benefit the taxpayer...such as roads.

One man considered the disclosure of a 10,000 trip taken by city officials in December as "very untimely." "They did a very human thing," he said, "I might not have done the same thing."

One couple surveyed felt that wives should be rewarded. "A wife stands behind her husband to get him there. It's only fair she should profit from her hard work," the wife said.

Several people polled felt it would be nice to have spouses included but did not want to have to pay for the expense. Photos and quotes on page 2

Traveled miles must be reduced

by Lee Cahill
Public Affairs Writer

By 1987 southeastern Virginia will have to decrease the number of automobile miles traveled by 93 percent.

How this will be accomplished, nobody knows. However, the regional office of the State Air Pollution Control Board is working on ordinances which will be presented to the various jurisdictions to help them on the way to attaining this goal.

Lucian McDonald, regional director of the board, said that the southeastern region, with an ozone reading of .18 parts per million in the atmosphere is above the standard of .08 parts per million set under the Clean Air Act.

McDonald spoke to the Virginia Beach city council Monday afternoon to explain the ramifications of 1977 amendments to the Clean Air Act. He said that compliance with the provisions of the Act must be accomplished by 1987.

This means that the hydrocarbons emitted in this region must be reduced by 93 percent. Most of the reduction must come from transportation sources, since industrial emission may be cut by only 12 percent.

McDonald told council that since the region had to show is good faith in complying, some steps have to be taken this year.

He said that he would be back before council next November with suggested ordinances to reduce vehicular traffic.

Harvey Gilbert Farm Bureau president

By Joan Coates
SUN Editor

W. Harvey Gilbert was born on a farm. But when he was a young man he tried working on a loading rack, 40 hours a week, for an oil company. When he came home at night from his $90 a month job, he couldn't even eat his dinner without smelling oil.

Gilbert quit his job at the oil company, and went back to the life his father lead, and his father before him. He went back to farming in Virginia Beach.

"It's hard work and I've seen hard times, the Virginia Beach Farm Bureau president said. "When you're raised on a farm and work at it, it just grows up with you."

Gilbert and his wife of 29 years, built a home in the Blackwater section of the Beach, near where they both grew up. Fathers, uncles and a couple of cousins help build the house the Gilberts still live in today.

They've added a few things to the original house when the addition of a family began. The Gilberts have three children, Elizabeth Darlene, 25, William Harvey Jr., 23, and Connie Elaine Bigelow, 22.

Farming is truly a family operation for the Gilberts. Relatives live across and down Blackwater Road...everyone is related.

"If you take the Shirley, Gilberts and Froets out of here," Gilbert chuckled, "it tends to this Blackwater."

Gilbert and his son farm together and pool operations with a relative and son-in-law. "We pool operation so we wouldn't have to rely on labor. Dependable labor...they're very few," Gilbert noted.

"People should realize when they move into an agriculturally zoned area, that whatever comes, you're going to have to bear the brunt."

The Gilberts grow wheat, corn and soybeans on the 600 acres they farm. Gilbert said that there are about 150 producer members on record in the Virginia Beach Farm Bureau, although there are only about 100 actual farmers, "if that."

"There's a lot of farmers with small operations," Gilbert said. "There are some big fellows...they grow grain."

According to Gilbert, Beach farmers grow a variety of field crops and some grow livestock as well. "Virginia Beach's percentage of produced is something like one-fourth of the state. A few years ago I got a report that Virginia Beach had the largest pork/hog growing facility east of the Mississippi."

Some farmers raise cattle although Gilbert noted that "they have sort of phased them out due to low prices. But a few are hanging on."

Just like the farmers across the country, Beach farmers also have their dissatisfaction with prices. "By the time you count your ware, tare and labor, there's not much left," he said. According to Gilbert, "in comparison to what we receive in crops, equipment is a big problem."

In the last two years, the price of equipment has almost doubled, according to Gilbert, and there'd been a six percent increase since last August. Most equipment lasts about six years without too much repair needed, he said. He figured with a little less than 600 acres of land to farm, about $180,000 in equipment is needed.

"For a young man who wanted to start farming today, and didn't have someone to help him get started, it is impossible. Maybe he could borrow it, but he couldn't pay for it."

Another problem for farmers, peculiar in particular to Virginia Beach, is development. Developers will come into an agricultural zoned area and develop in a manner of what Gilbert calls, "leap frogging. Maybe they'll buy mine...then skip a few."

The once farm land would then be developed onto small housing projects and residents will complain of the smell neighboring farms or of the spraying of insecticides.

"People should realize when they move into an agriculturally zoned area, that whatever comes, you're going to have to bear the brunt," Gilbert explained.

If a farmer kills any scruboery, the farmer is in the position "of having to face a lawsuit the way the law is now. There was a young farmer not long ago, up near the Courthouse, who was put out of business because of development."

Young farmers aren't as attracted these days to farming. Gilbert speculated that some don't have the interest, some are not able to get set up, or some see the possibility of making more money in another field.

In the Young Farmers Organization in Virginia Beach which is open to men 18-30, Gilbert said there are only about 15 members.

"It's had now to increase," he said. "For a young fellow to make a decent living, he would almost have to have 600-800 acres, to begin to go."

But for the Gilberts, farming is their life. They get up around 6 a.m. every morning and when they are in spring planting or picking season, their day lasts until about 9 p.m.

Mrs. Gilbert cooks for the crew when they're working the Gilbert farm, goes to get parts when equipment needs repaired and "tries to see all the bills are paid. It's just run everyday," she said.

"We enjoy it," Gilbert added "Course there's days when you'd wish you'd never seen a tractor."

"But somebody has to feed all those people," Mrs. Gilbert pointed out.

It looks like the Gilberts and clan in Blackwater plan to keep on feeding the people of Virginia Beach for a while.

But Mrs. Colella was able to solve the problem quickly with a SUN classified ad.

"I was thrilled with the results," she said. "The man called the first day the paper came out. He came to see Gretchen and it was love at first sight. He and his son took her home with them. "Gretchen, my son who is 16, was not happy about having to give her away but after meeting the nice man and his son he was satisfied that they would be giving her a good home. Plus the fact that they said they would let us know how she does."

Saturday evening. Police cars lined up and flashing red on Shore Drive.
(If it's not the biggest criminal hunt since Al Capone days, it must be a police escort for Anwar Sadat.)

Rhonda Miller

A Virginia Beach policeman in the middle of the road brings traffic down to a 10 mph flow.
Some cars are motioned over to the side of the road. Several are motioned on.

(Why did tonight seem to be the night to leave that junky old pickup at home? Fine time to not to have any [decalification].)

Over:
High Figures.
(The driver of the car, of course, is a friend with a monstrous black dog that barks terrorizingly at policemen.)
At least the chosen few get to find out what the hunt is all about.

"You don't have a city decal displayed, sir."
(Saturday night. Couldn't we have something a bit more dramatic than city stickers?)

"Is the car registered in Virginia Beach?"

"No, sir, Norfolk."

A registration check. A motion to move on.

A sigh for the unfortunate police officer who has to spend Saturday night searching for the little lighthouse on the windshield.

Toll makes her mad

Town Crier:
I get so mad about that toll on the expressway! It hardly seems right that people living in Virginia Beach and commuting to work in Norfolk should have to pay the brunt of the expense of a highway which will benefit all citizens of Virginia.

I know that those people use it more, but what about all the people who use the other half and don't get drained every day?

Traveling on the city...

MRS. MAY RUTTER, College Park Road:
"My husband is working for the government and I can't go with him. And he's gone a year at a time. What about the young Navy couples? No one helps them get together."

JUNE RINGER, Lamplight Road:
"I don't think it should be allowed. My husband has been in the service for 20 years, and he's never been able to take me along. I've always paid my way...and I expect everyone else to."

PAT MADISON, Kellam Road:
"I don't think it's right. We're paying for it. Look at our roads. Money should go to something we'd all benefit from."

MRS. H.L. SANDEFER, Auburn Drive:

SANDY WOOLARD, Smith Farms:
"I'm not in favor of it, purely because Virginia Beach is the only place to do it. Norfolk functions fairly well without it and there's no reason for the Beach to do it. In my business, real estate, they don't pay for my husband to go along."

TOM BECK, Green Run:
"I'm running for city council in two years and I'd want to take my wife along. I'd probably pay her way. But I don't think they should go first class. It's nice to have my wife along. Wives should be rewarded. It has its good and it's bad [points]."

Move over, San Francisco

Virginia Beach is a great place to visit for a vacation...or a convention. Why does San Francisco get all the lavish city funds...why not have a meeting right here at the Beach?

We could invite all the mayors of cities with deficits in their budgets. We could require that they spend at least $10,000 a city. It would be great for the city pocketbook.

And think of all the money. It would be a wonderful boost for a sagging city. I could just picture it now.

Every representative to the meeting would be required to check into a suite at one of Virginia Beach's finest. And in case of the absence of a spouse, and extra $300 a night would be tacked on to the bill.

All representatives must fly first class to Fungo Airport and arrange for a private Tidewater Rapid Transit bus to transport them to their lodgings.

Every meal will consist of at least seven courses with tips not less than 50 percent.

Souvenirs of the city are mandatory. Each city will be expected to purchase 2,000 tons of fresh Chesapeake seafood. Arrangements to fly the seafood home is extra.

Each representative is required to hit at least 25 Beach night spots in a three day period and must spend no less than $10 per person per stop.

Each representative must purchase a bathing suit from the resort area, as well as an official "Virginia is for Lovers" evening dress or tuxedo.

Joan Coates
SUN Editor

Every other night of the convention, a gala ball will be held at the Dome, compliments of member cities.

An accurate account of each representative city's Bill will be accumulated by the Administrative employee, Larry Davenport.

City funds would soar. Move over San Francisco, here comes Virginia Beach.

MIKE MCCORMICK, Lake Christopher Drive:
"I think maybe they could allow one trip that where their family could join them. The taxpayer shouldn't have to foot the bill everytime."

CLAUDE WHITE, Holland Road:
"I would say I think two things would be wrong. Most politicians have some fringe benefits. And it was right during the time when they talked about tax increases. It was very untimely. Up to that time, there were no guidelines. They took advantage of that particular loophole. I think it was wrong and they were aware it was wrong. In the future, they should have guidelines. It's too bad we have to have a law. They did a very human thing. I might not have done the same thing."

Letters to the SUN

Editor, Virginia Beach SUN:

As a professional observer of Virginia Legislative matters, you are undoubtedly aware of current efforts to amend Virginia's recently enacted sales tax acceleration provision. I am writing to express to you Noland Company's support of such efforts, and to explain why we think such provision must be changed.

The amendment, to an otherwise sound sales tax law, hastily enacted near the end of the last session of the General Assembly, requires an acceleration of sales tax collections. It was aimed at vendors who have previously enjoyed the free use for at least twenty days each month of money belonging to the Commonwealth.

For a company that sells primarily on a cash basis, this new amendment means, in effect, that the sales tax collected during the month must be remitted to the state at the end of the collection month. This was, we believe, the intended effect of the amendment.

What apparently was not fully understood at the time of its hasty enactment was the inequity which this new law works on the vendor who sells his products under extended credit terms. Noland Company, like many other firms, extends credit in excess of 96 percent of its transactions.

Under the original law, our company was already remitting sales tax to the state an average of ten days before we collected it from our customers. To comply with the required accelerated payment of two-thirds of our monthly collections, our company must now prepay a tax for an even longer period than it was already being prepaid. In other words, since our average collection period is 45 days, we are now required to prepay sales taxes 30 days before we collect the same from our customers.

In Noland Company's case, we are having to borrow $76,000 on a perpetual basis to advance to the state. Assuming we maintain our present level of business, this money will never be returned and we will pay interest on it in perpetuity.

We do not quarrel with the General Assembly's attempts to speed up collection of sales taxes already collected from customers by vendors on a cash basis. We are, however, offended by and opposed to treating credit-based vendors the same as cash-based vendors, when wholly different facts are applicable in each situation.

Beyond the obvious inequities inherent in the amendment presently in effect, there are important moral and ethical issues involved. To begin with, it should be noted that the amendment is only a stop-gap measure. It provides the additional revenue for only one year and at the cost of impairing a previously fair and equitable law.

The amended provision violates principles established at the time the sales tax legislation was enacted. Virginia's sales tax is intended as a tax on the consumer. The tax under an accelerated provision is now on business, thus, credit businesses are being taxed for acting in an involuntary collection agent of the state which was never intended.

It is also a bad precedent. Using the logic employed in passage of this law, the Commonwealth could avoid tax increases forever, merely by having its citizens prepay present taxes further and further ahead of time.

In short, Virginia's historic pride in its otherwise equitable, well designed, and fair sales tax structure begs for correction of this injustice.

Will Beach find direction?

Editor, Virginia Beach SUN:

I wanted to share with you an experience I had that is pregnant with meaning for the city of Virginia Beach.

The other day my prize Poland-China boar rooted his way out of his pen and began playing havoc with my yard. He rooted up my wife's tulip bulbs, dug up the front lawn and even rooted a hole under the chicken fence and let out our whole flock of Rhode Island Reds.

I tried every way I could think of to drive him back to his pen, but nothing worked. Finally I took a mess of collards (fortunately we'd cleaned out the patch that morning) and made a trail of collard leaves back to his pen. The big boar followed the trail hungrily and was soon safe inside his pen.

As I thought of this, I was reminded of the city of Virginia Beach and how it is rooting aimlessly about the front yard of civic life, rooting up lives and hopes and dreams. Meyers Oberdorf is that collard trail leading us back to the pigpen of responsibility.

Will the city ever find true direction?

Much deception surrounds canal

Editor, Virginia Beach SUN:

Many U. S. senators who intend to vote for the ratification of the Panama Canal treaties are today resorting to a deception to further their self-interests and ignore the wishes of 78% of their constituents.

Congressman Robert Dornan inserted in the Congressional Record an article entitled, "The Selling of the Panama Canal Treaties," on Jan. 26, written by Philip Nicolides which reveals the slick sales pitch that is being handed the American people. Excerpts follow:

"The Carter administration, stunned by polls which showed the president's popularity in a sharp decline, suddenly decided to tough it out with a full-court press to get the treaties ratified. The National Journal tells us that more than 80 State Department functionaries have been assigned full-time to lobby wavering senators, and—as you can see—they even have a few people left over to roam the countryside in an attempt to drum up support for the treaties...

"As one might expect, the New York Times, the Washington Post, and the Los Angeles Times gave the treaties their trite blessing... They have all been playing—with endless variations—two themes: shame and fear; shame at the terrible wrongs we have done the Panamanian people, and fear of the terrible things the Panamanian people will do to us and our canal unless we hand it over pronto. The public is perceived as ignorant and emotional...

"Escorted by the president himself, George Meany stepped before the TV lights to do his bit to educate us. Drawing on his rich stores of historical and geographical lore, Professor Meany told us that our involvement with the canal was—and I quote—"nothing to be proud of. That we should be ashamed to want to hang on to that little scrap of ill-gotten land 8000 miles away."

"President Carter himself advised us that the 1908 treaty was suspect because it was 'signed in the dead of night'—a circumstance of which he obviously disapproved. By now, I hope, somebody has told them that the Hay-Bunau-Varilla Treaty was signed at exactly 7 p.m.; that the Canal Zone is a lot closer to Texas and Florida than 8000 miles, and that the Panama Canal is something Americans should be proud of, that it is one of the greatest peacetime achievements of any nation, a heroic task which took ten years and involved the conquest of disease in what was then one of the worst pest-holes in the world, that it was a triumph of American courage, determination, and technology which has prompted even Ambassador Linowits to describe it with awe as the 'Moon Shot' of its day. All this suggest that the White House educational program could well begin at home."

— Traditional Hymn

For some time, we have been regaled with dire predictions of recession depression and other ominous terms that depict a general worsening of our economic situation; all of which must cause many of us to wonder if our own source of life's basic needs might soon be in jeopardy. The fancy words would indeed appear to forecast a grim future when translated into terms of next week's groceries or next month's rent. Throughout history, in time of trouble man has always turned to religion as a last resort, even when it should have been his first. There is no better time than now to go to your Church and pray to God for His ever-present help and guidance.

Vet school proposed for VPI

Report from Richmond

Several bills have been introduced in the general assembly this year to authorize a veterinary school at Virginia Polytechnic Institute and State University in Blacksburg. More than half the house members support a bill to open the school this fall.

In December, the State Council on Higher Education gave Virginia Tech permission to continue planning the vet school program conditioned upon a requirement that the school be regional and that federal and private help also be pledged.

Maryland and West Virginia are prepared to support a regional veterinary school located in Blacksburg "if Virginia will commit itself to building it," according to Rois M. Godsey, the chairman of a statewide organization supporting the school.

Godsey said quiet negotiations have produced assurances that opening the vet school would bring the backing from the other two states.

Maryland higher education officials indicated the senate has swung strongly in favor of opening formal negotiations with Virginia but the action of the Maryland house is uncertain. West Virginia has not committed itself on the issue.

Godsey, heading a coalition of 60 farm and urban organizations, said he and Dr. Dan Flynn, the chairman of the Virginia Veterinary Medicine Association, will tell the Virginia House Appropriations Committee that the school will cost $18 million to build.

He said the coalition he heads is more optimistic than it has ever been that the Virginia General Assembly will approve about $1.2 million to allow the school to open in 1980, which seems the earliest date the school can realistically be expected to open.

The state now spends $656,000 each year to maintain about 124 Virginians in four-year veterinary schools in Alabama, Georgia and Ohio where 21 spaces have been held annually for Virginia students.

The state now provides Virginia Polytechnic Institute with $700,000 to operate research and extension programs out of a department of veterinary science. It is Godsey's opinion that the graduate school to train veterinarians could be started in 1980 if some of those funds already appropriated for Virginia Tech veterinary activities were increased by a relatively small amount.

Gaining support from other states is imperative. The state Council of Higher Education and Governor John N. Dalton have made that a crucial element of their support for the school. Flynn and Godsey said about $8 million would be needed from Virginia over the next four or five years to construct the school, $4 million of which the federal government has authorized. Agricultural and animal interests in the state are prepared to raise $4 million in order to get the school under way.

I am in favor of the proposed school of veterinary medicine if it proves economically feasible based on the increased number of students who would benefit from the veterinary program, and can be done on a regional basis at a cost that makes sense when balanced against our other numerous needs for state funding.

Bayside Junior students take over ...

It was a hard and busy day for the 150 students who volunteered their services for Cafeteria Appreciation Day at Bayside Junior. Fatigue set in right after lunch.

At Bayside Junior High School, Cafeteria Appreciation Day is more than a simple "thanks" to the lunchroom staff.

For the past six years, the S.C.A. (Student Government Association) has set aside one day of the year, where the students take over cafeteria duties for that day. They plan, prepare, serve and clean-up four periods of lunch.

Approximately 150 students were involved in this year's project, held last Friday. "They do exactly what the staff does," said Rick Brittingham, S.C.A. adviser. "And they abide by all the health rules and regulations." According to Brittingham, the students benefit from the experience by realizing just what it takes to prepare a daily meal.

And the staff was enjoying their day. Each employee received a proclamation and courage by the students, in appreciation for their services throughout the year.

School board sets date, gives city land

At its regular monthly meeting Jan. 17, the Virginia Beach School Board voted to set Sunday, June 18 as the date for 1978 commencement exercises for graduating seniors and approved the dedication of a strip of land in front of Holland Elementary School to the city for widening Holland Road.

In discussing the commencement time change from evening to daytime hours, school superintendent Dr. E. E. Brickell told the board that the recent practice of holding commencements at night in high school stadiums has led to less formality and less dignity. Brickell also cited the safety problems involved in an evening commencement, plus the potential for interruption.

The board voted unanimously to have all high school graduations begin between 2 and 3 p.m. on June 18 at the respective schools, allowing three days between the seniors' final exams and graduation.

On the land dedication matter, Virginia Beach City Manager George Hanbery requested approximately one-third of an acre of land in front of Holland Elementary be turned over to the city for use in widening.

Outstanding law officer named by Jaycees

Patrolman Jimmy W. Mobley of the Virginia Beach Police Department was one of the top three finalists judges to be Virginia's Most Outstanding Young Law Officers for 1978. The presentation of the annual Outstanding Young Law Officer awards was the highlight of the Virginia Jaycees' winter board meeting held in Williamsburg recently. The recipients were honored Saturday afternoon at a special OYLO luncheon, attended by some 800 Jaycees and their wives at the Fort Magruder Inn. Patrolman Mobley was named third place winner. First place went to Warren A. Pence of the Page County sheriff's department; second place winner was trooper Beverly A. Bowen of the Virginia state police.

The winners are selected by a panel of distinguished judges including Wyatt B. Durrette Jr., former delegate from Fairfax; Andrew P. Miller, former Virginia Attorney General; and Captain James Robertson of the Arlington County Police.

Any young law officer, between the ages of 18 and 36 is eligible. Both men and women are eligible for the award; men need not be Jaycees.

Employment survey set for Virginia Beach

Local representatives of the U.S. Bureau of the Census will conduct a survey of employment in this area during the week of Feb. 20-25.

The survey is conducted monthly for the U.S. Department of Labor using a scientifically designed sample of approximately 70,000 households throughout the United States. Employment and unemployment statistics based on results of this survey are used to provide a continuing measure of the economic health of the nation.

For example, in December the survey indicated that of the 98.9 million men and women in the U.S. civilian labor force, 92.6 million were employed. The nation's unemployment rate was 6.4 percent, compared with 6.9 percent in October. This was the lowest unemployment rate recorded since the fall of 1974.

Information supplied by individuals participating in the survey is kept strictly confidential by law and the results are used only to compile statistical totals.

Interviewers who will visit households in this area include:

Mrs. Mary G. Euler, 4245 Greenleaf Dr., Chesapeake.
Mrs. Angela A. Coffield, 420 Appian Avenue, Virginia Beach, and

The circus is on the way!

The world's largest and best loved circus spectacular, Ringling Bros. and Barnum & Bailey, proudly presents the electrifying new 108th edition of The Greatest Show on Earth, coming to Norfolk Scope on Tuesday, Feb. 28, for performances through Sunday, March 5.

This season The Greatest Show on Earth has brought sixteen brand new acts, with performers from twenty-three different countries - many making their world debuts - to its star-studded roster.

Featured in this 108th edition is Elvin Balem, the handsome blond serialist who has firmly established himself as the unchallenged champion of dare-deviltry. Charley Baumann, the classical master of wild animal training, commands 15 snarling Siberian and Royal Bengal tigers in a series of amazing tricks that includes a six-tiger roll-over.

Jewell New making his debut in the steel enclosure of Ring #2 is a young American-born trainer. He puts 15 savage male lions through their paces, and climaxes his performance by taking one mighty-maned monarch on a jaunt around the ring on the back of a motorcycle.

Trainer Buckles Woodcock, in his first appearance with The Greatest Show on Earth, mixes leopards and pachyderms for an eye full of thrilling action, while wife Barbara and young Benny Williams, showcase the talents of Anna May, the elephant empress, in another ring.

The King Charles Troupe, wizards of the unicycle celebrating their tenth anniversary with The Greatest Show on Earth, blends basketball with balance in an exhibit of razzle-dazzle ball handling and high-speed hilarity that leaves audiences breathless.

Michu, the world's smallest man returns to demonstrate the old adage that good things come in small packages!

The world renowned Flying Geonias, Mexico's first family of the air, unmatched in grace and elegance furnish mid-air miracles when Tito Geonia, for the first in the history of the flying trapeze executes an incredible, unprecedented quadruple somersault.

The Greatest Show on Earth continues to overwhelm the audience with an array of stellar artists, including the Kehalvot, The Obloksis, and the Wozniaks teeterboard titans. Foot Juggling by the Angeles, and not to forget the four spectacular production extravaganzas and contingency of clowns.

All this is coming to the Norfolk Scope Feb. 28 through March 5th. Tickets are on sale now at the Scope Box Office and all Scope ticket outlets. Prices are $6.50; $8.50; $4.50; with $1.00 for children at selected performances. For further information call 441-2161.

Charley Baumann, the Titan of the Tigers, whose animal training expertise has been hailed by audiences around the world, receives an affectionate embrace from Kismet, Charley's playful pet feline. Charley Baumann and his magnificent tigers are featured in the exciting 108th Edition of Ringling Bros. and Barnum & Bailey Circus.

Cacalano exhibits paintings at Beach Art Center

The Virginia Beach Arts Center is currently showing 46 paintings by Tony Cacalano in another of its series honoring leading Virginia artists.

Cacalano, who currently teaches at Old Dominion University and at the Arts Center, has taught in the past at Norfolk State College and at East Carolina University. He is a product of the Yale Graduate School. Cacalano has a style of richly painted surfaces depicting still life and women that has deep evocations of Matisse along with a vigorous, expressionist attack. His recent works are on a small scale, resulting in an intense, jewel like effect.

The exhibit continues through Feb. 26th. Arts Center hours are from 9 to 5 Tuesday through Thursday and 10 a.m. until 6 p.m. on Friday. Mrs. Gibson's work is displayed for sale.

Gibson art displayed at Hilltop

The artwork of Elizabeth Bowden Gibson is now being displayed at Mutual Federal Savings and Loan's Hilltop North office in Virginia Beach. The show is scheduled to run through the end of February. Mrs. Gibson is showing a wide variety of her work, including oils and watercolors of wildlife and seascape scenes and some oriental paintings.

A native of Norfolk, Mrs. Gibson previously taught in the Norfolk public schools. Her work has been shown at the Virginia Beach Board of Art Show, Longwood College and the Chrysler Museum.

Hours for the show are from 10 a.m. until 5 p.m., Monday through Thursday and 10 a.m. until 6 p.m. on Friday. Mrs. Gibson's work is displayed for sale.

Skate-a-thon seeks roller skaters

The Virginia Lung Association invites all roller skaters to participate in a six hour Skate-A-Thon to be held on George Washington's Birthday, Feb. 20, at the Roll-R-Way near Aragona Village Shopping Center in Virginia Beach. The theme of the event will be "Skate for Life and Breath" and the funds raised will be spent to help fight lung diseases in Virginia.

The price of a ticket to skate will be only $1. and prizes will be awarded for the most money collected and turned over to the Lung Association.

The first prize will be a 10-speed bike; second prize is a pair of roller skates and third prize is one month's free skating.

For further information about the Skate-A-Thon, you may contact the Virginia Lung Association at 855-3059, or Roll-R-Way at 499-2200.

Information sheets and sponsor forms are available at both locations.

Expert demonstrates decorating

Mrs. Raymond L. Bryant of Williamsburg will demonstrate "18th Century Arrangements for 20th Century Homes" on Thursday Feb. 23 at 10:30 a.m. in the Fellowship Hall of King's Grant Presbyterian Church.

Mrs. Bryant, and accredited National Flower Show judge, is an expert on 18th century plants, flowers and arrangements. She has taught classes for the city of Williamsburg Recreation Department and lectured for the Colonial Williamsburg Lecture Bureau.

Her authentic 18th century style arrangements have graced the exhibition buildings and guest houses for visiting dignitaries at Colonial Williamsburg. The demonstration is being sponsored by the Council of Garden Clubs of Virginia Beach and is open to the public. Tickets are $1.50 and available at the door.

Horseley places as outstanding

Donald H. Horseley of Virginia Beach was named second place winner in the Virginia Outstanding Young Farmer of 1978 contest during the Virginia Jaycee's annual "state awards" weekend.

Some 800 people attended the OYF recognition luncheon held at the Fort Magruder Inn in Williamsburg Feb. 4. First place winner was Gerald A. Heatwole of Keokuk, Iowa; third place went to Peter D. Sprinkle of Fencastle.

"The Outstanding Young Farmers from communities throughout our state who are guests here this afternoon," State Jaycee Chairman Steve Habeger said, "are representatives of the thousands of farmers and ranchers who produce the food and fiber which makes America the best-fed and best-clothed nation in the history of the world.

"Through these personal contact, and through the local, state, and national awards programs, it is hoped to foster a better understanding and appreciation of the men engaged in our oldest, our biggest, and our most essential industry."

Heatwole and his wife, Anita, will receive trips to Topeka, Kansas, where the nation's Four Outstanding Young Farmers will be named. The national program is sponsored by Deere & Company, manufacturers of John Deere farm equipment and administered by the U. S. Jaycees.

The criteria for judging at the local, state, and U. S. Jaycees levels is progress in farming, soil and natural resource conservation practices, and contribution to community well-being.

Judges in the competition were: Dr. M. F. Ellmore, Director of Agronomy and Natural Resources at VPI & SU, Blacksburg; O. B. Roller of Bridgewater, Assistant State Supervisor for Agricultural Education for Virginia; and Bernard Van De Weert, owner and operator of a large, successful dairy farm in King George.

'Tom Jones' brings on the lusty 1700's

By RHONDA MILLER
SUN Staff Writer

The lustiness of the 1700's arrives in the lusty 70's with the rowdy, musical story of Tom Jones and his amusing friends at the Tidewater Dinner Theatre of the Stars through Feb. 19.

If entertainment in Chesapeake gets too calm, a trip to the dinner theatre just down the road at Lake Wright could liven up a quiet evening.

The girls are cheery and loose, the men are bawdy. Strutting Tom plays his masculinity against the artfully controlled whining of Bliff, the primed-up scholar.

Throw in Dr. Twackham and Mr. Square joining up with Bliff for hilarious singing and strutting, and the whole cast becomes a wild crew that deepens the audience laughing.

The play ends, of course, with Tom falling in love with the lovely (and sweet) Sophia, in spite of all the attempts to delay him by the town ladies.

The Great Victrola Amusement Company keeps the movement fast and rolling and rollicking enough to be 1978.

Wilson, district sales manager who calls on Conn Organ dealers in the Southeastern states, received the award for franchising the largest number of Conn Organ dealers in 1977. He was tied with three other district sales managers who received an equal award.

Conn Organ is headquartered in Oak Brook, Ill., with engineering and national service departments in Elkhart, Ind., and manufacturing plants in Madison, Ind., and Greer, S. C.

The Cavalier Junior Woman's Club is having its annual cutest child contest Feb. 25 at the Stepping Stones, a children's apparel shop at Fairfield Square on Providence Road in Kempsville.

The contest is open to the public for children six months through five years of age. The picture may be a snapshot or studio portrait, no larger than eight by ten. It may be color or black and white. The picture must have been taken within the last year.

A one-dollar entry fee should be included with each picture, send as many pictures as you like, but include an entry fee with each one. On the back of each picture list the name, age, address, phone number and parents' name of the child. The deadline for submitting pictures is Feb. 22.

Pictures may be mailed to Mrs. Sue Williams, 5109 Falls Mead Downs, Virginia Beach, Va. 23462. For further information you may call 430-4474 or 499-0012.

Leading rebounder

James Stuart Nesbitt of Virginia Beach is currently the leading rebounder as a co-captain of the varsity basketball team at Randolph-Macon Academy in Front Royal.

A senior at the college-preparatory school, Nesbitt's best game came on Feb. 8 versus Woodberry Forest School when the 6'2" forward tallied 16 points and pulled down ten rebounds.

The son of Mr. and Mrs. D. C. Nesbitt, of Franklin Drive, Nesbitt will be a participant in the Virginia Prep League Tournament, scheduled for Feb. 23-25 in Richmond.

Art experience held at Dome

The Virginia Beach Youth and College Branch of the NAACP will present "An Arts and Dance Experience" Friday at the Dome.

The "arts" phase of the program will feature Zelnick/Phase III Dance Company of New York. Music for the "dance" phase of the program will be provided by the group Morning Noon and Night. Tyrone Little of Virginia Beach is vocalist and bass guitarist for the dance group.

The performance will begin at 7 p.m. Tickets are $4 in advance and $4.50 at the door. They may be purchased at the Dome or from any NAACP member.

Kline appointed chairman

"One of every two people who will die this year in Tidewater will die of cardiovascular disease. The frightening statistics are that 2,731 deaths here and over half of all American deaths from all causes are the result of diseases of the heart and blood vessels," noted Jimmy Kline, of Virginia Beach new chairman of the 1978 Heart Drive.

Kline's new appointment was announced today by William Hoffer Jr., MD, President of the Tidewater Heart Association. Kline is the president of Kline Chevrolet.

"Heart disease is far and away America's number one killer," said Kline. "With over 600,000 Americans killed last year and 29 million more who have been affected these statistics could very well have been brought home, literally, to families here."

"And in addition to the deaths, 29,780,000 will pay their share of the $28.5 billion 1978 cost for lost output due to disability, medical care, drugs, hospitalization and rehabilitation."

As chairman, Kline will coordinate volunteers in the February drive, when heart-saving materials will be distributed and money will be collected to pay for the Tidewater Heart Association's research, education and community service programs.

"We're fighting to reduce premature death and disability," said Kline. He urged all Tidewater residents to be generous with their life-saving money when the volunteers call. "Only broad-based public financial support can give us an edge," he said, "because we're fighting for the lives of two out of the four persons who will be from Tidewater."

Kline also announced his appointment of the following key committee chairmen: Bluford B. Graves, Tidewater chapter business chairman; Edward Cooke, business chairman of Chesapeake; Richard Morris, business chairman of Virginia Beach; J. Edward Watson, III, business chairman of Norfolk; Ron Williams, campaign chairman for Suffolk; Billy J. Holleman, campaign chairman for Isle of Wight; and Edward Minor, business chairman for Franklin.

Long-sage action at Chowan

Douglas James Long of Cary, N.C. is a regular on Chowan College's conference champion basketball team. He plays guard. Seen in action above, (No. 15) he is a graduate of Princess Anne High School and son of Mr. and Mrs. Douglas J. Long Sr.

Guided by new coach Jerry Smith, the Braves have compiled a 16-4 mark overall and captured the Eastern Tarheel Athletic Conference with a 7-0 record.

They have played in and won three overtime games including two in double overtime. Chowan has scored more than 100 points in five games, all wins.

Training available for handicapped

Are you one of the fortunate persons born without a handicapping condition? Many people are not so fortunate.

There are a number of Virginia Beach citizens who are developmentally disabled and are presently institutionalized because there is no other place for them to live. Many of these persons could live outside of the institutions if homes could be found for them in the community.

Tidewater Community College in cooperation with the Virginia Beach Mental Health and Mental Retardation Services Board is offering a 15-week training program to persons interested in providing a home for a handicapped individual on a short or long term basis.

Classes will run from April 3 through July 14.

Training includes ten weeks of classroom study followed by five weeks of practical on-the-job training. Classes will be held at the Camp Pendleton Center of Tidewater Community College.

College credit will be given to qualified persons completing the program. An hourly wage will be paid to those who are income eligible.

If you would like to share your home with a handicapped person and would like additional information regarding this program, call Nancy Shade with Tidewater Community Center at 422-9815.

"Skate for Life and Breath"

The Virginia Lung Association invites all roller skaters to participate in a six hour skate-a-thon to be held on George Washington's Birthday, Feb. 20, at the Roll-R-Way near Aragona Village Shopping Center.

The Theme of the event will be "Skate for Life and Breath" and the funds raised will be spent to help fight lung disease in Virginia.

The price of a ticket to skate will be $1. Prizes will be awarded for the most money collected and turned over to the Lung Association. The first prize at each roller skating facility will be a 10-speed bike, second prize is a pair of roller skates and third prize is one month's free skating.

For further information contact the Virginia Lung Association or Roll-R-Way.

Wilkins honored by Jaycees

Alfred T. (Skip) Wilkins of Virginia Beach, Director of the Crisis Intervention Home, was one of the five recipients honored recently at the Virginia Jaycee's winter board meeting held in Williamsburg, the presentation of the annual Five Outstanding Young Men of Virginia awards.

The five winners, judged to be Virginia's Outstanding Young Men for 1978 also included Howard E. Copeland of Norfolk, an attorney in the firm of Landrum and Copeland; Stephen H. Detwiler of Arlington, Vice President of First Federal Savings and Loan of Arlington; Nathan H. Miller of Bridgewater, an attorney and partner in the firm of Conrad, Litten, Siz, and Miller; and Paul S. Trible of Tappahannock, who is a member of the U.S. House of Representatives from Virginia's First District.

The five winners were selected by a panel of distinguished judges from some 70 nominees submitted by organizations throughout the state. Candidates were judged on the basis of their contribution to the welfare of their community, state, and nation during 1977 and in preceding years.

Any young man between the ages of 18 and 36 is eligible for the award, and he need not be a Jaycee or a local OYM member.

This year's judges were: Donald P. Hearsh of Newport News who is Director of NASA Langley Research center; Dr. Laurence V. Lauth of Wytheville, President of Wytheville Community College; Paul W. Pendorff of Portsmouth, General Manager of the International Division of Virginia Chemicals, Inc. and a past recipient of the Ten Outstanding Young Men of America; William Roy Smith of Petersburg, Senior Vice President of A. H. Robins; and Dr. Noel C. Taylor, Mayor of the City of Roanoke.

The 1978 OYM Program was sponsored by Virginia's JCI Senate.

Williams, Herron exchange vows

Miss Linda Marie Williams, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Lankford Belmont Williams, of Chesapeake, Virginia, became the bride of Mr. Daniel Lewis Herron, of Fink Hill, N.C., son of Mrs. Eva M. Herron and the late Eugene Herron, Saturday, Feb. 11.

The ceremony took place in Indian River Baptist Church with Rev. James L. Finley officiating, pastor of the church.

The bride given in marriage by her father, wore a formal gown of satelustre organza.

The bodice features a Queen Ann neckline trimmed in Chantilly lace. The sheer bishop sleeves had Chantilly lace motifs and cuffs. The organza skirt and attached chapel train are framed by the long chapel length mantilla of Chantilly Lace and Illusion.

She carried a white Bible with white roses, baby breath and a white orchid.

Mrs. Charles Lee Mason, Jr., of Richmond, the bride's sister, was the matron of honor, and Miss Patricia White of Chesapeake, was the Maid of Honor.

The bridesmaids wore Mrs. L. H. Pratt, Jr. of Chesapeake, Miss Debra Hobbs and Miss Vickie Williamson of Virginia Beach, and Miss Cheryl LaRay Mason was her aunt's junior bride's maid.

The attendants were dressed alike in floor length gowns of red knit with V-neck banded waists with long flowing coats of same fabric with long sleeves trimmed in maribu the same color of the gowns.

Master Charles Lee Mason III, the brides nephew of Richmond, was the ring bearer.

Richard Palmer, of Virginia Beach, served as best man for the groom. The groomsmen were Mr. Charles Lee Mason, Jr., brother in law of the bride, of Richmond, Virginia, Mr. Henry Palmer, uncle of the groom, and Mr. Raymond Palmer, of Chesapeake. Mr. Frank Jamison, Mr. George St. Amand of Virginia Beach.

A reception was held immediately following the ceremony in the church social hall.

A luncheon was held on December 10, at the Virginia Reel Restaurant by her aunt Mrs. Ella Webb.

Another luncheon was held at the Sizzler Steak House, Va. Beach by her sister Mrs. Charles Lee Mason, Jr., and another aunt Mrs. Dean Potter, Jr., on January 14.

A tea given in the bride's honor was held on Sunday afternoon, January 15, by Mrs. James A. Cutchins, Sr. and Mrs. Paul E. Jalemon.

Another tea was held by Mrs. Frank Jamison of Virginia Beach, on January 22.

A shower was held at the home of Miss Debra Hobbs in Virginia Beach on January 26.

A luncheon was held at the Seawall in Portsmouth, on January 28, by Mrs. Raymond Whitehurst and Miss Pamela and Patricia Whitehurst.

Mrs. Raymond Whitehurst served as the bride's mistress of ceremonies.

After a Southern wedding trip the couple will be at home at 901 Hubard Drive, Chesapeake.

Transportation forum to be held Feb. 16

Transportation needs of the elderly and handicapped in Southeastern Virginia will be the major topic of discussion at a public Regional Transportation Forum on Thursday, Feb. 16.

The forum will be held at 7:30 p.m. at Old Dominion University, Room 104-Arts and Letters Building (adjacent to Hampton Boulevard). The designated building is designed to accommodate wheelchair users.

Area citizens are being urged to attend and participate in the session, the second in a series to promote public awareness of the regional planning process and to acquaint and involve citizens with the phases of the Transportation Planning Program.

Speakers for the program include Constance A. Laws who is currently a planner with the Planning Council. She has planned and chaired numerous local workshops and conferences on services for the elderly and handicapped.

Glenn R. Campbell, Executive Director of SEVAMP

Senior Services will speak on the role of his agency in providing area transportation assistance. Campbell also serves as chairman of the Virginia Association on Aging and is a member of the Board of Directors for the Virginia Council of Social Welfare.

James C. Echols, Executive Director of the Tidewater Transportation District Commission (TTDC), will address funding resources for special transportation services as well as the assistance programs currently in operation for the elderly and handicapped through TTDC. TTDC was created in 1973 to improve public transportation in the cities of Virginia Beach, Chesapeake, Portsmouth, Suffolk and Norfolk.

The program is being sponsored by the Southeastern Virginia Planning District Commission in conjunction with the School of Business, Department of Finance and the Institute of Urban Studies at Old Dominion University.

Beach abounds with job applications

By LEE CAHILL
Public Affairs Writer

Virginia Beach which employs 3500 persons received applications for employment from 10,804 people during 1977.

City Manager George L. Hanbury said that since the city is required to hold applications for two years, it now has on file 25,000 applications.

He told city council that, to cut down on the number of applications, applicants will be asked to fill out a three by five card. On the basis of information on the card, the personnel office will decide from which of the applicants to accept a full application.

Councilman Floyd E. Waterfield Jr. inquired whether the city had any residency requirement.

The city has never had a residency requirement, Hanbury said, which prompted Waterfield to suggest that the city should give priority to its own residents.

Councilman George R. Ferrell noted that there were "too many cars in the parking lot with out-of-state tags." He said many of the employees pay taxes elsewhere.

Couple renews 50th wedding vows

cently. Following the ceremony at Beach Church, the couple was honored at a reception given by their Ralph, of Virginia Beach; and Kathleen, Michael and Larry, all of Norfolk.

The Pledgers, married in Columbia, North Carolina, have been Tidewater residents since 1941. They have seven grandchildren and two great grandchildren.

TCC Black Alliance to sponsor fashion show

Margaret Snowden

As part of the Black History Month activities at the Virginia Beach Campus of Tidewater Community College, the Black Student Alliance (BSA) will sponsor a fashion show on Feb. 16th entitled "Shades of Ebony".

Margaret Snowden, vice-president of the BSA, will model an ensemble that displays the official symbol of the Second World Black and African Festival of Arts and Culture (FESTAC) held in Lagos, Nigeria last year.

Other BSA members will be wearing attire from the casual to the exotic.

Ma. Berny Anyiwo, a former TCC student from Nigeria, will narrate the fashion show.

The show will begin at 12:30 p.m. in Building B, Room 100 and is free and open to the public.

Don't forget eyes

Many Virginia Beach taxpayers forget to include their optometrist's bill in their medical deductions when filing out their tax forms. According to the Virginia Optometric Association, many people do not realize that costs for vision examinations and prescription eyewear are a legitimate health care expense.

Taxpayers may include in their medical deductions the total cost of optometric examinations, prescription eyeglasses, as the optometric examinations, prescription eyeglasses, prescription sunglasses, contact lenses and incidental fees such as the optometrist's charges for verifying and adjusting prescription glasses. The cost of contact lens cleaning and soaking solutions may also be deducted, if prescribed or if the optometrist gave special instructions on when and how to use them.

Persons who bought non-prescription reading glasses off department store counters should check with the Internal Revenue Service or a tax advisor about whether or not they can include the costs as a medical deduction.

Non-prescription health aids are a questionable item. As a general rule, they are not deductible but there are certain conditions under which they may be. It is best to check. The Virginia Optometric Association also noted that special contact lens insurance may be deductible under the insurance section of the medical deduction.

The optometric group added that the eye care deduction is a tax break for just about everyone, since almost everybody needs to have their eyes examined once a year to detect vision problems and eye diseases early. Persons with severe vision handicaps should check with their optometrist about obtaining legal blindness certification to qualify them for special tax exemptions.

Pollution

Though the ordinances the board expects to reduce the vehicular traffic by 11 percent by next year. The ordinances will which will be legally enforceable may include restriction of parking, which will discourage people from using their cars, and possibly the imposition of tolls on highways.

McDonald said that the standards established, under the act have to be reasonably attainable, but that he believes that more reasonable standards are the only answer for the area. He pointed out that standards may be attainable but not reasonable. The standards are established to meet the requirements of the most sensitive people (such as asthma sufferers). The problem with trying to free the air of pollutants is that ozone travels with the pressure systems, from west to east, so that this region tends to inherit all the pollutants along the way. If traffic were reduced here and not west of here, the ozone count may still be too high.

The region includes all the jurisdictions south of Chesapeake Bay, Accomack and Northampton Counties, and the Eastern Shore of James City Isle of Wight and Southampton Counties. He said the rural counties have ozone counts above the permissible standard, but "we don't know what we're going to do about them."

Suppose a jurisdiction doesn't comply? The government may then apply sanctions by cutting off highway funds and not allowing further industrial growth.

The Richmond area will be faced with cutting down vehicular traffic by 86 percent and the Washington area by 73 percent, McDonald said.

Automobiles manufactured since 1973 have controls which reduce the emission of hydrocarbons by 90 percent, McDonald said, and it was thought that these controls would bring the region in compliance with the ozone standard. "Nothing happened," he said.

He said that the ozone occurrence is hard to understand. It is here one day and gone the next. The season lasts from April through October.

The Metropolitan Planning Organization on which Virginia Beach is represented by Councilman John R. Griffin, is the agency which is expected to come up with a plan to for compliance.

McDonald said there is no approved state plan and that all industrial development will cease unless a formal plan is adopted because approval for the industrials will not be given by the Environmental Protection Agency.

McDonald said that Fort Wolf, North Dakota, with no ozone reading, was used as the starting point for measuring the occurrence of ozone. As the clean Arctic air makes its way from Fort Wolf eastward, he said, it picked up ozone along the way.

The result, however is not cumulative, he said, because some of it is absorbed by other elements in the air. The end result, still, is higher than acceptable ozone count for Tidewater.

City Manager George L. Hanbury said that if the provision of the act were carried out to the fullest "it will be disastrous."

Councilman Dr. J. Henry McCoy said, "there is no doubt about it, the life style will change."

Mayor Clarence A. Holland said that he would like a positive program, but a realistic one. "It's difficult to wipe out 100 years (of development) in a matter of five years."

Councilwoman Meyers Oberndorf asked if there were "any middle ground."

Expenses

and their wives at the city's expense of over $10,000 including first class air fare.

City Manager George L. Hanbury said there had been an unwritten policy that spouses be permitted to accompany their husbands or wives on one trip a year. Hanbury himself had as a condition of his employment as city manager in 1974 permission to have his wife accompany him on business trips at city expense. The agreement was approved by council and signed by then Mayor J. Curtis Payne.

Cromwell, who had asked the other Council members to submit suggestions, said that only John Baum and Meyers Oberndorf had made any suggestions.

Baum for the second time asked whether the regulations should define which meetings would be approved. Cromwell said that this was considered but that meetings are so varied that the committee decided to leave the selection up to department heads.

Hanbury suggested that there were some meetings like the Municipal League to which all council members may want to go.

Cromwell said that he the committee had sought information on travel from other cities and found that the "answers were guarded and extremely reluctant." He said later that he was told by one person that "appointing a councilman to head the committee was like appointing a fox to look over the chickens."

Utilities position favorable for Beach

by Lee Cahill
Public Affairs Writer

Virginia Beach's five-year, $50 million water and sewer program is ahead of schedule and chances are that more utilities construction will be completed than was anticipated with the $39.9 million revenue bond money approved by referendum last year to complete the program.

City Manager George L. Hanbury remarked on the city's favorable position in the utilities field following questions about the inclusion of Croatan Beach in the city's water program.

Mrs. Reba McClanan, president of the Virginia Beach Association of Civic Leagues, asked whether neighborhoods on the priority lists would be overlooked to provide for water Croatan Beach. Croatan Beach is not on the priority list.

Hanbury explained that none of the neighborhoods on the priority list was being overlooked and that funds for neighborhoods not on the list have been set aside and are being used for water when 75 percent of the residents petition for water and when 51 percent of the residents petition for sewer.

Although approximately $750,000 has been set aside for this purpose, most of the costs for the installation will be borne eventually by the property owners. Although the work at Croatan will cost approximately $380,000, only a small part of this will be paid for by the city.

Mrs. McClanan said she was "surprised" when she saw the Croatan Beach item on the agenda because she had understood that much of the neighborhood was being held for motels and hotels and includes property owned by people not year-round residents. She said "the people acted in good faith in supporting the referendum" and that the inclusion of Croatan placed it on top of the list.

Hanbury said that where 75 percent of the citizens petition for water (76 percent of the property owners in Croatan signed the petition) the city will try to accommodate them. He added that since sewer projects are more expensive, funds may not be available for their construction within the $750,000 set aside for these neighborhoods which are not on the priority lists.

The five-year program was adopted to bring water and sewer into old neighborhoods. In new construction, contractors are responsible for installing water and sewer lines.

Hanbury said that some of the work projected through the bond issue is being done with federal drought relief funds including one million dollars in a grant and two million in a loan. This will free money from the bond issue for more utilities construction, he said.

Council Monday afternoon approved the Croatan Beach Program where Hanbury said the majority of the private wells are experiencing some problems relating to taste, odor and salt water intrusion. He added that the proximity of septic tanks to the well may also be a health problem.

Rezoning petition opposed

by Lee Cahill
Public Affairs Writer

Unfortunately for the Honeyeater Corporation, Grady N. Bush was not at sea and Reba McClanan not out of town. As a result they were present Monday afternoon to oppose the petition of the corporation for a change of zoning from R-6 Residential District to O-1 Office District on a 334-acre parcel at the southwest corner of Rosemont Road and Forest Glen Road.

Concurring with the Planning Commission, the Virginia Beach city councilmen said the petition with an unanimous vote by the nine members present, Council John R. Griffin, who made the motion, said that the drainage ditch which passes through the block on which the Honeyeater property is located forms a natural dividing line between the residential area of single family home to the north and the property zoned A-1 (apartments) and O-1 (office) to the south.

A piece of property just south of the ditch on Rosemont

Road was recently rezoned for office use.

Bush said that he would have opposed that, too, except that he was at sea at the time.

Mrs. McClanan, president of the Virginia Beach Association of Civic Leagues said that he was out of town at the time. Both were present Monday with Mary Norman, who with Bush, represented the Windsor Woods residents.

Attorney Donald Rhodes, representing the petitioner, said that plans were to locate a residential sales office on the site, and that it was the "highest and best use" of the property.

The residents claimed it would set a precedent for future rezoning and would add to the traffic problem on Rosemont Road. Fifty landowners signed a petition opposing the rezoning.

Mrs. McClanan said that roads like Rosemont are improved to give better access to the residents of the area, but any advantages gained are lost when "people came along and add to the traffic."

Little League registers

The Virginia Beach Little League will hold registration Feb. 17 and 24 at the Virginia Beach Junior High cafeteria. The sign-ups will be held from 6:30 p.m. to 9 p.m. each day. Registration fee is $12 for one child and $5 additional for any other child in one family. A birth certificate must be brought to the registration. Boys and girls aged 8-14 are eligible. A general meeting of all interested parents will be held Feb. 23 at the junior high auditorium at 7 p.m.

The U.S. Government Awards the Ram-Jet Supercharger Patent No. 3118435. And other patents pending

NOW! BETWEEN 1 TO 7 MORE MILES PER GALLON FOR YOUR CAR

New Ram-Jet Actually "Jet Assists" Your Car Engine... Makes It Burn Up To 15 Gallons Of Air For Every Gallon Of Gas... And Gives You As Much As 15% More Clean Power! Jet Like Acceleration!

We believe Ram-Jet is the most exciting piece of high-performance automotive equipment since the V-8. Yet it weighs only a few ounces. Installs in a couple of minutes (No special tools or training needed. You won't even get your hands greasy). Costs less than a tankful of gas. And saves you so much gas, it's like getting up to one gallon in every ten FREE!

The brainchild of Ed Almquist, internationally famous automotive engineer and the "Thomas Edison of high-performance accessories" The Ram-Jet took over 20 years to develop and perfect.

How does it work?

Just as a jet engine requires a certain supply of air to operate, so does the gasoline combustion engine in your car. And it's the carburetor that mixes this air with fuel to fire the cylinders and make your car go. The problem is that carburetors were invented over 50 years ago when gas was plentiful and cheap and air pollution wasn't even talked about. The carburetor hasn't changed much since then. It's still a big compromise! It only works perfectly on those rare occasions when all driving conditions are perfect (Which averages only a couple of minutes at the most out of every driving hour.) Your carburetor just can't efficiently adjust itself to your stop-and-go driving, sudden bursts of speed, or to put it in technical terms... those many occasions when your engine is operating under 10-15 "high-load" conditions. When this crucial mixture of air and gas is not right, on the money, the result is a loss of power with a lot more gas being burned than is really necessary!

SIMPLE INSTRUCTIONS
Easy instructions show you how to install in just a few minutes. No special tools. No training needed. Fits all cars and trucks.

Now, at last, the Ram-Jet to the rescue! It solves both problems at once. It brings you 50-year-old carburetor design into the Jet Age.

1) It works like a "mini-computer" to automatically adjust the air/gas mixture to your every driving need. It thus steps up gas molecularization... reducing the over-rich mixture before it becomes wasteful. Just as a jet engine sucks air into it... the Ram-Jet automatically and safely jets air into the gas mixture the very split second your driving conditions require it.

2) It captures the polluted air that would ordinarily be fed back into your engine... and re-energizes it into a "Jet Stream" that is once again ignited into useful clean power instead of clogging up your engine and making it hesitate and stall and waste gasoline and power.

Thousands of similar devices sold in Europe for more than $20 a piece. The Ram-Jet Supercharger is now available to you for just $14.95.

Because of a special arrangement, it comes to you direct (no middlemen) from the inventor/manufacturer himself, Mr. Ed Almquist.

WHAT DO PEOPLE SAY ABOUT THE RAM-JET SUPERCHARGER?
"An airline pilot writes: 'I have a Ram-Jet. And so do many of my passengers. Suddenly my little six cylinder engine seems to have the power of an eight. Yet it saves gas like it was a four. That little Ram-Jet is amazing!'" — Phil Shedd, Plymouth, Conn.

"The Rev. P. Mich Harvey, Illinois
GREATEST GUARANTEE IN AUTOMOTIVE HISTORY: THE 100,000 MILE 100% MONEY BACK GUARANTEE. Anytime within the next 100,000 miles you put on your car, if you don't think the Ram-Jet Supercharger is the best automotive investment you've ever made, simply return it to us for a full money back refund. No questions asked. (And don't forget—with the Ram-Jet turning pollution into free power instead of turning it back into your engine, it's no telling how many extra power-packed miles you'll be able to log on your engine before it's ready for the junk heap.)"

Oyster Roast comes to the rescue for squad

Bob Montgomery on trombone, Ziggy Harrell on cornet and Tommy Gwaltney on clarinet, entertain the crowd with some fine music. The band played jazz, Dixieland and some popular tunes for the pleasure of their audience.

[L to R] Betsy Shiden, of 26th and Baldie; Kay Petersen, of Chapel Hill, N.C.; Nick Nicholson, proprietor of Nick's Hospitality Restaurant; and Lynne Moring of Chapel Hill, N.C., all pitched in to serve the hungry crowd at the Dome on Sunday. Like many of the servers, the girls worked for Nicholson at his restaurant and came to help out at the fund raising event.

Michael Bell and Kim Troutman are sitting on the stage while Kim tries to keep time with the band.

Four years ago the Virginia Beach Rescue Squad, serving the Virginia Beach Borough, took Nick Nicholson, proprietor of Nick's Hospitality Restaurant on Laskin Road, to the hospital. Composed of volunteers, the squad did not charge Nicholson for their services. This impressed the man and he wanted in turn to help them.

Everyone has their specialties and Nicholson's was food. He decided to sponsor an oyster feast to help raise funds for the squad. That was three years ago. The feast was so successful, that it has become an annual event.

This year, the Rotary Club of Virginia Beach worked in conjunction with Nicholson and the squad because the feasts were getting to be too much for just one man to run the whole show.

The Rotary Club sold the majority of the tickets for the feast last Sunday, handled the money, helped with the leg work and cleaned up and provided the momentum as far as the fund raising aspect of the feast, said Fred W. Twyman III, 1821 Cooper Road. Twyman is a rescue squad man and was the fund drive chairman for the event. "So many people came this year, it was a sell out," said Dick Swops, a Rotarian and the chairman for this event. There were 1,000 tickets sold at $12 a piece. The feast was prepared to serve 1,000 oyster loving people.

Nicholson said that they had 65 bushels of oysters, 60 gallons of shucked oysters for oyster stew, 80 gallons of clam chowder, 900 lbs. of barbeque plus coleslaw, baked beans, rolls, crackers and enough coffee, soft drinks and beer for everyone.

Tommy Gwaltney and the Dixieland All Stars, musicians from the Tidewater area, provided the entertainment occasion. They played music to eat by as well as to dance. Except for the minimum amount that their union requires that they charge, the band donated their talent and tunes for the benefit of the squad.

The food servers were all volunteers who donated their time to help raise funds for the squad. Everyone seemed to be more than willing to help with the success of the fund drive.

Twyman said that they raised about $5,000 in profits from the feast last year and expected more with this one. The money goes into the squad's general fund and is used for operating expenses and purchasing equipment. They buy one ambulance a year and sometimes more depending on their needs.

Twyman said that the rescue squad has their own fund drive and that the feast was an extra benefit which the Rotary Club helped sponsor to help the squad meet their needs.

There are 60 volunteers on the Virginia Beach Borough Rescue Squad. There are always two men on duty and at night, there are four. They are on call 24 hours a day.

In 1977, this squad received a first place in the categories of custom carry-all vans and medium duty rescue trucks at a state convention in Richmond sponsored by the Virginia Association of Volunteer Rescue Squads.

Wilma and Wendy Wood donate their time to serve clam chowder and oyster stew to whoever wanted it. This is Wilma's third year on the serving line. Her daughter, Wendy, has helped the last two years.

Beach Little Theatre presents "Guys and Dolls"

Damon Runyon's Broadway characters live at the Little Theatre of Virginia Beach. Ed O'Donnell, left, is a high stakes gambler, Sky Masterson. Joyce Coustling is a marriage-minded showgirl, Miss Adelaide. For performance dates, times and reservations, call the Beach Little Theatre box office at 428-9523.

The Little Theatre of Virginia Beach is presenting the musical comedy "Guys and Dolls" on Friday and Saturday evenings, Feb. 17-18, Feb. 24-25 and March 3-4 at 8:30 p.m. Additional performances are scheduled for Thursday, Feb. 23 and Thursday, March 2 at 8 p.m. Sunday matinees will be held February 19 and 2 at 3 p.m.

Tickets are $3.75 for adults and $3 for students. For reservations, call the theatre box office at 428-9523.

Called "a musical fable of Broadway," the show was written by Frank Loesser, Jo Swerling and Abe Burrows, based on a story and characters by Damon Runyon. Song hits include "Bushel and a Peck," "If I were a Bell" and "Luck, Be a Lady."

Sergeant Sarah Brown, head of the Save-A-Soul Mission, is played by Marcie Murland, a frequent performer in local dinner theatre and community theatre productions. She was featured as Marian, the librarian, in the Virginia Beach Little Theatre production of "Music Man."

Ed O'Donnell plays Sky Masterson, the high-stakes gambler. O'Donnell sings with the Virginia Beach Civic Chorus and held lead roles in "Carousel" at Norfolk Little Theatre and "The Unstoppable Molly Brown" at Virginia Beach Little Theatre.

Gambler Nathan Detroit is played by Walter Halcigan, also a member of the Virginia Beach Civic Chorus. He played feature roles in Norfolk Little Theatre's "110 In The Shade" and "The Boyfriend" at Little Theatre of Virginia Beach.

Nathan's "fiancée," Miss Adelaide, is Joyce Coustling, one of Tidewater's best known musical comedy performers. She is president of the Little Theatre of Virginia Beach, and played leading roles in that theatrical group's productions of "Once Upon a Mattress," "Kiss Me Kate," "Kismet" and "Damn Yankees."

Director is Faye Whitlock, assisted by Ken Fraser. Janet Phelps is assistant musical director and accompanist. Dances and musical numbers are staged by Steven Malik, also a cast member.

The show features a large singing, dancing cast of more than 30 performers, including "The Hot Box Girls," a troupe of Broadway dance hall hoofers, and a colorful group of gamblers and craphooters.

The Little Theatre of Virginia Beach is located at 24th Street and Barberton Drive.

Classy, uptown show is special

"The Uptown Special." I don't know how they got their name, but the word "uptown" implies CLASS, and they certainly are special. The three young men present a real act. And they'll be performing their act at the Commodore Country Club on Friday Feb. 17th.

In between their out-of-town engagements you might have seen them at the Cavalier Playhouse, the Diamond Club (at Met Park), the Omni or Sheraton Hotels, the Jewish Community Center or B'nai Shalom Center.

They were formerly known as "The Madhatters" and provide a complete show, with singing, dancing and comedy. It must've cost a bundle to get this production launched; they use more props and costume changes than you could count.

Their music arrangements are tastefully and imaginatively decorated with stops, tempo changes, medleys and other professional routines that elevate them into the category of "productions." These vignettes take us through various eras of popular music of this century.

But lest they "lose the youngsters, they seldom stray too long into the past without presenting fine harmony on such contemporary favorites as I Write The Songs and "You Light Up My Life."

Mike Ziegler, Tom Luna and Garry Wills salute their home states with "Country Roads," "Alabama Jubilee," and "Mobile" (now THERE'S a swinging tune that oughta be revived). They pay tribute to "The Apple" with Leonard Bernstein's "New York, New York. (It's a helluva town)" as a lead-in to "Lullaby of Broadway" and "42nd Street." I especially enjoyed their "Stompin' at the Savoy."

When they get to the 1960's their antics will split your side. They dash backstage to quickly don their heads in a bucket to get the greasy-look. They then mimic through "L.A. Darling" (not the Neal Hefti-Count Basie tune), "The Great Pretender" and "Peppermint Twist" with show-stopping aplomb.

Much credit is due to veteran pianist Polly Martin, former secretary of Local 125, American Federation of Musicians. Polly coaches and accompanies the group through a logistical procedure I thought only a computer could program.

They even have a number of singers ready for the inevitable hecklers.

One of the nightmares most performers go through is the "talk-over"—in lieu of a real rehearsal. With the exception of week-long engagements in top nightclubs, rehearsals are dispensed with in order to save having to pay musicians. "The Uptown Special" are aware of this, and "carry" their own band, thereby doing justice to themselves and their audiences.

Remember the name—"Uptown Special." They're too good to miss.

Eric Stevens is active in the area as a bandleader and singer. During his 11 years in NY he played bass on Charlie Emsco's hit, "Frocherman," appeared on the Merv Griffin Show and wrote a series of pamphlets for singers.

If you'd like a catalog describing the pamphlets, write to POB 4115, Virginia Beach, 23454.

Beach students selected for regional band

The Senior Regional Band gathered for a concert Sunday.

Leo Imperial was the guest conductor for the Junior Regional Band held at Lake Taylor.

The 1978 District II Regional Band Concert was held last Saturday night at Lake Taylor High School in Norfolk.

District II comprises the Virginia Beach, Norfolk and Eastern Shore Areas. From these areas junior and senior high school band students compete for the 128 seats in each of the bands. This competition took place in December and after 27 hours of formal practice culminated in this concert on Feb. 11 to a standing room only audience.

The Junior Regional Band under the direction of Guest Conductor Leo Imperial began the concert with "The Battle of Jericho" by Charles Spinnay and followed through with several contemporary tunes concluding with the "Annie" overture by Charles Strouse from the current Broadway musical of the same name.

The Senior Regional Band under the direction of Guest Conductor Col. Arnold Gabriel of the USAF Band started their portion of the concert with the rousing march "Americans We" by Henry Fillmore and concluded with Tchaikovsky's "Finale to Symphony No. 4."

The amount of time and effort that went into this concert was evident by the outstanding musical fare provided by the students. Chairman Max Genoa of the Virginia Beach Band and Orchestra Directors Association and all the participating directors can take a bow for the wonderful job they have done with our band students.

Charise Jensen of Lynnhaven Junior High School awaits a call to play.

Beach Scout Highlights

Pack 999 honors their cubs

The American flag was presented to Cub Scout Pack 999 in Green Run by Charles Murello and Jim Burke of the Knights of Columbus, Assembly 4632, at the opening of the pack's last meeting.

Scouts honored at the meeting were:

Best car design was Jeff Brown (Webelos). Most original went to Charlie Kirk (Den 2).

Cub Scout awards were presented to the following:

Den 1-Eddie Allbrook-1 gold arrow, and 1 silver arrow;

Den 2-Steve Diaz-Bear badge, 1 gold arrow, 2 year pin, Peyton Chitty-Bear badge;

Den 3-Lance Galley-Bear badge, 1 gold and 1 silver arrow;

Den 5-Ken Brewer-Bobcat badge.

Steve Diaz and Michael

DeSonne moved up to Webelos.

Webelos awards were presented to:

Matthew Wollett-Webelos badge, artist, outdoorsman, sportsman, 2 yr. pin;

Tyrone Gibbs-Athlete badge, 1 yr. pin;

James Okonkwo-Citizen, showman, and sportsman badges;

Patrick Knighton-Artist and sportsman badges;

John Butrows, Jim my

Johnson, and Eric Lindenberg earned their athlete badges;

Tony Adamo was presented his craftsman, engineer, forester, outdoorsman, scholar, and scientist badges. He earned all six teen Webelos badges plus Cub Scouting highest honor-The Arrow of Light-and is going into Boy Scouting.

Special thanks to all parents who helped to build the race track for the pinewood derby.

Cubs receive various awards

Pack 64 opened its meeting at Lynnhaven Elementary on Jan. 27 by welcoming new bobcats, Kenneth Trotman and his parent; Chuck Stems and parents; Daniel O'Rowe and parent; and David Hendry and his parent.

Greg Gisham received a gold and silver arrow under wolf. Jimmy Reed received a gold and silver arrow under wolf. Tray Alexander received his bear badge.

The Webelos receiving awards were: Robert Tomasselli for citizen, naturalist, scholar and sportsman. David Brackett: scholar, showman and sportsman. Andy Stahler: citizen. Richard Rogers: citizen. Keith Walke: engineer and forester. David Cox: scientist. Michael Johnson: scientist. Kevin Brodin: citizen and scientist. Eric Burns: sportsman, and Eugene Murray: scientist and two year pin.

Leaders to receiving a patch and pin were Rosann Gisham, a trained den leader patch, and Irv. Brodin a one year pin.

At this time Scoutmaster Julian Cannon Sr. of Troop 435 was introduced along with Eagle Scout Mike Bickel, 1st Class Jeff Elms, Life Julian Cannon Jr. and Den Chief Tony Krug.

The meeting was then turned over to Akela, medicine man and two of the best archers in the tribe. They conducted a very impressive ceremony for a very important step in webelos achievement. This is the last step a Cub Scout makes before entering Boy Scouts.

These boys were Eric Burns, Robert Tomasselli and David Brackett. Scouting will be a grand adventure open to each of you on your 11th birthday. Good luck to all of you! Akela turned the meeting over to Scoutmaster Cannon, whom inducted David Cox and Eric Burns into his troop. Congratulations boys and good luck!!!!

February is the birthday of Scouting. We will be having our "Blue and Gold" dinner on Feb. 24 at Lynnhaven Elementary. Anyone wishing to help with the planning of this, please contact the Tomasselli's. Your help will be greatly appreciated.

Also our annual S.M.E. (Sustaining Membership Enrollment) Drive is starting. Our unit captain for Pack 64 will be Mrs. Trotman. These pledges help supplement the United Fund which is 50 percent. It also helps programmed services, office services and field services in Scouting.

Derby held by Pack 447

Cub Scout Pack 447 held its Pinewood Derby recently with many hot shot drivers awaiting the green flag.

The race was run in four segments which gave a winner in each of the three age groups and an overall pack winner.

awarded to Larry Kirkpatrick, Sam Leyendecker and Victor William Smith. Charles Schultz received a Bobcat.

First graders visit TCC

The Virginia Beach Campus of Tidewater Community College hosted one and thirty-five first graders from the College Park Elementary School on Friday, Jan. 27. The excited and inquisitive youngsters were on a supervised field trip to an institution of higher learning and spent more than an hour on the campus.

The first grade students visited and were shown materials and equipment in the geology, biology, and chemistry laboratories. All the resources of the library facilities, including TV and other audio visual equipment, were displayed for the children and their teachers.

A highlight of the trip was a view of the TCC seismograph which is one of only two such instruments in the state. This field trip was unanimously received as excellent educational experience for all.

Calling all talent for opening day parade

The Plaza Little League parade committee is now holding auditions and reservations for any local talent that would like to come out and perform during its annual opening day parade and Carnival.

This will be held on opening day, April 29, at 9 a.m., beginning at the little league field on Holland Road (near CL Pinck).

Scheduled performances can be made at your convenience on the first serve basis.

The first performance will be able to start at 10 a.m. that morning.

The committee is looking for any local talent, such as musical groups, puppet shows, square dancers or any other unusual talents.

There will be a small showmobile used as a stage at the field during the performances.

For further information please call, Carol Heine at 427-5592 or Joan Ware at 427-3255.

Final registrations will be April 10, with no applicants accepted after this date.

There are no prizes involved, just some good talent and a lot of fun.

Nominees announced to service academies

U.S. Sen. William M. Scott has announced his nominations to the United States Academies for classes beginning in July 1978.

Senator Scott, who is a member of the Armed Services Committee, said the selections were made primarily on the basis of merit examinations given to more than 300 applicants from throughout Virginia.

Scott's two principal nominees to the U.S. Naval Academy at Annapolis include Matthew Allan Turk of Virginia Beach. Alternate nominees to the U.S. Military Academy include Clarence Drumheller of Chesapeake.

Dolphin scholarships available to Beach

Virginia Beach students whose fathers are members or former members of the submarine force of the U.S. Navy may now apply for Dolphin Scholarships. There are currently 50 students enrolled in colleges and universities with Dolphin Scholarship Foundation assistance.

The scholarships are awarded to selected students who are sons or daughters of qualified submariners, enlisted or officer, who have served in the submarine force for five or more years after qualification, and also of personnel attached to a submarine support facility or vessel for six years or more.

These facilities include: submarine bases, submarine tenders or rescue vessels, submarine support activities or facilities, shipyards or other facilities whose primary mission is to support the submarine force, and force, group, or squadron staff personnel.

Time requirements in the submarine force are waived for dependents of submariners who have died while on active duty in the submarine service.

Scholarships are awarded upon recommendations of an impartial evaluation committee. Recommendations are based on academic proficiency, character, all-around ability and financial need. The scholarship award may supplement other aid, and the renewal of the award is contingent on the ability of the recipient to maintain scholastic proficiency and to meet the original requirements.

Support for these scholarships comes from the contributions of men and women in the submarine force and from the work of affiliated women's organizations.
